

LAST TRIBUTE TO SINGER PAID TODAY

Friends of All Classes to Show Marked Respect to Rose Bloch Bauer.

BOYS AMONG ADMIRERS

Persons of Every Estate Charmed and Cheered by Voice of Diva to Join at Services in Final Testimony of Affection.

Friends from every walk of life will gather today to pay their last tribute of love and respect to the late Rose Bloch Bauer, Portland's popular vocalist, who died at midnight Monday morning.

Private funeral services will be held at the late residence, 139 Nineteenth street North, at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. Public services will be held at Temple Beth Israel, Thirteenth and Main streets, at 2 o'clock.

The active pallbearers will be S. Hirsch, M. S. Hirsch, Sol Baum, I. Koshland, Leon Hirsch and M. Koshland. The honorary pallbearers will be A. Wolfe, E. Ehrman, I. N. Fleischer, Edgar E. Piper, T. G. Green, A. Feldenheimer, Dr. Gustav Baer and F. M. Seller.

Voice Brought Cheer to All. Mrs. Bauer's wonderful gift of voice and the charming condescension with which she used it to please persons in every rank and in every station brought her a personal following among the people of Portland probably unexampled by anyone. She was as ready to sing for the benefit of a company of deserving veterans as she was to appear in the drawing-room of the social elite. She was equally capable on the concert stage and in the church choir, with equal willingness and freedom at either.

Thus she endeared herself to all classes of people and her friends were legion. While the services at the Bauer residence this afternoon will be private, the services at the church will be open to the public. The simple ritual of the Jewish Church will be used. Edward Courson will preside at the organ.

Mrs. Elfreda Heller Weinstein has requested that all of Mrs. Bauer's pupils, as well as former pupils, attend the funeral.

Talents Early Were Noted.

As a schoolgirl Mrs. Bauer began to attract the attention of music critics with the remarkable strength and beauty of her voice. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bauer, recognized her in the development of her natural gift, and when she was but 17 they sent her to Vienna, where she studied and trained under some of the best vocalists of that city. She was graduated after several years from the Vienna Conservatory of Music.

Upon her return from Europe she at once came into prominence. She had frequent offers of leading positions on the grand opera stages, but she declined rather than surrender the comfort and content of her home life.

Her marriage to Carl H. Bauer, a prominent Portland attorney, a few years following her return from Europe, is remembered by her friends as a fine social event of the time. Her marriage ceremony was to change her name from Miss Rose Bloch to Mrs. Rose Bauer, her father, and her idea of having the setting for the marriage form a pun on her name. Consequently she was married under a bower of roses—a rose bower.

Patriotic Song Often Inspired. One of her successes that brought her additional offers from grand opera managers was her singing in the local rendition of the opera "Fathima," in 1902. Hers was the soprano part, while Mrs. Rose Courson read sang contralto and the late Millard Lowndesdale the baritone.

One solo in which she attained special success was "Inflammatus" from Rossini's "Stabat Mater" and her excellent rendition of the soprano part of the "Messiah" won for her added fame.

Her greatest popular success, however, came through her "Star-Spangled Banner," which she sang with a spirit that seldom met with such an inspired hearing here in this popular patriotic air and it invariably pleased her to sing it on appropriate occasions. Her voice has been described as "a natural dramatic soprano, emanating from a great reservoir of music." She could sing yet never lose strength.

Young Musicians Helped. With these remarkable vocal qualities she possessed, moreover, a kindly nature and a generous disposition that spread her popularity even beyond her musical circles. Scores of struggling young musicians owe the rise in their work to the active personal interest in their welfare taken by Mrs. Bauer. Seldom did a deserving young man or young woman appeal to her in vain. Nearly every music store, moving-picture house, law office and many mercantile institutions could tell its story of the aspiring young musician placed there through the influence of Mrs. Bauer to earn the means of obtaining an education. Her friends have said that she conducted a gratuitous employment agency for musicians.

She frequently said that she was happiest when appearing in some reliable entertainment. It was her delight to sing at the newboys' benefit concerts. Not long ago she sang for the newboys. They thanked her profusely after the concert, but the following morning, as she explained it, "there was the same unkempt, but cheerful, gang at my door with big bouquets. I never got any flowers that were sweeter to me than those."

Church Choirs Directed. Mrs. Bauer probably is best known to many people as the director and soprano soloist in the choir of the First Congregational Church, which place she filled for many years, and as director and soprano soloist in the choir of Temple Beth Israel, her own church. She filled both places, for some time simultaneously, five or six years ago, as she resigned the place at the Congregational Church. Meanwhile she appeared frequently as a soloist at Trinity Episcopal Church and at other Portland churches. Several years ago she was soloist for the Seattle Symphony Orchestra.

Mrs. Bauer's parents and her husband, as well as the following other relatives, survive her: Mrs. L. White, of Portland, a sister, and Emilie, Frances Bauer, Marion Bauer, Mrs. Alex Bernstein and Miss Minnie Bauer, all of New York, brother and sisters of her husband.

EXERCISES ARE HELD

St. Francis Academy Has Six Graded Graduates.

OPERETTA IS PRESENTED

Anniversary of Father Black's Ordination Celebrated and Parishioners Make Priest Present of Well-Filled Purse.

Closing exercises of St. Francis Academy and the celebration of the 22d anniversary of the ordination of Rev. J. H. Black, rector of the parish, to the priesthood, were held jointly last night at St. Francis Church, East Twelfth and East Pine streets. The six young girls receiving diplomas from the eighth grade were Helen Altstock, Isabella Macgann, Esther Lynch, Waugetta Gottacker, Margaret Pennel and Frances Altstock. A general musical programme was opened with "Triumphal March," by Misses T. Lund and O. Savain, and a violin solo, "Il Trovatore," by Misses H. Littlejohns and G. Littlejohns.

Then followed the operetta, "In a Flower Garden." The programme was as follows: Accompaniment in variations, T. Lund; "Wedding Hour," G. Wackrow and T. Lund; "Birds' Chorus," L. Macgann; "Chorus of Doves," H. Franz and G. Taylor; "Sunbeam," J. Sabel and M. Vernon; "Dawn's Song," M. Schmitt; "Chorus of Flowers," O'Connor and M. Hagas; Mary Hotelichter; "Little White Clouds," H. Moore; "Fair Weather's Song," L. Lund; "Noon Song," G. Wackrow; "Butterflies and Flowers," E. Lynch; "Guttered Dance," H. Altstock and E. Lynch; "Good-Bye, Good-Bye," G. Wackrow; "Dance of the Sun," G. Doney; V. Breitel; "Rain Song," H. Herman; "Rainbow Song," T. Lund; "Sunset Song," T. Lund; "Firefly Song," T. Lund; "A Perfect Day," solo, M. Schmitt.

Then came the address of Father Black to the class, followed by the finale, "Roses, Red and White," and the distribution of the diplomas. At the conclusion of the exercises Father J. H. Black, whose 22d Ordination Anniversary is Celebrated at St. Francis Academy Closing Exercises.

came the celebration in honor of Father Black, a part in the programme that took him by surprise. Father Black explained to the surprised priest what this "number" on the programme signified and after enumerating the many things Father Black had been guilty of, presented him with a substantial sum of money, as a token of the high esteem in which he is held in St. Francis' parish and community. Father Black was assigned to St. Francis' parish about 12 years ago, when the congregation met in the old frame church that stood on East Eleventh and East Pine streets. Only about half the congregation could assemble at a time and Father Black early saw the need of a more adequate church, and the present white church, conspicuous with its silver cross from every part of the city, was erected. Father Black's parish has made rapid progress and St. Francis' Academy has developed under his direction.

FESTIVAL FILMS MADE

COPIES SENT TO SAN FRANCISCO FOR DISPLAY PORTLAND DAY.

Pictures Also Will Be Used to Tell Eastern People of City's Wonders, and Work Declared Perfect.

One of the big attractions at the Oregon State building on Portland day at the Panama-Pacific Exposition will be a complete set of moving pictures of the parades which tens of thousands applauded during the Rose Festival last week. The Chamber of Commerce sent the films last night. They are in two rolls of 1000 feet each, and will take 50 minutes to produce. The men of the Chamber of Commerce to utilize other copies of the films in advertising Portland in the East. Plans are being made by Secretary Frank E. Smith to that end. The films do not follow the exact order of the programme of the Rose Carnival, but are arranged in order of the individual flower displays at the Festival Center. Soft-petaled roses, enlarged to 12 feet in diameter, their perfection from the screen, and then quickly the scene shifts to the wonderful beauties of the grounds, no people but the women. Then come the crowds as they surged into the Center and as they passed to the crowning of Queen Sybil and the folk dances by Portland children.

The Rosebud parade is shown with the 4000 children in motion, dancing, waving flags and carrying over the splendid streets of the East Side, and then comes the complete entourage of the Queen in the vehicle parade. Having ideal weather conditions for their work, it is declared that the American Lifeograph Company turned out its masterpiece of cinematography. The attractive machines in this parade. Capping the pictures comes the floats of the electric parade, the only time these floats were created. They have been successfully filmed. To get them the young women who rode in character on the floats dressed the parts assigned on Saturday morning and the floats were run out and again illuminated. Taken before the dark green background of the City Park grounds, they have every appearance of the night pageant. The films will remain in San Francisco for two weeks.

VALUE ON MATE $25,000

IN BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT $10,000 ADDED FOR INCIDENTALS.

Miss Daisy Stamm Wants $35,000 From John A. Wood, of Walls Walla, for Heart Balm.

Loss of a well-to-do husband, $25,000 incident giving up profession, 3,000 Breach of contract, damages, 2,000 Humiliation and injury to health, 2,000 Total, $35,000. This is the price Miss Daisy Stamm, formerly a music teacher, declares must be paid by John A. Wood, wealthy Walls Walla rancher, because he did not marry her. Yesterday she filed a breach of promise suit in County Clerk Coffey's office against Mr. Wood.

Miss Stamm says she gave up her profession on May 12, 1914, to become a companion and nurse to Mr. Wood's aged mother. She did this, she says, on condition that Mr. Wood marry her when his mother died. The mother died May 11, 1915, says the complaint, and Mr. Wood did not marry Miss Stamm. On June 11, she says the charge, Mr. Wood still declines to marry her. Then she sought relief in the courts, presenting her bill in the form of a complaint.

FIRE SALE OF 27 PIANOS

A splendid assortment of Pianos, ordered 30 days ago, by Gilbert's Piano House for its opening sale in Portland, has arrived late, via the steamer Pennsylvania, in a damaged condition. A serious fire in the hold of the Pennsylvania, while in the harbor of Balboa, Panama, damaged much of the cargo, but not so much by fire as by steam in quenching the fire. Some of the Pianos are considerably damaged, while others are in perfect condition; but all of them are to be sold at about a total loss price. The insurance adjusters have made a uniform settlement for each Piano. This means a high-grade, brand-new Piano (some Fishers, Voases and Kohlers in the lot) at surprisingly little money. We make this statement, with not a particle of exaggeration—here it is: From one hundred to two hundred dollars saved on an upright piano of standard make, if bought at Gilbert's during this sale. It should not take more than four or five days to sell these twenty-seven pianos. TERMS—Most liberal terms for payment. If out of town, write for information. Pianos shipped to out-of-town points, freight prepaid and examination allowed before making the first payment. 273 Morrison St., Opposite Ben Selling's Between Third and Fourth Streets.
