

LAST TRIBUTE PAID MRS. ROSE B. BAUER

Sorrowing Multitude Fills Temple Beth Israel When Funeral Takes Place.

SIMPLE RITES CONDUCTED

Professor Coursen, Accompanist for Soloist for Many Years, Plays.
Cortege Follows Body to Cemetery Beth Israel.

A sorrowing multitude filled Temple Beth Israel, Thirteenth and Main streets, yesterday afternoon to pay last tribute of respect to the memory of the late Mrs. Rose Bloch Bauer. The house was crowded to the doors by friends of the dead singer and their grief was manifest.

Services were conducted by Rabbi Joseph B. Wise, who was simple and impressive. To the altar rail, banked high with flowers, was borne the body of Mrs. Bauer to the accompaniment of "Chanson Trieste" (Tschalkowsky), softly played by Professor Edgar E. Coursen, who for many years has been accompanist for the departed soloist.

To the left of the altar entered Rabbi and Mrs. J. Bloch, parents of Mrs. Bauer; Cecil H. Bauer, her widower; Mrs. L. L. White, a sister, and Nathan Simon, a cousin.

Comforting Thought Suggested.

Rabbi Wise read a short scriptural selection, after which he recited the poem, "He Giveth His Beloved Sleep," and in the remarks that followed he sought to comfort his hearers with the thought that they should give thanks for such a beautiful life and thank it as a gift from heaven, rather than to be overborne by grief that God had taken her back to himself again.

"We should give thanks to God who has given us such a divine gift," he said, "but, although when one we cherish is taken from us we weep and grieve, we are thankful that he has given us one of such charm and beauty."

"Now that he has called her to him in the full flower of her strength and beauty, we shall always remember her as she would want to be remembered, as in her prime and vigor."

"Memory to Remain."
"Although our sweet singer is no longer with us in the body, she will always be with us in fond memory and in the spirit."

A prayer followed, and as the body was carried from the church, followed by Rabbi Wise, reading the scriptures, Professor Coursen played Beethoven's funeral march.

There were so many associations of Mrs. Bauer with Temple Beth Israel in the minds of those who died and place that grief at her loss was made the more poignant. For years she was soloist in the choir, and at her accustomed place yesterday there hung a beautiful wreath veiled in black.

Rabbi Wise referred to the fact that the sacred walls of the temple had echoed often to the sound of her beautiful voice. At the altar of Beth Israel, too, Miss Rose Bloch was married to Cecil H. Bauer 16 years ago. At that time her father, J. Bloch, was rabbi of Temple Beth Israel.

Many Musicians Present.

In the company assembled were many family friends, members of Congregation Beth Israel, musical friends who mourned their teacher, prominent musicians of the city who had a deep love for their late friend, and many others, while wreaths and masses of fragrant blossoms were sent in large numbers by sorrowing friends.

A long cortege of autos, carrying a great number of people, followed the body to Cemetery Beth Israel, where interment took place.

Services Held at Grave.
Rabbi Wise conducted a ritual service at the grave, which was deeply covered with beautiful flowers.

Private services at the Bauer home, 139 Nineteenth street, were conducted by Rabbi Wise at 1:30 o'clock, preceded the public funeral at 2 o'clock.

The active pallbearers were: S. Hirsch, M. S. Hirsch, Sol Baum, I. Koshland, Leon Hirsch and M. Siegel.

The honorary pallbearers were: A. Wolfe, E. Ehrman, L. N. Feldman, Edgar B. Piper, T. G. Green, A. Feldman, Dr. Gustav Baer and F. M. Sells.

Of 89 men who underwent a physical examination yesterday by the Municipal Civil Service Board for police service, 19 failed to pass. One hundred and one still remain in the examination. The physical examination is most severe, the slightest defect resulting in the rejection of the applicant.

When the physical test is completed an athletic one will be held. After this a written examination and an oral examination will be held. The applicants will not complete their rounds of the examination until the end of the week. There were about 450 applicants for the examination, but only 189 reported.

$7500 AWARDED TO WIDOW

Jury Finds Against Owners of Truck
That Killed Policeman.

A jury in Judge McGinn's court yesterday awarded $7500 to Mrs. Lulu R. White for the death of her husband, a white policeman, who was killed by an auto truck while directing the flow of vehicles at East Burnside street and Union avenue on November 17. The jury was out about two hours.

Patrolman James R. White was killed by an auto truck owned by the East Side Mill & Lumber Company and driven by Albert Mercens, 19 years old. Witnesses for the officer's widow declared the truck turned the corner abruptly, striking the policeman while his back was turned. She turned the owners of the truck and the full amount she sued for was awarded to her.

FIRST WOMAN PASSENGER AGENT TO BEGIN DUTIES IN PORTLAND.

MISS ESTELLE MACAULAY.

WOMEN WILL SELL

Railroad Passenger Department Sets Precedent.

PORTLAND GIRL IS FIRST

Miss Estelle Macaulay to Take Up
New Duties in City Ticket Office and Seattle Will Have Similar Arrangement at Once.

Enter now the woman passenger agent.

Portland is to be the first city in the country to have a woman in the ticket office.

Beginning tomorrow Miss Estelle Macaulay will be a regularly credentialed passenger and ticket agent for the O.-W. R. & N. Company with headquarters in the city ticket office at Third and Washington streets.

Simultaneously Miss Edna Flynn is to begin similar duties for the same company at Seattle. Women passenger agents also will be appointed within the next few weeks at Spokane and Tacoma.

In appointing women to sell tickets and solicit passenger business, the O.-W. R. & N. Company is introducing an innovation that heretofore has not been tried in this country.

Because woman has invaded almost every other field in the business world, traffic officials of the company believe that she has a rightful place in the railroad world.

Duties May Extend Later.
While the duties of these young women will consist primarily in catering to women patrons in the various city ticket offices, it is intended that eventually they will take their places as passenger solicitors, particularly where women travelers are concerned.

Eventually, it is believed, women will take their place as traveling passenger agents, entering especially to the patronage of women.

In making these appointments the company has instructed the young women to confine their efforts to the accommodation of women who visit the city ticket offices—whether such visitors be in quest of tickets or of information of an unrelated character.

They are expected to become veritable bureaus of information so far as the wants of women are concerned. Traffic officials of the company believe that this step will lead to a regularly organized women's department in the passenger offices, and that it may cover the freight field as well.

Walla Walla Girl Inspires.

For several years Miss Myrtle Baker, chief clerk in the company's district office at Walla Walla, has been devoting part of her time to the solicitation of freight and passenger business, and it is admitted by officials in Portland that the company was inspired to its recent move by the record of her success. Her duties are unlike those prescribed for the new appointees, however, as she created her own field for her work, and does not confine her solicitations to women patrons exclusively.

Miss Macaulay, who will fill the Portland office, for the last seven years has been assistant to Arthur C. Spencer, general attorney for the company. She has a thorough understanding of the company's affairs and of the territory served by the O.-W. R. & N. lines generally.

"It will be something entirely new," she said last night, "but I believe it will be a delightful and interesting work. I believe that I can do it successfully."

Women to View Territory.

So that they may be better acquainted with the territory, officials of the company will send the young women over all the lines in the Northwest. Miss Macaulay will leave next week for Seattle and Tacoma and will visit North Yakima, the Yakima Valley, Walla Walla, Spokane, Coeur d'Alene, Lewiston, Huntington, La Grande, Pendleton and other points before settling permanently in her new position.

Miss Flynn, who at present is chief clerk in the O.-W. R. & N. station at Seattle, will visit Portland and other cities on the line before taking up her regular duties in the Seattle ticket office.

"We hope the public—and especially the women—will appreciate this service," say the company officials.

DRUG ACT IS EFFECTIVE

FEDERAL OFFICERS FIND CRIME
LESSONS AND SALES FEWER.

Activity of Authorities Makes Habit-
Forming Narcotics Hard to Get,
Say Prosecutors.

Although the new Federal drug law, known as the Harrison act, has been in operation only since March 1, Federal authorities say its beneficial effects in lessening the use of habit-forming drugs already are apparent.

Two specific examples show the general trend, said Robert R. Rankin, Assistant United States Attorney, yesterday. "Federal officers have reported that in raids they no longer find quantities of opium, morphine or cocaine about the places raided. Not long ago a man gave himself up to the Federal authorities and asked to be locked up until he got over the cravings for morphine. He has since been released and seems to have overcome the habit."

"There is no doubt that since the Harrison law became operative it is harder, very much harder, for drug addicts to get their drugs. Federal, state and municipal officers are pressing hard on the trail of those who traffic in drugs. Under the Harrison law, these persons can be fined $2000 and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary."

"Instead of resulting in more crime, especially on the part of drug addicts, the law has resulted in a general curbing of want of morphine, cocaine or opium, there really seems to be less crime attributable to drug users than before."

The Government so far has had only five cases under the Harrison act in Portland. Complaints in three of these cases were filed yesterday, after three negroes, arrested in raids by deputy sheriffs and police, had been found guilty in the Municipal Court.
