A Galaxy of Beautiful Silk Dresses

Just in by Express—125 in Number—Myriad in Style

Bought Underprice, Otherwise They'd Sell at $25 to $40

As Long as Any of the 125 Remain

$19.65

We saw these dresses as they were being taken from their tissue paper wrappings—and they looked like a rainbow let loose, with staid black, blues and smart black and white combinations serving as a background, and enhancing the lovely color effects.

In this group of dresses are those suitable for almost any occasion. Lovely little frocks for afternoon wear are fashioned of organdies, Georgette crepes, willow taffeta, crepe de chine, pongee and novelty silks. Evening gowns are shown in silk and net combinations, and street dresses of smart black and white, blues and blacks are here. Many have the new transparent and contrasting material sleeves. One lovely black and white silk shows white crepe de chine sleeves and the effect is charming.

There are plaids, stripes, checks, plain blues, blacks, white, tans, putty, rose and any amount of striking combinations.

The average woman would consider herself fortunate in being able to select one of these dresses at the regular prices—$25 to $40—so well designed and perfectly made are they—and at the very special price of $19.65 they're a bargain among bargains. As the number is so limited we advise early selection.

Contributions to the maintenance fund of the Associated Charities reached a total of $1313, which is less than one-third of the amount required, but Secretary Manning is still hopeful that the full $5000 necessary to continue the work of the organization through the Summer may be raised.

The expenditures of the Charities this Summer are to be cut down to the bare necessities for relief work that is imperative. The Fresh Air campaign and several other features that have been handled in the Summer in preceding years have been abandoned, owing to the increased pressure of demands from families that are in want of the bare necessities of life.

Fathers Plead for Work. The unemployment conditions have not been relieved as much as was expected earlier in the year, and the Charities is visited daily by long lines of men pleading for something to be found for them to do so that they can earn food for their families.

Knapp, and yesterday an old grandmother, whose story was told in The Oregonian a few days ago, was started on the journey back to Michigan, where relatives are prepared to care for her.

Food Supplies Needed Badly. The Charities is continually beset with pleas for assistance from families that are in need of food and grocery supplies are therefore almost as helpful toward keeping up the work as cash donations. Supplies of this sort should be sent to the headquarters at 411 Commercial block.

Here are just a few of the typical cases taken at random from among the ones made at the Charities yesterday:

1. Woman with three little children; came to Portland hoping to find work where she could have her children by her; found nothing to do; homeless and without food. Arrangements have been made for food and a place to stay, and efforts will be made to obtain work for her. She is a good housekeeper and dressmaker.
2. Man out of work; carpenter. Wife expects baby soon, but is not supplied with baby clothing and there is no money with which to buy them.
3. Man in poor health and unable to do heavy work for some time, even if he can procure employment. Five children already to be cared for. Food is desperately needed.
4. Man out of work; seven children to support. Has been trying to buy home, but now in danger of losing it through inability to make payments.
5. Child obliged to leave school; ill. Discovered to be suffering from starvation. Family found to be destitute. Food temporarily supplied and other relief arranged.
