

FORCE TO PREVENT WAR IS ANNOTATED

Taft Champions League of Powers to Require Consideration of Issues.

TOO MUCH NOT ATTEMPTED

Ex-President Says Growing Interest of Neutrals in Affairs is Ground for Hope That Assent May Be Given.

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—(Special.)—President Taft, in an address here tonight, outlined the plan for the proposed league of nations which will be discussed in Independence Hall tomorrow.

Mr. Taft was firmly of the opinion that a league of peace could be formed which would enable nations to avoid war by furnishing a practical means for settling international quarrels or "suspending them until the blinding heat of passion had cooled."

"In calling this meeting," Mr. Taft said, "my associates and I have not been unaware that we might be likened to the tailors of Troy street who mistook themselves for the people of England. We wish to say that we do not regret that anybody but ourselves planned for future consideration."

"We are not here to suggest a means of bringing this war to an end—much as that is to be desired and much as we would be willing to sacrifice to secure peace—that is not within the project of the present meeting. We hope and pray for peace, and our hope of its coming in the future is sufficient to make us think that the present is a good time to discuss and formulate a series of proposals to which the consent of a number of the great powers could be secured. We think a league of peace could be formed which would enable nations to avoid war by furnishing a practical means of settling international quarrels until the blinding heat of passion had cooled."

"Neutrals' Interest Increasing." "In no war has the direct interest that neutrals have in preventing a war between neighbors been so clearly made known. This interest of neutrals has been enforced upon nations which would require only a slight development and growth in the law of international relations to develop that interest to a right to be consulted before such a war among neighbors can be begun."

"This step we hope to have taken by the formation of a peace league of the great powers, whose primary and fundamental principle shall be that no war can take place between any two members of the league until they resorted to the machinery that the league proposes to furnish to adjust the controversy likely to lead to war."

"If any member refuses to use this machinery and attacks another member of the league in breach of his league obligation, all members of the league agree to defend the members attacked by force."

"Resort to Force Not Omitted." "We do not think the ultimate resort to force can be safely omitted from an effective league of peace. We sincerely hope that it may never become necessary and that the deterrent effect of its inevitable use in case of a breach of the league obligation will help materially to give sanction to the laws of the league and to render a resort to force avoidable."

"Now what is the machinery, a resort to which we wish to force an intending belligerent of the league to resort to? It is the machinery of two tribunals, one of which every issue must be submitted. Issues between nations are of two classes.

"First come those which are decided on principles of international law and equity called justiciable. Second are those which cannot be decided upon principles of law and equity but which might be quite as irritating and provocative of war, called non-justiciable."

"We propose that in the first instance we shall have an impartial court to which all questions arising between members of the league shall be submitted. If the court decides in favor of the justiciable, it shall decide it. If it does not, it shall refer to a commission of conciliation, which may confer, hear argument and compromise."

"We do not propose to enforce compliance, either with the court's judgment or the conciliation commission's recommendation. We feel that we ought not to attempt too much—we believe that the forced submission and the truce taken to investigate the judicial decision or the conciliatory commission recommended will form a material inducement to peace. It will cool the heat of passion and will give the men of peace in each nation time to still the jingoes. The league of peace will furnish a great opportunity for more definite formulation of the principles of international law. The arbitral court will amplify it and assist in their application of its general principles to particular cases. They will create a body of judge-made law of the highest value."

"Then the existence of the league will lead to ever-recurring congresses of the league, which, acting in a quasi-legislative capacity, may enlarge the scope of international law in a way that a court may not feel able or competent to do."

In an obscure corner of Northern France, as they were reviewed by this giant, fair-haired king, with drooping straw-colored mustache, giving a viking air.

Group of Indian officers in the watching crowd rubbed elbows with French peasants. The French of different regiments after a greeting referred to some comrade who had fallen since they last met. Then the war and its horrors were forgotten in the British love affair. An Indian, emitting a fierce screaming yell, galloped down the field and impaled a small wooden peg stuck in the ground on his lance.

"Bravo," called the officers, as he rushed by at top speed. Another Indian tried the same thing and failed. "No bad," was heard, but "Bravo" was more "bravos" than "too bad" spoken in the quiet way in which the British show their emotions. These officers were in India in spirit rather than in France. They were the leaders who had made soldiers out of the human clay of the East, and had held them fast in the face of German shells as part of the working of that extensive plant called the British Empire.

"When it came to demonstrativeness the French were the real fans. Grandfather, mother and children were having the time of their lives. It beat the movements of the German shells as part of the working of that extensive plant called the British Empire. "When it came to demonstrativeness the French were the real fans. "I wish it had been four Germans they had speared in a charge. It was a great day for the hard-worked French peasantry when they could see both the hard-worked King of the Belgians and an Indian gymnast. The roar kept coming from that distant section of the horizon where the steady hail of shells was eating its way through the German trenches with the mechanical routine of steam shovels cutting into the side of a hill.

WILLAMETTE HONORS 29 KIMBALL COLLEGE CONFERS TWO DEGREES AT EXERCISES.

Rev. George F. Hopkins, of Portland, and Rev. J. T. Abbott, Eugene, Are Doctors of Divinity.

SALEM, Or., June 16.—(Special.)—At commencement exercises today of Willamette University and Kimball College two graduates of the university conferred two degrees of the college. Honorary degrees of doctor of divinity were conferred upon Rev. J. T. Abbott, of Eugene, and Rev. George F. Hopkins, of Portland. John Matthew Hixon won the R. H. Stone scholarship.

Announcement was made today by the trustees of the Kimball College of Theology of the inauguration of a campaign to raise $125,000 for the building of a new hall. It is the intention to raise $25,000 each year until the full sum has been obtained.

H. D. Abbott, D. D., president, said that already $11,900 had been raised toward endowing the first chair, which will be known as the "Father John Finn Chair of Systematic Theology" in honor of the pioneer Methodist minister, Father Finn, who now resides in Portland.

Rev. Adna Wright Leonard, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Seattle, who delivered the commencement day address, urged the students to live life's purpose with a well-trained will. He declared that many lives had been marred by little things, and many persons through an inspiration received from a small thing have achieved greatness.

"The denominational school, even though it may not be physically as well equipped as state universities, supplies the religious training and moral atmosphere not found in non-sectarian institutions," said Mr. Leonard.

Milton A. Marcy and John Matthew Hixon received diplomas from the theological school, and the following from the university: Mildred Bartholomew, Kate Barton, Eric P. Bolt, Mary Lydia Cone, Emery D. Donane, Gertrude Eakin, Alice S. Fields, Frank S. Francis, Stella Graham, Harry S. Irvine, Paul Irvine, Harold B. Jory, Lelia Lent, Milton Marcy, Eunice H. Miller, Daisy Mulkey, Harold M. Nelson, M. C. O'Connell, M. Daniel, Merwyn E. Page, Helen Pearce, Roland L. Pfaff, Naomi A. Runner, Leland L. Sackett, Clara L. Schaefer, Jacob Stocker, Charles K. Tompson, Harvey Elmer Tobie and Keith Van Winkle.

Visit Planned to "The Dolls" Creates Sensation.

Stenographer's Error Surprises Sons of the American Revolution, Who Wish to Have Convention Here in July.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, June 16.—A. Howard Clark, president of the Sons of the American Revolution, who are to hold their annual conference at Portland next month, received a shock the other day when he opened a letter from another son, detailing the entertainment that has been arranged for the Portland visit. The letter, evidently turned out carelessly or under the influence of a stenographer, related the programme for the conference, and among the side amusements, said that the sons would be taken in automobiles to "see The Dolls."

A. Howard Clark, like a great many other members of the Sons of the American Revolution, is a staid and dignified, and the prospect of a joy ride with other dignified sons grated on his nerves. He at once notified the committee that the entertainment being planned should fall into the hands of jealous wives.

When he recovered from his shock, however, Mr. Clark realized that a trip to "The Dolls" was planned, but he insisted that every man should read carefully his dictated letters before letting them go into the mails.

AMERICA TO MAKE PEACE, SAYS BRYAN

Greatest Opportunity in All History Declared Certain to Come in Time.

PATIENCE IS ENJOINED

Ex-Secretary Issues First Section of Statement on "Causeless War"; Change of Rules of War Predicted.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(Special.)—Vice-President Bryan, in the first section of his statement on "The Causeless War," today prophesied that the greatest peacemaking opportunity in all history was certain to come to the United States. He declared there would be a demand for an international conference with the return of peace, to change the rules of international law which "seem to have been made for the nations at war rather than for the nations at peace."

Each Side Violates Neutral Rights. "Under the stress and strain of the Titanic struggle in which they are engaged," Mr. Bryan's statement says, "each side has felt itself justified in encroaching on the rights of neutrals. The ocean highways, in common property, have been made for the nations at war rather than for the nations at peace."

Just at this time, when these questions are most acute, the belligerent governments are least able to deal with them with the calmness and poise which their great importance demands. No wonder every neutral nation is increasingly anxious for the return of peace—most reason to set its face resolutely against participation in the war.

This Nation, the head of the neutral group and the sincere friend of all the belligerents, is in duty bound to set an example in patience and self-restraint.

Opportunity Awaits America. "In all history no such opportunity has ever come to any other nation as that which is destined to come to the United States. In all history no other peacemaker has ever been in position to claim as rich a blessing as ours, which will be pronounced upon our President when the time for mediation comes—as come it must."

Introducing his statement, Mr. Bryan graphically describes the horrors and afflictions of war and says: "Neutral nations cannot look on with indifference—the ties that bind them together are too strong, the relationship too intimate. This is especially true of the United States. We have a composite population of many nations of Europe having contributed liberally to our citizenship. These, our countrymen, themselves born of foreign ancestors, cannot but take a lively interest in the conduct, as well as in the results, of the war."

As the result of the war, the sorrow expressed in his address, the echo at some fireside in the United States.

Problems Made More Difficult. Aside from sentimental considerations, Mr. Bryan asserts, neutral nations suffer the greatest embarrassments to the war.

"Nearly every neutral nation finds new domestic problems thrust upon it and old problems made more difficult," the statement declares. "No American citizen can note without deep concern the manner in which the war questions have intruded themselves into our politics—overshadowing economic life and stimulating sectional feeling in favor of enlarged appropriations for military and naval purposes."

At some length, Mr. Bryan refers to the disruptions of neutral commerce, the curtailment of business and consequent readjustments, and speaks of the scarcity of American ships as one of the greatest embarrassments to the United States.

Rules Cannot Now Be Changed. "The neutral nations are put to a great extent to preserve neutrality and are constantly in danger of being embroiled in the war without intention or fault on their own part," he declared. "The rules of international law seem to have been made for the nations at war, rather than for the nations at peace. It is almost impossible to alter these rules during the war, because any material change, affecting as it would the interests of the belligerents, would be a seeming violation of neutrality."

"As soon as peace returns, there will be demand for an international conference on the subject. The presumption should be given to peace, for peace, not war, is the normal condition if nations are determined to fight, they should, as far as possible, bear the burden themselves and not be permitted to transfer it to the nations which would avoid war by resorting to reason instead of force."

ADMIRAL'S FORCE INCREASED Bluejackets Added to Expedition Against Yaqui Indians.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Orders went from the Navy Department today to Admiral Howard, commanding the Pacific fleet, to take 300 bluejackets, as well as the 200 marines previously arranged for, on his expedition to the Yaqui Valley. Admiral Howard is empowered to exercise his discretion to a wide extent.

Decision to send Admiral Howard to Guaymas was reached after a conference between Navy and State Department officials. Although no deaths had been reported since the uprising sev-

The Yaqui Indians have declared war on Germany, Mexico and the United States. Their declaration of war on Germany, the advice said, was because a German colonist, a crack rifle shot, defended his home in the last Yaqui raid with remarkable success and much disaster to the raiders.

NOTE IS WELL RECEIVED GERARD CABLES THAT OFFICIAL BERLIN IS FRIENDLY.

Unanimous Opinion Declared to Appear to Be That Basis for Diplomatic Settlement Exists.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Ambassador Gerard cabled today his first informal report on how the latest Berlin official communication was received in official quarters in Berlin. He spoke of its reception as friendly and courteous, and said the unanimous opinion seemed to be that the document afforded a basis for diplomatic negotiation and settlement.

Long extracts from German newspaper editorials, most of which already have been published here, were transmitted by the Berlin official quarters. A friendliness of tone in them and an absence of the bitterness which has previously characterized some of the newspaper utterances.

The Ambassador's own comment was brief and of a general character, bearing out press reports of the favorable reception of the Berlin communication. Officially here have been much encouraged by the manner in which the German press and officials have received the American communication, and believe that the way toward an understanding is much clearer than it has been.

The arrival of Dr. Anton Meyer-Gerhard in Norway was noted here today, and it was supposed he will lay before high officials of the government before the end of the week material from Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, which it is thought will help toward clearing up the situation and producing an amicable adjustment of the controversy.

VESSEL SUNK; 22 DROWN BRITISH STEAMER STRATHNAIRN TORPEDOED BY SUBMARINE.

German Nearby Are Said by Survivors to Have Made No Effort to Save Members of Crew.

LONDON, June 16.—The British steamer Strathairn was torpedoed today off the Scilly Islands and sunk. Twenty-two members of the crew, including the captain, were drowned. The crew was composed of nine Englishmen and 24 Chinese, and of these only one was seen clearly against the Chinese were saved. These were landed at Milfordhaven.

The torpedo struck the steamer amidships and blew up one of her boilers. Four of the ship's boats were hastily launched, but two of them capsized, and the remainder were abandoned. The 11 survivors in it, was picked up later and the men taken to Milfordhaven.

Survivors say that after the Strathairn was torpedoed the periscope of a submarine was seen nearby, but that the underwater boat made no attempt to rescue the drowning men.

The Strathairn, which was a vessel of 4326 tons, was bound from Cardiff to Archangel, Russia, with a cargo of coal.
