

SOCIETY NEWS

BY GERTRUDE P. CORBETT

SMART society's attention was claimed yesterday by several interesting affairs. In the evening there were a number of dinner parties and suppers, preceding and following the production of "Quality Street," the play in which Maude Adams is appearing at the Heilig, several box parties were noticed. The prevalence of light, summery evening frocks added to the attractiveness of the audience.

In the morning several hundred society and club women were guests of Mrs. G. J. Frankel and Mrs. Herbert Carr Reed at the Loretta Minton today where Fenetta Sargent Haskell read "Les Miserables." Her appearance again on Thursday at 4 o'clock in Women of Woodcraft Hall is an anticipated event.

Miss Sara McCully was one of the charming young hostesses who added her quota to the social activities yesterday. At a daintily appointed luncheon Miss McCully entertained 12 of the girls of the exclusive set, with Miss Katharine Hays of Hancock as an honor guest. Miss Grace Peters will give a luncheon today for Miss Hardy, and during the week she will be showered with numerous other social attentions.

Miss Violet Erskine will entertain several of the most charming young women at a tea at the home of the Thomas Erskines.

PROMINENT MATRON WHO ENTERTAINS FREQUENTLY AT HER IRVINGTON HOME.

Mrs. Anton Gleibisch

A wedding of interest took place on Sunday, when Miss Sophie Dellar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dellar, became the bride of Al Krause. The ceremony was held at the home of the bride, with Rabbi R. Abrahamson officiating. Miss Rae Dellar was the maid of honor and Melvin Dellar was ringbearer. Alice Dellar, Mrs. Dellar's sister, was the flower girl. The bridegroom was attended by James F. Alexander, of Portland. The wedding was the largest in La Grande for years.

Of interest to many Portlanders was a beautiful wedding, solemnized on Thursday evening, June 17, at St. Peter's Episcopal Church at La Grande, by Rt. Rev. Bishop Paddock, of Eastern Oregon, assisted by Rev. Upton H. Gibbs, when Miss Lucerne Ermidah Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Wood, became the bride of Louis Albert Recken, of Portland. The church was beautifully decorated with festoons of ferns and pink and white roses. The bride was attired in a gown of silver lace over white crepe and her veil was made into a Juliette cap, wreathed with pearls and lilies-of-the-valley. The bride was attended by Miss Olive Harris, of Seattle, as maid of honor, Miss Nellie Grimmett, and Miss Ruth Russell, of La Grande, as bridesmaids, and little Harriett Clancy of La Grande, as flower girl. The bridegroom was attended by James F. Alexander, of Portland. The wedding was the largest in La Grande for years.

After the ceremony a large reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Recken, under a bower of roses.

The bride comes from one of the oldest and most prominent families of Eastern Oregon; is a graduate of St. Helens Hall, of Portland, and of Pease Normal School of Gymnastics at Astoria. Mrs. Recken is highly accomplished and has traveled extensively and was one of La Grande's most popular daughters.

Mrs. Recken is a prominent young attorney of Portland, is a member of the firm of Penn, Eckwall and Recken, and is a member of George H. Williams Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity.

Mrs. and Mrs. Recken, after their honeymoon, will be at home to their many friends after July 15 at 334 East Fortieth street, Portland.

Mrs. Lennie E. Morrison, of Richmond, Indiana, is spending the summer with her son, Joseph A. Addelman, and his family, at 1239 East Thirty-second street North, Irvington Park. This is the first time Mrs. Morrison has returned to Portland and she arrived in time to witness the annual Rose Festival. She will remain until almost the middle of September.

Miss Ada Werner, of Morris, Ill., is passing the summer at the home of her uncle, Dr. C. G. McCully, of 884 Taylor street. In the early fall Miss Werner will return East by way of San Francisco, Los Angeles and Pasadena, where she will visit relatives.

Many informal affairs are marking the visit in the city of Mrs. Kathleen Heathy, who came West a few weeks ago for a concert engagement here the latter part of this month. Mrs. Lawler has hosts of friends in the city who are welcoming her home with much entertaining. Thursday afternoon Mrs. Donald Spencer will give an informal tea for her pleasure at her home on Cornell road; Thursday evening Mrs. William P. Sinnott will give an informal dinner party for her, and on Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Alva Lee Stephens will give an elaborate dinner party, with a number of additional guests invited to meet the honor guests in the evening.

Mrs. Lawler is passing the summer in Portland with her mother, Mrs. Honora M. Lawler, at the latter's home in Irvington, at East Twenty-sixth and Thompson streets.

The marriage of Miss Bertha Reed and Clark Noble took place Sunday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Meade, 570 Hawthorne terrace, where Miss Reed has made her home for some time.

It was a charmingly simple affair, performed in the library, where flowers were scattered on the floor to give the effect of an outdoor setting. Miss Reed was lovely in a simple lingerie gown and carried a bride's bouquet of roses. The immediate family and a few intimate friends witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Mr. Loveland. After a honeymoon spent at the Coast, Mr. and Mrs. Reed will be at home at 449 Thirteenth street after August 1. Mrs. Noble has been a teacher in the public schools, and Mr. Noble is connected with a local newspaper.

Mrs. M. J. Badollet, Miss Dora Badollet, Mrs. T. S. Trullinger and Master John Trullinger, of Astoria, are visiting Mrs. W. G. Howell, of Mount Taber.

Mrs. Anton Gleibisch, an attractive matron of Irvington, is planning to entertain one of the most charming young women which she is a member. An hour with thimble and needle will precede a dainty repast.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Clendenning and twin daughters, who have been domiciled at Hotel Mallory, have left for Gearhart, where they will occupy their new cottage.

Gamma Phi Beta Alumnae will meet on Saturday, June 26, with Miss Beulah Bridges, Ewache Station.

From Minneapolis comes the news of the arrival of a baby daughter in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Benton Berry. Mrs. Berry was formerly Miss Muriel Ford, of Portland.

Mrs. Edward R. Root is being entertained delightfully during her stay in San Francisco, having attended several of the balls given at the Panama Exposition, enjoying especially the one given at the Oregon building by the Commissioners. She will be joined by Mr. Root and will visit in Los Angeles.

Mrs. C. H. Chamberlain presided at a charming luncheon Saturday, honoring her daughter, Mrs. Harry M. Bouvy, of La Grande. In addition to hostess and guests of honor, there were seated around the table ten of Mrs. Bouvy's intimate friends. Other equally delightful affairs have made Mrs. Bouvy's return home interesting.

The pleasing news came by cable from London, England, yesterday, that a son had been born to the household of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Cartwright. Mrs. Cartwright was Miss Margaret Malarkey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan J. Malarkey. Her marriage to Mr. Cartwright was an event of last June.

THE SANDMAN STORY

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

ONCE there were many little sunbeams. Their home was right in the shining sun. When the stars would fade away, and one by one the flowers and birds began to stir, the little sunbeams would shine on the dewy earth and all would awaken for the day. From his shining throne the great Sun spoke one day. "Now, my little sunbeams, I am going to give you all a mission of love today. Each little beam is to perform the greatest act of kindness it knows how. When I am sinking to the west in the evening sky each will bring to me his noble deed. I will listen, and the little sunbeam which has done the noblest act I will make unto myself in brilliancy."

So as the day dawned, away flew the sunbeams. Goldenhead, Sapphire-eyes, Pearlywing and many others. Little Heartease was a tiny beam, and when the blazing master Sun gave this command she was afraid. "What could a wee sunbeam do to please so great a master? She saw the shining beams dart across the smiling world, each on its mission of love.

"I am behind a passing cloud and her little heart was sad. She was too tiny to try in the big contest.

Then the cloud drifted by and Little Heartease found herself shining down upon the earth. The dewy lilies lifted their heads and she drank the dew from their cups; the little birds sunned themselves in her warm rays as she passed. "Oh mother, see the sunbeam!" cried one of the children. "Too said came when the dark clouds passed and the sun shone again that you would be well." Then Little Heartease shone all the brighter until the mother's face began to smile again. The color came to her cheeks and her eyes grew bright. "My babies," she whispered, "the sunbeam has made me well."

Heartease lingered long on the happy family; and when she looked the way she had come, she saw the sunbeams shining down on the earth. "Well, my little sunbeams, tell me what you have done today," said the master Sun. Goldenhead told of the flowers she had brought to life. Sapphire-eyes of the tears she had dried and Pearlywing of the birds she had awakened. Then Little Heartease came before the great Sun trembling and "oh of the mother she had brought back to her little ones. 'It is to you, then, Little Heartease, the prize must be given, for a mother's life is the noblest life of all'."

WOMEN'S CLUBS

By EDITH NIGHT HOLMES

MEMBERS of Delta Gamma Alumnae are looking forward to the Delta Gamma convention to be held in Berkeley, Cal. This summer, attended the monthly luncheon of the organization on Saturday at the Hazelwood. Among those for whom covers were laid were: Mrs. Arthur P. McKinley, Mrs. J. F. Young, Mrs. William Thornston Belcher, Mrs. Donald Payne, Mrs. H. M. Kimball, Misses Nettie Drew, climbing mountains from 6000 to 10,000 feet high, of taking "hikes" averaging from 18 to 25 miles a day, and otherwise acting as if they were in the prime of life. So far as vigor goes, they surely are in the prime of life. The calendar is the only thing that says they are old.

And now in some of the Eastern cities, the same thought has taken a little larger form in the Live-a-Little-Longer movement which is interesting not merely a few people of advanced years, but is appealing to all ages and classes. In some communities, the Board of Education and civic and business associations are interesting themselves in it. Even life insurance companies are helping forward the work.

The Wise Men, and the Centenary Club, and other such groups here and there have gone in for exercise and fresh air and the outdoor life as much as possible. But the Live-a-Little-Longer movement is going to take the matter up more specifically and scientifically than this. Instruction in the laws of sanitation and hygiene are to be brought up forcibly. Diseases that are preventable; how to keep them from the home; and why should be made more resistant to disease; home nursing; scientific nursing; what to do in emergencies; the proper food for the sick; the care of children to keep them well are all among the subjects that will be considered. And so thoroughly will the work be done that the knowledge will be brought home to everyone in the community and interest generally aroused in the movement.

Such knowledge properly applied will prolong life for many. And not only will it prolong life, but it will make life more healthful, more vigorous, more efficient. And if we can prolong life, if we can make it more useful by foresight and conservation, why should we not do it? Why should we be as wasteful as many of us are at present of our life force? We all want our life to be vigorous and useful. And yet every day many of us do dozens of things which make it less so. Efforts are being made to health, and for which we will pay the penalty in shorter life or disease.

Since the Live-a-Little-Longer Movement will bring increased happiness and increased usefulness to many, let us welcome it as one of the progressive efforts of our time in which we each work together for the good of all.

W. T. BURNEY PASSES AT 62

Former Portland Attorney Dies at Monrovia, California.

Word has just been received from Monrovia, Cal., of the death there of W. T. Burney, aged 62, one of Oregon's best known lawyers. He had lived in Monrovia about a year, going there from Los Angeles, where he was heavily interested in real estate, and where he had lived since his retirement from the Oregon bar, four years ago.

The members of his family are a widow, Nora S. Burney, two sons and two daughters—Benjamin, Burney and Deputy Sheriff Philip Burney, of Berkeley. Mrs. Arthur Wright, of Monrovia, and Mrs. Walter G. Cox, of Portland, are also survivors.

Burney practiced law in this city for 35 years, and was known throughout the state. He was a prominent Democrat, and was receiver at the land office at Oregon City under the Cleveland Administration. He was also widely known as the publisher of a book of poems by the late Sam Simpson.

SHOOTING SUSPECT IS HELD

Two Identify Charles Hayes as Having Been With D. Macias.

The bullet that punctured the jaw of D. Macias, O.-W. K. & N. trackwalker, last Thursday night fits the revolver taken from Charles Hayes by Deputy Sheriff Phillips and Beckey on Friday. This was demonstrated yesterday, when railroad men from the vicinity of Cascade Lock, only 10 miles from the lead slum, which they had dug from the floor of Macias' cabin. With both jawbones shattered and a bullet lodged somewhere in his chest, Macias is in St. Vincent's Hospital with excellent chances for complete recovery. Hayes is in the County Jail awaiting trial before the shooting. Macias also has identified Hayes as his assailant, although Hayes says he was not near the scene of the crime.

The Live-a-Little Longer Movement.

In spite of the allurements of heaven, few of us are eager to leave the earth behind. The brew of life, even though at times bitter, is pleasant to our lips and we want to drink of the cup just as long as possible. Seeing then that most of us want to live our allotted three-score and ten and are not averse to prolonging our northdays even beyond this mark, isn't it queer that we do not do more of the simple things that will help us achieve this ambition? When we are sick, we will desperately do anything to get well. But when we are well, we will do little to keep well or prolong life. In fact, we do many of the things to shorten it.

Here and there are little groups of people who are facing about in this matter and taking definite practical steps to lengthen their life. In a Western city is a small coterie known as the Twelve Wise Men. They are most of them in their seventies, yet they are hale, hearty, active; their wisdom takes the form of doing those things that will lengthen life and preserve health.

In another city is a Centenary Club, composed of men who, according to their own declaration, are going to live to be 100. Its members are in the eighties and nineties, and not feeling old men, but men who think nothing of than in beef-steak or eggs. Wise old Mother Nature made the whole wheat the most perfect food given to man, and along came an American genius and made it digestible by steam-cooking, shredding and baking it. The tasty, delicious crispness of the baked wheat pleases the palate and delights the stomach after the heavy foods of winter. The food for the man who wants to win—wholesome, healthful, nourishing. Delicious for breakfast with milk or cream, or for any meal with berries or fruits.

BREAD BAKING ON TAPIS

PERFECT LOAF BY ELECTRICITY PROGRAMME TODAY.

Broiling of Meats, Too, No Doubt Will Prove Interesting to Portland Housewife, as Shown.

Mrs. Elinor Mechem Redington, of Seattle, editor of the Pure-Food page of the Post-Intelligencer, is conducting an electric cookery demonstration this week on the seventh floor of the new Meier & Frank building. Absolutely new electric ranges and a combination cabinet and table are features of the demonstration.

Yesterday a general lecture on "The Elimination of Household Drudgery by Electricity" was given to a large and appreciative assembly. Cake baking was taught also, and only scientific and inexpensive recipes were used, each costing more than ten cents.

Today bread baking and broiling are the topics to be discussed and shown. One of the features will be the baking of a perfect loaf of bread by electricity. Broiling of meats no doubt will prove interesting for all will be done in a perfectly scientific manner, by heat without fumes, ashes or odors.

Mrs. Redington is a graduate of the Willamette University and has made extensive tours of the country and carried on demonstrations in all the large cities of Washington, Oregon and Idaho. Her lectures on apple cookery, given last fall during the Spokane Apple Show, were marked successes, and her stay here will be characterized by more varied and general line of subjects. Every day until Sunday she will cook before the public on the seventh floor of the Meier & Frank building.

Her husband is the wife of W. Waterman Redington, a former Portland newspaper man, now of San Diego. She has four daughters, all of whom are interested in domestic science and pursuing it in study or vocation.

These free demonstrations will be given every afternoon this week, and the public is invited to attend.

TODAY'S BEAUTY HINTS

To whiten and beautify the complexion permanently we have found no better preparation than a lotion made by dissolving four ounces of spumax in one-half pint hot water, then adding two teaspoonfuls glycerin. This removes any pimples, shiny, mottled or sallow appearance, and will make anyone's skin clear, smooth and velvety. It does not show or rub off like powder. In fact, it seems a part of the skin; and for removing tan and freckles is unequalled.

It is necessary to shampoo more frequently in the warmer weather because of excessive dust and the fact that the head perspires more and is usually more exposed to the weather. The easiest-to-use and quickest-drying shampoo that we can recommend to our readers can be prepared very cheaply by dissolving a teaspoonful of caustic, obtained from your druggist, in a cup of hot water. This rubbed into the scalp creates a thick lather, soothing and cooling in its action, and very beneficial to scalp and hair. After rinsing the scalp is fresh and clean and the hair dries quickly and evenly and takes on a bright luster and soft fluffiness that makes it seem very heavy.—Adv.
