DERNBURG SPENDS NIGHT IN BRITAIN

Norwegian Steamer Bearing German Propagandist Detained on Suspicion.

HOMEWARD TRIP RESUMED

Plight Regarded in London as Amusing, but Promise of Safe Passage Is Kept-Purpose in America Declared Accomplished.

LONDON, June 24 .- Unknown to the British public, Dr. Bernhard Dernburg, whose propaganda in favor of Germany while he was on a visit to the United States caused much comment, spent last night aboard the Norwegian steamer Bergensfjord in the harbor of

Kirkwall, Orkney Islands, Tonight, however, Dr. Dernburg is proceeding to Sweden on his way to Germany aboard the Bergensfjord, which was detained at Kirkwall yesterday, presumably on suspicion that she carried contraband. The steamer was released today. The news that the Bergensfjord had been taken into Kirkwall did not become known until the release of the vessel was announced.

The predicament of Dr. Dernburg in being forced to spend the night in a Scotch port is considered here an amusing one. He was in no danger of bethe storaged by the British officials, in ing stopped by the British officials, in view of the promise to give him free passage. He did not leave the steamer the examination of her cargo

NEW YORK, June 24 .- The Tribune prints today an interview with Dr. Bernhard Dernburg which it says was obtained on the stipulation that it should not be published until Dr. Dernburg had arrived at Bergen, Norway, which port the vessel on which he salled from New York was presumed to have reached yesterday.

"Some of the allies might take of-fense at some of my statements and interfere with my journey," he was quoted as saying.

The Tribune quotes Dr. Dernburg as eaying his mission in the United States, though curtailed, had been successful.

"I feel that the great American pub-lic has a clearer and better under-standing of the German cause and the German aims of this war," he added.
"Germany at the beginning of the war was so isolated that the underlying motives for, and the German viewpoint of, the war night never have pene-trated through the circles of isolation with which our enemies have tried to surround us. If I have succeeded in presenting to the great, intelligent body of Americans the basic facts of this war as Germany sees them, and upon which her gigantic struggle is based, the main object of my mission will have been accomplished."

Dr. Dernburg said he would go immediately to Berlin to confer with government officials there. He positively depict he would early on any propagation.

"The grand old man of the reunion" was "Father" John Flinn, the veteran preacher, who now is 98 years old. He was on the programme for the invoca-tion yesterday and was given a per-sonal tribute of love and respect. William L. Brewster, City Commis-sioner, extended an official welcome on behalf of the city, President Geer

Additional inspiration was provided by the music of the veterans' quartet— W. M. Morse, Dr. J. E. Hall, H. W. Mills and Professor Z. M. Parvin. An orig-Inal poem, dedicated to the pioneers was recited by James Barton Adams the author and a pioneer of the Rocky Mountain region.

The principal address of the day was delivered by Judge J. C. Fullerton, of Roseburg, a ploneer of 1852, who reviewed some of the incidents of his early experiences and those of his parents. Judge Fullerton's speech was an eloquent one and he was loudly ap-

The whole company joined in singing the song, "Oregon," written by Pro-fessor W. D. Lyman, of Whitman Col-lege, at Walla Walla.

But the meeting lost little time with his oratory and its song. It had other and equally pleasant details in store. The banquet at the Armory was scheduled for 4:30 o'clock, but it was nearer the hour of 4 o'clock when the main body of men and women arrived. A regular old-fashioned picnic lunch was spread upon tables that covered all the available space in the big build-ing.

The ploneers were guests of honor and the women's auxiliary were the genial hosts. Prominent Portland society women and their fair daughters waited personally at the tables. They trammed in big trays of crisp, fried chicken and wrestled with whole cargoes of potato salad, baked salmon, homemade cake and ice cream so long as the appetites of the old folks lasted.

The occasion was the first picnic held by the New England society and signified the rebirth of the society after being defunct 21 years. George C. Flanders, a member of the former society, has been elected president of the new organization.

The picnic was made a joint gathering of the Massachusetts State Society and the New England Society. The Massachusetts Society is the only one of the six New England states represented by a state society in Orerepresented by a state society in Oregon and it is planned for the New England Society to represent all the New England states. There are 125 members of the New England Society. Over 100 memmbers of the combined socie-ties joined in the picnic. Mrs. Dan Kellaher served baked beans to all those who were present, while the society supplied coffee.

A later picnic will be held at the Oaks to make plans for the entertainment of New England visitors passing through Portland this season.
