THAW'S NEW FRIENDS DECLARE HIM SANE

Prosecution, However, Brings Out Fact Murder Topic Was Never Mentioned.

MONOMANIA IS ALLEGED

Way Paved to Take Testimony of President-Emeritus of Harvard on Prisoner's Expulsion From Harvard in 1892.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Harry K. Thaw, sitting beside his lawyers at the jury trial to test his sanity, today heard 15 more witnesses—nearly all of them friends he made during his sojourn in Canada and New Hampshire—testify that they believed he was a rational man.

One was a physician, who had attended to his sprained ankle; another had sold him an automobile, another had gone fishing with him, another was the Sheriff who was his custodian in New Hampshire for 15 months; one was an Alderman of Sherwood, Quebec, who said he thought so much of him that he had invited him to settle down there as one of the city's business men. All declared that Thaw conducted himself like a gentleman, had no delusions and was rational, both in speech and actions.

Murder Topic Never Broached.
Thaw, turning frequently to newspapermen who sat near him, gave evidence of his satisfaction at the mass of evidence in his favor that his counsel was presenting to the jury. The attorneys for the state, however, never failed in cross-examination to ask each witness whether Thaw had at any time discussed women with them or any other of the circumstances that led to the murder of Stanford White. None would say that these topics were brought up, whereupon the state's examiners would make the point that a paranoiac such as Thaw is alleged to be might converse rationally except when his one delusion was mentioned.

Thaw was especially pleased with the testimony of Sheriff Holman A. Drew, of Coos County, New Hampshire, who arrested Thaw and was his custodian for 15 months.

new that dates within the past 20 years. He is starting on a fishing expedition. That's all it amounts to. "It is absolutely untrue that Dr. Elliot called me to his office at mid-day or noon and asked me to leave the university at 3 P. M. What occurred, I prefer to say. I prefer to leave it to Dr. Elliot. I am quite willing to accept his statement and content myself with pointing out that Mr. Cook shows in this course that he is not interested chiefly in the question of my present sanity."

Visions of South Recalled by Melodies at Heilig.

Hampton Institute Negro Singers Captivate Capacity House With Plantation Folk Songs and Entertaining Pictures.

BY LEONE CASS BAER.
IF YOU'VE ever lived in the South and heard the darkies singing in the cotton field as they trailed slowly along between the rows of cotton, or if you've heard their voices blending in beautiful, natural, unstudied harmony, floating out from their evening gatherings, before their little old ramshackle cabins, or in their plain churches or at their revivals or socials, then you'll be glad to go to the Heilig sometime before this week ends and hear a quartet of negro singers whose music brings all the Southland melodies of the Southland negro home to us.

MRS. GEDDES STILL MORMON, SHE SAYS

Plaintiff in Suit Asserts Right to Participate in Temple's Secret Rites.

LETTERS READ IN COURT

Woman Who Seeks Share of Late Millionaire's Estate for Son Said to Have Made Direct Appeal for Funds.

OGDEN, Utah, June 24.—Mrs. Margaret Geddes, testifying today in the suit to obtain for her son, Albert Geddes, Eccles, a portion of the estate of the late millionaire beet sugar magnate, David Eccles, was cross-examined as to her standing in the Mormon Church.

Mrs. Geddes asserted she was still a faithful member of the church and was qualified to take part in the secret rites performed in the Mormon Temple, in which only those in good standing are allowed to participate.

Church Dignitaries Waiting.
As there is no intimation when Mrs. Geddes will complete her period on the stand, it is not known just when Joseph F. Smith, president of the Mormon Church; United States Senator Smoot; apostle, George F. Gibbs, secretary to the first presidency of the Mormon Church; and other prominent church dignitaries will be called to testify. With the exception of Secretary Gibbs, all of these have been summoned by the Eccles estate.

Temple Avoided Voluntarily.
She admitted she had done no Mormon Temple work for the past 18 months, but it was only because she did not want to, she declared.

The first of more than 50 letters alleged to have been written by Mrs. Geddes to the late financier since 1885 were read at the afternoon session. The first purported to be a request for $200. It was signed with the initials, "M. F. G." Another letter, this one addressed to David C. Eccles, son of the late millionaire and administrator of the estate, was written after the death of Mr. Eccles. It was an inquiry as to whether stock placed in Mr. Eccles' hands 18 years before still stood in Mrs. Geddes' name.

WATER PROJECT VISITED

Oregon City Commission Pleased by Progress on Line.

OREGON CITY, Or., June 24.—(Special.)—Satisfaction with the progress in the construction of the South Fork water project was expressed today by William Andress, chairman of the commission, who, with M. D. Latourrette and W. A. Long, the other members, inspected the line yesterday. The party made the trip to Estacada by automobile and followed the survey to the intake, inspecting the more difficult work in the canyons of the Clackamas River and along the South Fork. On the return trip to Oregon City the commissioners visited that portion of the line in which pipe has been laid.

RAZOR PLANT PROPOSED

J. CANBY MORGAN, OF NEW YORK, IN PORTLAND AFTER 10 YEARS.

Site Sought for Factory to Employ 100 Men With Object of Developing Trade in Orient.

To look over Portland as a prospective site for a factory which he proposes to establish in the West, J. Canby Morgan, president of the Morgan Razor Company, New York, returned to Portland several days ago for his first visit in ten years and the second one in 18 years. Mr. Morgan, who is the son of E. N. Morgan, prominent Indian War veteran, was at one time an active member of the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club, and as such won medals for bowling, bicycle riding, foot racing and kindred sports. He was one of the sharpshooters of Company H, Oregon National Guard, and is widely known in Portland and vicinity.

"I cannot see that the California cities have any advantage over Portland for my purposes, and if I can select a suitable site here I shall probably locate the factory here," said Mr. Morgan yesterday. "Our idea is to build up a branch factory here that will develop and handle a large trade that is booming up with the Orient and the South American countries. It is problematical how large a plan the factory would be built on, but it might assume the proportions of a good-sized plant, capable of employing 100 or more men. It would depend on conditions, of course, but we have decided to build in the West."
