

144 GET DIPLOMAS

AND JEFFERSON HIGH Record-Breaking Class Has 37 Honor Students and 68 for College.

MEMBERS EARN $33,480

Boys Make $12,540 Carrying Newspapers While in School and Girls Are Paid for Work, Too. Programme Is Given.

Hopkin Jenkins, principal of Jefferson High School, enjoyed what can probably be regarded as the greatest triumph of his career as head of that school, last night, when he presided at the commencement exercises of the class of 1915, which is a record-breaking class in more ways than one.

It is the largest class that has ever been graduated from any high school in the state, and it is the youngest class that has ever been graduated from Jefferson, while its high rank in scholarship is shown by the fact that 37 out of the class graduated with "honorary standing"—which represents a grade of more than 90 per cent, in every study during the senior year.

Like the class, the crowd that assembled to witness the commencement exercises was a record-breaker in the magnitude, and scores wandered about the halls during the programme because the auditorium was packed to the doors and it would have been beyond human possibility for another person to have edged in anywhere.

Two prizes were awarded for proficiency in German, the prizes being given by Otto Schumann, in behalf of the Confederation of German-Speaking Societies. Mr. Schumann was unable to be present, and the presentation was made by C. J. Schnabel. Originally it was intended to offer only a first-prize medal, but the two leading contestants ranked so close together that another prize, a book, was added for the second in standing. The winners were Mary Deggendorfer and Alma Gruenig.

The musical numbers of the programme were given by members of the graduating class under direction of W. H. Boyer. Charles W. Fulton gave the address, and the presentation of diplomas was by O. M. Plummer, of the School Board. So large was the class that it took nearly a quarter of an hour to get the diplomas to hand out the diplomas while the students marched past him.

Principal Jenkins gave a brief talk before the presentation of diplomas, outlining some of the striking facts about the class and its career. Sixty-eight out of the 144 intend to go to the University of Oregon, eight the Agricultural College, six the State Normal School, six Willamette University, and five Reed College. The others will attend institutions in other states.

A striking bit of information as to the industry of the students was given in the announcement that every boy in the class had engaged in gainful occupation while a student in the school and that the total earnings of the 144 in the class were $30,510 in four years. Of this $12,540 was earned in carrying papers, $5240 in farming and the rest in miscellaneous work. Of the girls, 22 had engaged in gainful work and had earned a total of $3170.

The officers of Jefferson's class of 1915 are: President, John Mowry; vice-president, Ruth Walter; secretary, Ina McCoy; treasurer, Hobart Laman; sergeant-at-arms, M. Maurice, and editor, Madeline Slotboom.

TRADE SCHOOL GRADUATES 78

George E. Brock, of Boston, Delivers Address to Class.

"I want you to be young men and women who have vision," said George E. Brock, of Boston, Mass., prominent banker and former member of the School Board of that city, speaking before the 78 graduates at the commencement exercises of the Portland School of Trades last night at the Lincoln High School auditorium. It was the sixth commencement of the school. "I would not give a fig," continued the speaker, "for young people who do not dream of great and good things for the future, for they are the ones who accomplish."

Mr. Brock also urged his hearers to be optimists and also charged them to go live that the world would be better for their having lived in it.

Dr. Alan Welch Smith, member of the Board of Directors, presented the diplomas to the graduates. Among the musical numbers on the programme were selections by the Boys' School of Trades band and by the Girls' School of Trades glee club, and solos by Miss Metta Brown.

The commencement gowns worn by the girls cost $1.35 and were designed and made by the graduates themselves, according to Mrs. A. Alexander, principal of the Girls' School of Trades.

C. E. Cleveland, principal of the Boys' School of Trades, presided. The list of graduates follows:

Portland Men Guests.

NEWBERG, June 25.—(Special.)—The visit made to Newberg yesterday afternoon by a delegation of Portland bankers and representatives of the wholesale grocers and commission houses was much appreciated by this community. The party arrived in a motor at 2:30 o'clock and was at once taken in hand by a committee that had been appointed by the Commercial Club governors. The committee had gone to Portland the day before to make a personal request for the visit. The following named constituted the Portland delegation: Edward Crawford, vice-president, Lumberman's National Bank; Arthur O. Jones, assistant cashier, First National; Charles S. Loveland, bank examiner, Portland Clearing House; R. Adams, secretary, Oregon Wholesale Grocers' Association; L. A. Lewis, of Allen & Lewis; Lewis Lang, of Lang & Adams; E. H. Linn, of E. H. Linn, Ehrman & Co.; F. D. Stephenson, of Wadhams & Co.; Frank A. Kerr, of Wadhams & Kerr Bros.; J. D. Kenworthy, of Wadhams & Kerr Bros.; Edwin J. Hall, of T. W. Jenkins & Co.

OFFICIALS ON PROJECTS

GOVERNOR AND PARTY GUESTS AT END OF DAY ON TUMALO.

Banquets Follow Conferences With Settlers and Discussion of Problems—Cities Represented.

BEND, Or., June 25.—(Special.)—After a strenuous day spent in inspecting the Tumalo irrigation project here, Governor Withycombe and his party of 10 state officials wound up 15 hours of sightseeing and entertainment at a banquet given in their honor by the Emblem Club here tonight.

Accompanying Governor Withycombe in Secretary of State Groot and Attorney-General Brown, members of the Desert Land Board, and L. N. Fleischner, Frank Warren, Marion Jack and C. F. Stone, members of the Fish and Game Commission. In addition to these Harvey Wells, Insurance Commissioner; Carl Abrams, Industrial Accident Commissioner; and John Gibbis, chief inspector in the State Engineer's office comprise the party.

After a breakfast given by the Bend Commercial Club, the members of the Desert Land Board attended a meeting of settlers on the Central Oregon Irrigation Company's Carey act segregation, east of Bend. Thereafter the entire party was entertained at a luncheon at Tumalo, given by the settlers on the Tumalo irrigation project, which has just been completed by the state. The afternoon was devoted to inspecting that project.

Last night, the Emblem Club, of Bend, gave an elaborate banquet in honor of the visiting officials, attended by more than 150. Representatives from Prineville, Representative Smith, of Klamath Falls, and a delegation from that city attended. The Klamath Falls delegation will take the Governor and Fish and Game Commissioners south tomorrow to Klamath Falls. After a day there they will be taken to Crater Lake and thence to Medford, by representative of those who will meet them at the lake.

BIBLE PLEA IS REJECTED

Council Refuses Missionary Request on Score of Impartiality.

Strict neutrality is to be the City Council's policy regarding religion. The policy was decided upon yesterday when the Council turned down a request for an appropriation of $100 to buy 2000 Bibles for foreigners of Portland. The appropriation was asked by Dr. Dale, representing the Women's Missionary Society.

Dr. Dale said the money would be well spent. She tried to prove her point by reading several passages of the New Testament to the Council. The Council thought it might be sectarian to buy Bibles when all religions do not believe in Bibles. Another attempt will be made later to get the appropriation notwithstanding yesterday's defeat.

PRINTING MEN AT SMOKER

Nearly All Job Houses in City Represented at Press Club.

The smoker of the Franklin Club in the Press Club rooms last night was attended by representatives of nearly every job printing-house in the city. F. L. Moreland was featured on the programme as "The Front-Street Merchant," a part in which he received repeated applause for "nothing."

Others on the programme were Dave Bowman, H. A. Houghton, Jack Keating, H. M. Glen and his sons, and Mr. Lawson. K. E. Kubil was caterer. The programme was followed by luncheon in the clubrooms.

Peoples Enlists Veteran Film Man.

J. R. Cummooh, a new member of the staff of the Peoples Amusement Company, an ex-manager of the Northwest Paramount service, arrived yesterday from Seattle to take up his work at the Peoples and Star theaters. Mr. Cummooh was for 11 years a prominent motion-picture man of Los Angeles, and has been connected with the film work from his infancy.

Meeting Called Anonymously.

An anonymous call by persons who announce they are interested in conserving the Oregon & California land grant for the benefit of bona fide settlers and under such terms and manner as to be of the greatest good to the State of Oregon, has been issued for a mass meeting in the assembly hall of the Central Library for 8 o'clock Monday night.

Record Shots Made Oregon Reserves Close Target Practice.

VETERANS ELECT OFFICERS H. W. North, of Everett, Is Chosen Department Commander.

ASHLAND MEN FASTEST Portland Coast Artillerymen Make Good Score—Practice Ends With Use of 12-Inch Mortars by Two Eugene Companies.

PORT STEVENS, Or., June 25.—(Special.)—With the firing of the 12-inch mortars today, the Oregon reserves completed the most successful target practice season of their history. Both of the companies, the Second and Third, are from Eugene and are commanded by Captains Bond and Huntley.

Each company fired two preliminary testing shots at stationary targets to compute the necessary corrections required for firing on the rapidly moving targets. The two record shots of each company were fired at targets more than 7000 yards from the batteries. The projectiles weighed more than one-half ton each, and both records were fired within a time limit of three minutes.

Data so far obtainable indicate that Captain Huntley's company obtained two hits and that Captain Bond's company scored one hit. This is a striking record, and artillery officers say they do not believe that the third company will be equaled by any other reserve organization of the United States.

The fastest time was made by Captain Malone, commanding the First Company, of Ashland, Or. This company loaded, aimed and fired its three projectiles in 1 minute and 59 seconds. The Roseburg and Medford companies, commanded by Captains Buchanan and Vance, were but three seconds behind this record. The Eighth Company, of Portland, under the command of Captain Wright, made its usual high score, and equally good results were obtained by Captain Wood, of Medford, and Captain Powell, of Cottage Grove, with their commands.

One hundred and seventy-eight pounds of powder is the charge required to propel the projectiles at a speed of one-half mile per second. They would penetrate more than ten inches of armor plate.

The target used was a small pyramidal type measuring at the base 10 feet. From its center a distance of 30 feet is allowed on each side within which to register a hit. Thirty feet is allowed above water. At times an actual net target is used 60 feet by 30 high. A battleship firing broadsides would expose a surface more than eight times greater. With bow facing the batteries, the enemy's vessels would present a hitting surface one and one-half times greater than the target used.

Oregonians have become so enthused over this year's records at Fort Stevens that they are contemplating the organization of two more reserve companies. The reserves will be paid at 4 o'clock Saturday, and will depart Sunday for their homes in Portland, Eugene, Medford, Roseburg, Cottage Grove and Ashland.

BODY SENT TO STEVENSON

Funeral of Man Drowned in Wind River to Be Held by Oddfellows.

STEVENSON, Wash., June 25.—(Special.)—The body of William Natzel, who was drowned in Wind River, near Carson, Tuesday evening, was brought to Stevenson yesterday, from which place he will be buried under the auspices of the Oddfellows Lodge. His father is on his way here from Iowa. County Attorney Wright went to Carson this afternoon to arrange for an inquest to be held tomorrow. It is reported by the man who was with Mr. Natzel that he tried to escape from the flood caused by the Wind River Lumber Company's gates up the river being accidentally opened.

William Natzel was a well-known business man, and was a partner of H. W. States, of Stevenson, in the meat business.

An Italian university professor claims to have found radium in ordinary dew.
