

LIST OF SORORITY GIRLS JOYFUL ONE

300 Delegates See Portland on Their Way to Convention at Gearhart.

PARTY ON SPECIAL TRAIN

Kappa Alpha Theta Delegates, Going to Their Convention, Are Guests of Local Committee and Chamber of Commerce.

(Continued From First Page.) visit in Portland, all were anticipating the big gathering at the seashore. "I'm just wild to see the ocean," said Miss Helen Barnes, of North Dakota, and Olga Serumgard and La Belle Mahon, from the same state, both said they would have a dip in the briny as one of the treats of the trip. All the way from Calcutta, India, is Luella Smith, who declared that every time she announced the name of her home city people always stared as though they expected to see her in native colors of India. Among the enthusiastic girls in the party was Erma Kieithly, of San Francisco, who is assisting in dispensing hospitality in true Western style. "We have been showered with attentions everywhere," said pretty Josephine Glidden, of De Kalb, Ill., "and as for the West—why, we love it." Mrs. W. W. Jones, of Toledo, is accompanying her daughter, Miss Clara Jones. "I'm not a sorority girl," she declared, "but I'm a sorority mother, and I have the best time imaginable mothering these girls," and her glance embraced at least a score of bright-eyed, pink-cheeked young women. Isabel Clingensmith, of Pittsburg, and Mrs. Jessamine De Haven Lewis, of Allegheny, stepped out the car "just for a second" while the guard was calling "All aboard," and they allowed the photographer to snap them. "Shall we get newspapers at Gearhart?" they asked. "We want to see what we look like."

Initiation to Be Feature. The sessions of the convention will open this morning in the rustic auditorium located in the heart of the pine woods not far from the hotel. The model initiation, a beautiful ceremony of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Thetas, will be staged in this place Tuesday evening. It promises to be one of the features of the session and will be led by the Eugene chapter members. The social activities will be varied, and will be staged all along the south beach on either side of Gearhart and Seaside and at those two places, where the formal functions will be held. This afternoon the scattered sisters of the various chapters will reunite under their respective banners. Tonight there will be a huge beach party, with the Seattle chapter of the University of Washington as hostesses. This will be a novel and entertaining feature, as many of the visiting delegates have never sat at a truly Western beach bonfire. Fraternizing songs will echo and re-echo up and down the beach, while huge driftwood fires will emblazon the landscape for more than a mile. The beach from Gearhart to Seaside will be one long stream of light. A moonlight songfest will be held in the auditorium Tuesday night.

Stunt Party to Be Given. On Wednesday night a "stunt" party will be given by the Seattle delegation and on Thursday the newly-elected officers will be invested and the convention proper will end with a big banquet.

The Thetas of Silverton and Albany will be hostesses at a picnic Monday and on Saturday the delegation will stop off at Astoria to view the river sports. Many of the delegates will take the afternoon train for San Francisco that afternoon, the others coming by way of Portland for their homes. Not the least interesting diversion of the convention will be the daily paper which will be published and distributed each morning at breakfast during the convention. This will be issued from the office of the Seaside Publishing Company by C. C. Dodge, of Ontario, Or., assisted by Miss Margorie McGuire, of Berkeley; Helen Hamilton, of Roseburg; Wallista Wright and Leta Taylor, of Albany; Laura E. Lucas and Alice Gram, of Portland. The six sub-editors are all students at the University of Oregon.

Sorority Organized in 1870. The Kappa Alpha Theta is the oldest sorority. It was organized in 1870 at Depauw, then Asbury University, Greencastle, Ind. The sorority stands high in scholarship, insisting on "scholarship first, fun afterwards." More than 7000 women are alumnae members, and wear the black and gold Kite which is the emblem of membership.

There are distinguished women in the party. Mrs. George Finley of Peoria, Ill., wife of the well-known writer, who is herself a writer of promise. Miss Clara Fanning, of White Plains, N. Y., also is in the party. She is known in literary and scholarship circles also. Mrs. Eleanor G. Karstens, secretary to the president, and Bryn Mawr, likewise is attending the convention. It is doubtful if a train of 12 coaches ever carried a more distinguished delegation of young and matured women. The cruise junket left Fargo June 21.

women from all parts of the United States, arrived in Gearhart at 6 o'clock and the delegates registered at the Hotel Gearhart with the exception of a few who were forced to occupy cottages for the five days' stay. The train was met by a reception committee composed of sorority girls from the ninth district, which includes Washington, Oregon and California. Dinner was served in the Gearhart Park dining-room, after which a general get-acquainted social was held in the hotel lobby. Tomorrow the visitors will go surfing-bathing and hold a large beach frolic after dark. An original play in verse by Victoria Bouillon, entitled "The Flower of Power," and a comedy on "Rushing," by Peggy Denver, will be given Thursday evening. Many picnics, rides and drives have been planned. The natatorium, tennis courts and golf links have been turned over to the guests. D. H. Doller, of Spokane, is at the Oregon. J. A. 2 BOYS DIE WHEN THEIR CAVE FALLS

Osborne Middleton, 10, and Leo Larson, 11, Found Dead After Long Search.

LADS ARE BURIED IN SAND

Scrap of Tin, Used as Spade, Gives Mute Testimony of Pair Digging Play-Refuge in Embankment on Rodney Avenue.

A shoe and part of a boyish leg protruding from a heap of sandy loam beneath an overhanging embankment on Rodney avenue, near Lombard street, led to the finding, early yesterday, of the bodies of Leo Larson, aged 11, and Osborne Middleton, aged 10, after an all-night search by distracted parents. Digging a "cave" in the bank the evening before the two lads penetrated too far into the unstable soil and a cave-in resulted, burying them alive in the damp sand and clay. Leo Larson, who is the son of Edward Larson, proprietor of a grocery at 1429 Union avenue North, left his home at 492 Liberty street shortly after 7 o'clock Saturday night and met Osborne Middleton, aged 10, of 1423 Union avenue North, and 7-year-old Fred Middleton. The three boys started out together, but the younger Middleton lad soon returned home, saying that his brother and the Larson boy were going to play at the gravel pit in Columbian Slough.

Search Is Long Fruitless. As it grew dusk the parents of the two boys became worried. Mr. Larson went to the Middleton home to see if the boy was there and then with Mr. Middleton, started to search for the youngsters. While the boys had often gone out to play together in the slough, they had never before been gone so long, as it was their habit to return to their homes when it grew dark. After several hours of fruitless search the police bureau was notified that the boys were missing and patrolmen were detailed to aid in the hunt. At daylight the search continued and resulted in the finding of the bodies. Motorcycle Patrolmen Ervin and Tully and Deputy Coroner Smith uncovered the bodies, which were taken to the morgue. Nearly half a ton of dirt had fallen on the boys when the walls of their dirt castle caved in. In the hands of one was found an irregular-shaped piece of tin with which he had been scooping out the dirt. The form of the excavation in the soft loam had been accomplished by their unaided hands. The street is not cut all the way through, where the bodies were found, and children of the neighborhood had been in the habit of playing on the embankment and of digging caves in the sides.

Inquest Not to Be Held. Leo Larson leaves his father and mother and older brother, Dewey, aged 17, and two younger sisters. The Middleton boy's father, Osborne Middleton, is a credit man for the Black-McFall Company and lives at 1423 Union avenue North. The lad leaves his father, mother and a younger brother. No inquest will be held. Both funerals will be held Wednesday, that of the Larson boy from the Woodlawn Methodist Church and that of Osborne Middleton, Jr., from the Holy Redeemer Church. The former had attended the public school in Woodlawn and the latter had been a pupil in the school of the Holy Redeemer.

3 CANOE PARTIES SOAKED Professor Lyon Will Begin Entertaining Portland Boys.

Police Kept Busy Restoring Wandering Youngsters Whose Parents Take Them Too Far From Home—Shows Please All.

Two Canoes, for instance, tipped over in the neighborhood of the bathing pavilion. The popularity of the swimming was attested by the number of heroic young rescuers who raced to the scene. Their services were not needed, however, for in each case the tiny craft occupants could swim, and suffered nothing worse than getting wet.

Lost Children Rescued. Six children were reported "lost" at the Oaks, and Harry Riley, chief of police, had his hands full restoring them to anxious parents.
