

THIRD REGIMENT TO GO TO CAMP TODAY

Portland Companies Depart at 9:30 for Gearhart and Others Soon Follow.

BUSY TEN DAYS AHEAD

Regular Army Officers Detailed to Accompany Militiamen as Instructors—Track Meet to Be Encampment Feature.

Portland will be a scene of military activity today, for the 700 men of the Third Regiment, Oregon National Guard, fully equipped as for a hard campaign, will entrain here for an annual encampment to be held at Gearhart. The first detachment, consisting of the six Portland companies, will leave at 9:30 o'clock this morning from the North Bank depot, and will be followed three hours later by the remaining six companies of the state. These latter companies will arrive in the morning on various trains during the morning.

The work of loading the equipment of the Portland companies for shipment to the camp was in progress all day yesterday under the direction of Colonel Clemond McLaughlin, who is in command of the regiment. The equipment, practically a carload, consisted of tents, utensils of various kinds and supplies for the troops during their 19 days' encampment. The horses for the officers, orderlies and mounted detachments will be loaded this morning.

Instruction Begins Tomorrow.
On their arrival at the camp, which is located about 2 1/2 miles north of Gearhart, the troops will pitch their tents. This work will be hastened so that the men will be ready for the beginning of the instruction work tomorrow. The camp, which is to be in practically the same place as that of last year, will be known as Camp Jackson, in honor of Colonel James Jackson, U. S. A., retired, and inspector of the Oregon National Guard.

The officers of the militia will be assisted in their work of instructing their commands by officers who have been detailed for that work from the regular Army troops stationed at Vancouver Barracks. Colonel Swift, of the Western division, has detailed a regular Army non-commissioned officer to serve with each of the companies, with one to act as trumpet instructor and another as an instructor with the sanitary detachment. In addition, there will be three commissioned officers, one with each battalion.

Band Will Go Along.
The band with the Third Regiment stationed in Portland will accompany the troops, as will also the sanitary troops.

The days at the encampment will be filled with work. Reveille will be sounded at 5:30 o'clock in the morning and taps sounded at 11 o'clock at night. The hours of the day will be crowded full of instruction work, and there will be a number of lectures in the evening. The soldiers will have some time off, however, in the afternoons for recreation.

The annual track meet will be one of the features of the encampment. It will be held Saturday afternoon, July 10. Company A, of McMinnville, won the meet last year.

The summer maneuvers of the Third Regiment come last of all among the units of the state and forces this year. Battery A, Field Artillery, and the Coast Artillery Reserve have recently completed their encampment, and Troop A, Cavalry, is now at Monterey.

The naval militia will leave July 26 for the annual cruise and target practice.

MILITIAMEN STUDY ON TRAIN

Troop A, En Route to Monterey, Cal., Passes Through Dunsuir.

DUNSMUIR, Cal., July 4.—(Special.)—Cavalry Troop A, of the militia, passed through here today on the way to Monterey, Cal., where the militiamen will have a real taste of military life. While on the way the men are receiving preliminary instruction, and military discipline is being instilled in them.

The troop has three coaches, two for the men and one for their baggage and equipment. Reveille was sounded at 5:30 A. M. today, and at 7 A. M. the men ate breakfast.

During the day sentries were stationed at the end of each car. The troop has been divided into sections.

Captain Frank P. Tabbets and Lieutenant William Coplan have each given a lecture to the militiamen on officers and men on military tactics and the duties of a trooper. Along the route spectators have inquired whether the men are on their way to Mexico.

ANTI-SERUM VOTE SOUGHT

Petitions Out for Action on Prohibiting Compulsory Vaccination.

Petitions for an initiative measure to prohibit "compulsory vaccination or inoculation" in any form, or for alleged prevention of infectious or contagious disease" have been in circulation in Portland for the past six weeks.

Mrs. Lora C. Little, who is sponsor for the measure, said yesterday that 2000 of the 25,000 signatures from registered voters throughout the state necessary to put the measure on the ballot at the November general election next year, have been obtained. She plans later to have petitions circulated in every county of the state.

The measure is identical with that introduced by request at the last session of the Legislature by Gus C. Moser. It was defeated after a warm debate in the Senate. Now its advocates plan to put the question up to the voters.

TEA WAGON DUMPS WARES

Two Teams of Same Company in Grief at Different Places.

Dishes, tea and spices were scattered in profusion along Grand avenue at the corner of Albany street late Saturday when one of the teams of the Jewel Tea Company ran away, crashed into a streetcar and created havoc generally for a few minutes. The performers were one of the trusted milk teams of the company, but bolted just as the driver started to take his seat.

About the same hour another wagon of the same company was seen in a streetcar in Montavilla, when the horse became frightened, tried to hurdle a fence and quit when the wagon was stayed by a tree.

VIEWS GIVEN AT 90

Home and Family Put First by Mrs. Delila Coulson.

ALL FACULTIES RETAINED

Many Modern Methods and Habits Condemned—Birth Party Will Be Feature Today at Garden Home With 50 Guests.

BY EDITH KNIGHT HOLMES.
"The glad-about wife is responsible for a large percentage of the badly behaved children, for the discouraged men and for many of the divorce cases of today."

This is the opinion of Mrs. Delila Coulson. And her opinions are worth considering for she has lived 90 years today, and has made success of her life.

Her great-grandchildren play about her knees and call her blessed. Vigorous men in the prime of life talk politics and international affairs with her and find her wits just as sharp as theirs. University graduates who have the joy of knowing her discover that they must brush up on literature when Mrs. Coulson is about.

Her eyesight is excellent. Her brain is clear. Her memory good. And this wonderful old lady is to celebrate her 90th birthday today.

"Foolish" grandmothers chided. She's just an old-fashioned grand-mother. Her hair is white and fine and soft, and she wears it simply coiled at the back with a band of black ribbon pinned neatly about her head.

"Don't put me down as one of those low-necked, no-sleeved grandmothers," she said. "I think they are so foolish. They don't make themselves look young. They only fool themselves."

Mrs. Coulson feels strongly regarding the responsibility belonging to mothers in the training of their children, but she says she never attempts to tell young mothers how to rear their children. They are sure to resent it, and it never does good, but she just wishes and wishes they could realize that there is a great responsibility and a great privilege. Young girls, she declares, can't possibly grow up to be healthy and happy if they keep late hours and eat indigestible food.

Pride Retained in Cooking.
"Right here let me say," put in "the old-fashioned grandmother" with a gleam of pride in her kindly eyes, "that I was a good cook. They did say that every day and I was proud of it. A woman, no matter how rich she is, should know how to cook and how to order a household. Home-making is the greatest art of all. Mind you, a woman needn't know the kitchen only. To be a success a mother and wife should keep her mind bright and up to date. She can do it without gadding all the time, too. New ideas and inspirations are good, but the home comes first, for that is the foundation of the Nation."

Mrs. Coulson thinks some of the modern styles are foolish—more foolish, in fact, than immodest. In her younger days, however, she admits that she wore moderate-sized hoppers.

Every day this elderly woman makes her own bed and does a little work. Her only worry is that she can't do much. Up to the time she was 37 she was able to do a day's work and cook a full meal.

Her brother, she said, lived to be 96, and was spry to the last. To carefully select food and regulate hours for sleep Mrs. Coulson attributed his longevity.

Rules of Life Given.
Regular attendance at church, respect for the Sabbath, wholesome exercise, a love of home, an appreciation of good literature and keeping good company are advocated by Mrs. Coulson as a means of securing happiness and long life. Some of the new-fangled songs and books, however, do not strike her as the best things, she says. The songs sound like screaming and the books aren't healthy.

PEACH SALESMAN CHOSEN

J. B. Adams, of Growers' League, to Handle Wenatchee Crop.

WENATCHEE, Wash., July 4.—(Special.)—Besides acting as executive head of the Growers' League, J. B. Adams will supervise the peach marketing operations this season. The duties came to Mr. Adams yesterday as a result of the conference held at the League headquarters in Wenatchee, where the League and growers and W. H. Paulhamus, head of the Growers' Council.

Mr. Paulhamus briefly outlined the suggestions made to Yakima peach growers, and recommended similar action here.

It is expected that Mr. Adams will be assisted in his work by an expert from the marketing department of the United States Department of Agriculture.

2 CHARGED WITH SEINING

W. V. Penland and Robert Hill Are Under Arrest.

W. V. Penland, Robert Hill and T. J. Hasbarger were arrested yesterday on the Willamette river at Yakima. Game Warden Clark, charged with seining bass and crawfish. Many reports have been received at the game warden's office that this practice was going on.

Deputy Game Warden Clark confiscated the gasoline launch, about 200 feet of seine and almost 50 bass and crawfish. J. White and C. E. Scriewski are being held as witnesses and later may be charged with the same offense. The party will be brought before Judge Williams at St. Johns tomorrow.

NEW CITIZENS CELEBRATE AT SEATTLE.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 4.—More than 500 men and women, who have become citizens of the United States during the past 12 months, were the guests of honor in "Americanization day" exercises held here today. The speakers of the occasions were Mayor Gill, Federal Judge Neterer and Immigration Commissioner White.

Nearly 50,000,000 are light carbons are imported by Great Britain annually.

PATRIOTISM IS HIGH

Large Audience at Oaks Is Extremely Demonstrative.

Linville, of the same state. Her family is related to that of the late President Harrison.

There will be a family reunion today at the William Beharrell country place near Garden Home, and Mrs. Coulson will be the guest of honor. She will motor out, and is just a wee bit nervous about that auto ride, but she's "game" and will go. She wouldn't miss that party for a mint. There will be the F. Cozens, the A. R. Panna, the Thomas Bradleys, the O. L. Prieses, the N. C. Soules, the A. P. Fiegels, Mrs. William Krieger, of Kentucky—30 in all—at Mrs. Delila Linville Coulson's 90th birthday anniversary.

And there isn't a single grandchild named after her. "I wouldn't allow it. Delila, indeed! That name is the only one that would be a disgrace to the family. I should love to find with my mother, but she told me I was named after the most lovely woman in Virginia, so I've been Delila for 90 years."

14,000 PERSONS VISIT PARK

Eight Hundred Take Dip in Willamette and Other Water Sports Hugely Appreciated.

Patriotic to a high degree was the great audience in the auditorium at the Oaks yesterday afternoon, incidentally, one of the largest audiences the open-air structure has held. Real fervor was manifested when Mrs. Edna Heller Weinstein led the crowd singing the National anthem.

Approximately 14,000 persons visited the amusement park, while the indications for today are that this number will be almost doubled.

Still further additions have been made to the programme and a group of 10 Hawaiians, coming direct from the Panama-Pacific Exposition, will be on the bill, playing and singing their familiar airs. The Hawaiians are said to be among the best in this country.

800 Persons Go Swimming.
The warm Sunday weather was responsible for unusual popularity in the swimming pool, 800 persons taking a dip. Water sports naturally monopolized considerable time. According to river "sharks" the water this fall is warmer than ever, owing to the low stage of the Willamette.

The new bill proved even more popular than previous performances. Songs were given by Mrs. Weinstein and Mlle. Tryon.

The "Suffragettes" is the title of the new Boston Troubadour bill. With its sparkling songs and the vim provided by a number of clever dancers and new costumes, "The Suffragettes" proved a delightful treat.

Patriotic Song Wins Audience.
Many encores were provided as the audience seemed in an appreciative mood.

A patriotic Wilson song by Miller Evans, with a chorus dressed in flags, received excellent response, while every number was greeted with a "Suffragettes" is easily the best musical comedy this season at the Oaks. Programmes will be given each afternoon and night during the week, with unusually elaborate bills today.

VAUDEVILLE IS TO RECLAIM ORPHEUM

Mr. Considine Visits Portland to Arrange for Return to Regular Order.

HOUSES TO TRADE NAMES

Empress Will Exchange, New Plan to Be Put Into Effect in September—Amusement in Plenty Is Prospect for Winter.

John W. Considine, premier vaudeville magnate of the Northwest, paid a secret visit to Portland Saturday. The result of his Portland trip will be on the Orpheum vaudeville circuit early in September in all probability. Portland has had no Orpheum shows since May 2.

When the Orpheum attractions return to Portland the shows will be housed at the Empress Theater, Broadway and Yamhill streets. The Empress, starting today, taking up its new abode at the Orpheum building at Broadway and Stark street. The names of the buildings will be transferred.

It was learned yesterday that Carl Reiter, manager of the Orpheum Theater in Seattle, who has been "acting" on the Empress Theater circuit since his house was closed in Seattle, will return to Seattle soon to make plans for reopening the Orpheum in August. The opening of the Seattle theater assures the reopening of the Orpheum in Portland the week following.

Mr. Considine left Portland within a few hours after arriving here, and his mission was in connection with the transfer of the Orpheum and Empress here and arrangements with Mr. Reiter for reopening the Seattle Orpheum. Mr. Reiter was detained in Portland for nearly three times daily on the Empress bill.

The regular Orpheum circuit shows will be returned to Portland under the new arrangements and the Empress bills will be similar to those always given on the Empress circuit when it was originally under the direction of the Considine and Sullivan interests.

Speaking of the arrangements last night, Mr. Reiter said: "The Orpheum in Seattle will open again the latter part of August, and there is every reason to believe from this that the Orpheum will resume here as well about the same time. I am not able to speak with authority on the matter, but I think that you can expect things to work out about that way."

Portland theatergoers will not be in the least hampered by lack of places to go the coming Winter if the arrangements work out. September will find three straight vaudeville houses running at the Baker with open air stock season as usual. The war in Europe continues to assure a series of high-class bookings at the Hellig, Koles, Anna Knicker, Marie Schmidt, Miss Olive Hartnell, Mrs. A. F. Hunt, Miss Bess Hunt, Robert J. Upton, Norman Schmitt, Garnet Green and Madison Tracey.
