Exhibit, Which Closes Today, Surpasses Greatly Display of Society Last Year.

THOUSANDS SEE BLOOMS

Most of Judging Already Completed. Mrs. Etta M. Marshall Wins Trophy for Second Time and President's Cup.

Sweet peas of every conceivable variety and shade, massed in baskets, used as floral decorations for tea tables and arranged in many beautiful formations, characterized the sixth annual exhibit of the Oregon Sweet Pea Society, which was thrown open to the public on the fourth floor of the new Meier & Frank building yesterday. The exhibit greatly surpasses the one put on by the society last year, not only in the entries but also in artistic arrangement.

Prominent among the exhibits is that of Captain George Pope, originator of the society. It shows a large number of the new varieties and also some which are in the course of development. Captain Pope did not enter for a prize.

A collection of baskets containing masses of the flowers in the contribution of the Portland Floral Society to the exhibit. A small cannon made from masses of sweet peas of different colors and bearing the legend "O U Sweet Pease" was entered by the Swias Floral Company.

Although the exhibit was only thrown open to the public from 2 P. M. to 10 P. M., several thousand people visited it during the afternoon, the large space at times being congested. Many more visitors are expected today. The exhibit will be open from 10 A. M. to 6 P. M.

POOL HALL LOSES LICENSE

Admission of Minors and Throwing Balls at Policemen Is Charged.

The oft-mentioned pastime of throwing billiard balls at policemen is no longer to be enjoyed by Jake Goldstone, a pool hall proprietor at 665 First street. He was put out of business by the City Council yesterday for being too handy and too good a marksman with the billiard balls and for allowing minors to frequent his place of business.

Policemen reported that upon many occasions they had seen minors in the poolhall. Upon several occasions trouble has been had with the proprietor, and it was declared that his usual reply to police interference was a shower of pool of billiard balls. His license was revoked.

OKA'S FIREWORKS TONIGHT

Former Residents of Salem Will Picnic at Park, Also.

Fireworks will blaze at The Oaks tonight in the second big pyrotechnic exhibition of the 1915 season. Today will be memorable for another reason. Former residents of Salem, who organized last year as the Ex-Salemites, will hold their second annual picnic, to which every former inhabitant of the Capital City is invited.

Former Salem people are prominent in every line of Portland life and the officers of the organization have planned an unusually big programme of attractions for their delectation. The fireworks display will begin at nine o'clock and it is promised to be of an elaborate nature.

TWO ORDINANCES PASSED

Former St. Johns Employees Are Retained for the Present.

So that Portland officials may get acquainted with the working affairs of St. Johns, now a part of Portland, the City Council yesterday passed an emergency ordinance providing for the employment of some of the ex-St. Johns city employees. The ordinance provides for the employment of the two St. Johns firemen, the City Recorder, the City Engineer and two members of a field party, each for one month. Another ordinance was passed providing for the employment of D. C. Lewis as attorney to dispose of all present legal cases pending in both St. Johns and Linnon.

public auditorium on the Market block will be one of the most attractive structures of the kind in the United States. A perspective of the Third-street elevation, which will be the front of the building, has been prepared by Whitehouse & Foulboux, architects, along with the preliminary plans of the interior.

The exterior will be of Ionic design, with large pillars, massive steps and a general attractive entrance extending nearly the full 200 feet width of the building on the Third-street side. The building as shown in the perspective will be 80 feet in height, with a pediment 25 feet in height. This pediment will be only on the Third-street side.

Steps in front of the building extend a distance of 12 feet and lead up to attractive entrances between massive pillars. The pillars, 10 in number, will be 35 feet in height and of terra cotta. The rest of the building, including the front and sides, will be of tapestry brick of a color not yet decided upon.

Portland Lodge Plans Entertainment for Visitors Bound for or Returning from Big Conclave at Seattle, Monday.

Don't be alarmed if, in the next few days, you see whole squads of men sauntering up and down the streets with funny-looking red caps—about the shape of a woman's sewing thimble, and not much larger, perched upon the back of their heads.

They will not be members of the Turkish army but merely soldiers in the army of Shriners now headed for Seattle where the annual convocation of their order will be held, beginning Monday.

Inasmuch as nearly every Shriner who goes to Seattle will want to go to San Francisco too, Portland will be the rendezvous for thousands of nobles both before and after the convocation. It is estimated that more than 1000 Shriners will be in Portland tomorrow alone. The Portland members have worked long and faithfully to provide entertainment for the guests. Chief among the numerous attractive items on the programme are the automobile rides in and about the city.

Machines Needed for Trips.

The committee will need a corresponding number of machines to entertain the 1000 visitors tomorrow.

street sides the same Ionic design will be carried out as in the front of Third street, except that the pillars will be worked in with brick instead of being separate and distinct. Just inside the entrance will be a spacious grand vestibule extending the full width of the steps. Connected with this will be box offices, offices and other rooms essential to a theater or convention hall.

The interior arrangement will be decidedly new and novel, the intention being to make it flexible for various purposes for which the building might be needed, such as conventions, theatrical productions and industrial shows and exhibitions of various kinds.

The interior first floor construction will be so arranged that by putting in a movable floor the theater can be entirely covered, leaving a flat floor nearly 200 feet square for industrial exhibit and show purposes.

The upper part of the interior will be largely taken up by a balcony and a gallery. The balance of the upper portion will be taken up with small meeting rooms and service rooms and offices of various kinds. The basement will be fitted with an inclined entrance on Second street and will be suitable for permanent exhibits.

TAX IS GIVEN FOR STREET

Council Agrees to Lift Assessment if Clear Title Is Exchanged.

After months of dickering, the City Council yesterday agreed to relieve Mrs. Susan Smith of an assessment of $3700 made against her property on Vista avenue for pavement and other work in that street provided she gives the city title to property which the city took for the street without securing proper title.

Mrs. Smith declares that an agreement was made that in consideration of the property she gave for the street she was to be relieved of the street assessment. Afterward the city tried to collect the assessment amounting to $3700. The Council after a lengthy discussion of the subject yesterday decided to carry out the original agreement which was made verbally and which was remembered by some of the present city officials who had to do with the arrangement at that time.

Money in bank, earned by honest, health-giving work is a great blessing to anyone. People aren't so careless with money when it comes with real effort. On the other hand, effort has its compensations when frequent entries in the bank book are witnesses of the rewards. And yet again, those bank book entries are a lasting source of satisfaction to the money earner who sees others fritter away their earnings. There is every argument for Thrifty Alexander's system.

Accordingly, W. J. Hofmann, chairman of the general committee, and Ira F. Powers, chairman of the automobile committee, are urging automobile owners—especially Shriners who are automobile owners—to offer the use of their machines.

Automobile owners who are willing to donate their cars for a day, or any part of a day, July 11, 16 and 17, are requested to notify Main 8407 or Main 6212 and leave their name and address.

Delegations representing Pyramid Shrine, of Bridgeport, Conn., and Rajah Shrine, of Reading, Pa., will arrive Sunday.

In the same party with the Denver Shrine will be a large number of delegates from Tangier Temple, of Omaha. While hundreds of the visiting Shriners are viewing the beauties of the highway and the Columbia River in general, delegates from Abdalah Temple, Leavenworth, Kansas, and Isis Temple, of Salina, Kansas, with El Korah Temple, of Boise, and El Kalah Temple, of Salt Lake, will be taken for sightseeing trips over the city. Following them will be representatives of Hilla Temple, of Dallas, Texas, and El Mina Temple, of Galveston, Tex.

Medinah Temple Due Thursday.
John Scott, general passenger agent of the Southern Pacific, returned yesterday from Seattle, where he conferred with the transportation committee of the Seattle Temple of Shriners regarding the train service to Portland following the convocation.

The visiting Shriners, he reports, will begin leaving Seattle on Thursday night, arriving here on Friday morning. All day Friday and Saturday large parties of visitors will be in Portland.

Medinah Temple, of Chicago, will arrive here Thursday night and will remain for a few hours. Medinah Temple is traveling in two special trains.

The Portland Shriners will make a big showing in the parade at Seattle on Wednesday and will return to Portland early Friday morning in time to join in the entertainment for the visitors here that day.

A cableway, stout enough to carry heavy motor trucks, has been built by New Mexico Company across the Gila River, New Mexico.

Individual contributions to the maintenance fund of the Associated Charities have come so slowly the last 10 days that it is feared it will be impossible to complete the entire amount necessary to keep the office open for relief work throughout the Summer unless the proceeds from the baseball game promised yesterday is large. The Portland police band will play at the game today to lend its additional influence to attract the crowds.

Manager McCredie promised a share from this game to the Charities more than a week ago, and committees have been working hard selling tickets on the streets.

There remain nearly $2000 to be raised to insure the continuation of the

Charities' work through the Summer

and it is doubtful if the baseball game will return this amount for the Charities' share.

Up to the present time the demands upon the Charities have used the money almost as fast as it came in. The pressure will not be so heavy in the latter part of the Summer, but it will still be sufficient to make it necessary to complete the $5000 fund soon or close the office until October 1.

Following are a few of the cases that applied for help yesterday:

1. Deserted woman with 2-year-old boy. Has no money to pay rent and is without food. Relief greatly needed.
2. Twelve-year-old girl cannot be supported by her mother, who is obliged to work out to take care of herself. The girl is asking for a place where she can work for room, board and clothing.
3. Old woman found to be without food. Has been supported by her son, but he has become ill and is unable to work.
4. Woman with four children seriously ill. Husband away seeking work. Fell ill; and is in hospital. Rent is unpaid and the family is without food and supplies of any kind.

COLLECTION AGENT TAKEN

L. Watts Is Jailed on Charge of Embezzling Funds.

L. Watts, manager of the "National Merchants' Collection Agency," with offices on the curbing of any well-populated street, was arrested yesterday afternoon by City Detectives Price and Mallett, charged with larceny by embezzlement. The specific charge against Watts is the larceny of $18.13 from A. J. Hockinson, of 321 Umatilla avenue, on May 1, at which time Watts was acting agent for Hockinson.

Mrs. Edith Hockinson swore to the complaint before Deputy District Attorney DeLoach yesterday morning, and the arrest was made yesterday afternoon at Broadway and Morrison street. When placed in custody Watts complained that his plans of leaving the city had been interfered with. It was found that he had intended leaving for Tacoma last night.
