MEXICAN RUMORS STIR THIRD OREGON

Report That Regulars May Be Called Out Adds Interest to Encampment.

GOVERNOR TO REVIEW MEN

Colonel McLaughlin Being Kept in Close Touch With Situation in Mexico — Troops Maneuver in Rain-Soaked Fields.

CAMP JACKSON, Gearhart, Or., July 9.—(Special.) — Colonel C. McLaughlin, of the regular Army, who is detailed here to conduct the Third Infantry encampment, is being kept in close touch with conditions in Mexico. The rumor has it that matters have about reached a crisis in Mexican affairs, and that it is more than likely the regulars will be called out. This has added a keen interest to the daily instructions going on here, for the National Guardsmen feel that if the regulars are called to Mexico, the Guard will be called out also.

Governor Withycombe will review the troops encamped here. A telegram was received at Camp Jackson saying that Governor Withycombe would arrive Saturday evening, and the review will be held Sunday afternoon. This will cause some changes in the daily routine, for the Governor was not expected to review the troops until next week. There will also be a review held for Adjutant-General George A. White on Saturday.

Field Inspection Scheduled.

Any hope the Oregon soldiers may have had for a day of nothing to do on Sunday except a dress parade and the usual church service went glimmering this morning when the regiment received the orders for the field inspection. The companies will march out and be inspected in full field equipment. Each enlisted man will carry his complete blanket roll, haversack and on the inspection field each two men will be required to put up their shelter tent and spread out their equipment in such a manner that all articles may be easily inspected.

Rain Thursday morning prevented the companies from executing the patrol problems in the forenoon, but by noon the weather conditions had improved and the problems explained in yesterday's tactical talks were solved. The companies put in full afternoons, being brought in an hour before the evening mess but taken out again immediately after mess for dress parade.

Tactical Talks Given.

Despite the rain this morning, the farenoon was not lost; the regular Army instructors assembled the officers of the regiment by battalions and gave tactical talks on marches and the advance guard. Company commanders were assigned to command battalions and battalion commanders were given regimental commands and the theoretical problems occupied their attention for the full forenoon.

Major Carle Abrams, who was called to his home at Salem few days ago, returned to the camp Thursday and assumed command of the Third battalion.

Tomorrow's programme embraces an advance guard movement by each company, and tonight the company commanders may be seen bowed over their camp tables in efforts to work out problems for their companies to solve on the field tomorrow forenoon. Heretofore the regular Army officers have propounded the problems, but for tomorrow the National Guard Company commanders must propound the problems and their subalterns and enlisted men will be required to solve them.

LAW VIOLATIONS DENIED

MONTENEGRINS CONTINUE URGING COUNTRYMEN TO RETURN.

Delay of Trial on Enlistment Charge Asked That Efforts "to Find Workers for Fields" May Continue.

A continuous procession of Montenegrin residents of Portland filed in and out of the Seward Hotel Thursday to the rooms of Jovo Mocanovich, personal representative of the King of Montenegro, and P. M. Luburich, his secretary, who are held here under bonds pending advice from the Federal authorities at Chicago, where they were indicted yesterday on a charge of violating the American neutrality laws.

The Montenegrins conferred with the visitors in their native tongue, some remaining for a few minutes and others for half an hour or more.

Mr. Luburich, who is the only one of the pair who speaks English, insisted, however, that they are not violating the American neutrality laws and have not violated them.

"If we can point out to our countrymen here the advisability and the desirability of returning to Montenegro of their own free will, what is wrong about that?" was the substance of his explanations.

The United States Attorney's office received advice yesterday from Chicago that their trial under the indictments returned by the Federal grand jury there yesterday will be held not later than July 16. Mr. Mocanovich is endeavoring to secure a postponement until late in August. He does not deny that he wants additional time to visit various other cities on the Pacific Coast, including San Francisco and Los Angeles, to confer with Montenegrins there residing regarding their prospective return.

BELGIANS WILL WEAR IVY

Green Symbol to Replace Colors Forbidden by Germans.

BRUSSELS, via London, July 9.—The Belgians have suddenly adopted the practice of wearing sprays of ivy as an expression of loyalty to Belgium and the allies as a result of General von Bissing's order prohibiting the display of Belgian colors.

AUSTRIANS MEET REVERSE

Unexpected Attack by Russians Causes Heavy Loss.

LONDON, July 9.—A Petrograd dispatch to the Daily Mail says:

"The Austrian army under Archduke Joseph Gerdinand, hurriedly pushing forward Monday on the high road from Kransnik to Lublin, under the impression that the Russians were in full retreat, lost touch with Field Marchal von Mackensen's army on the right. The Russians, who were nearer than the Archduke supposed, took advantake of his blunder in allowing the flank of his force to be uncovered.

"The aim of this Austrian force was to break through the Russian front and success seemed almost within its grasp. It did not know that a wood beside the road along which it was advancing was full of Russians. The Archduke was vigorously attacked with disconcerting unexpectedness and lost no fewer than 15,000 men.

"This setback delayed the advance of the entire Austro-German forces for three days and it soon will be seen whether they will be able to pull themselves together. It looks, however, as though plans for the junction of the armies of the Archduke and Field Marshal von Mackensen at Lublin has gone awry."

POLICE STUDY BELL LORE

Four Guardians of Liberty Trophy "Burning Midnight Oil."

PHILADELPHIA, July 4.—Do you know who cast the Liberty Bell?

Can you recall when first it was hung in the Statehouse and upon what historic occasion it first was rung?

Do you know when and how it was cracked?

And how many times it has been taken on tours?

Probably you could have answered questions like those when you were school boys and girls, but not now. No wonder, then, that the four policemen selected by Director Porter as guardians for the Liberty Bell on the trip to and from the Panama-Pacific Exposition are burning the midnight oil and cramming on American history and geography.

Director Porter admonished the four policemen—they are James J. Quirk, Joseph W. Franks, William E. Sykes and James Jackson—when he selected them several days ago that they must "brush up" on the history of the Liberty Bell, to be able to answer the millions of questions that will be hurled at them on the pilgrimage.

Needless to say, the quartet of bluecoats, each of whom is a giant physically, has been devoting the weeks in leafing the pages of American history and storing up all the available Liberty Bell lore.

JEWS IN BRITISH ARMY

Hebrew Names Numerous on the Published Lists of the Slain.

LONDON, July 4.—eBtween 7000 and 8000 of the Jews serving with the British colors have registered their names at the Jewish chaplain's department in London, and perhaps as many more have enlisted who have failed to register. The Jewish roll of honor from the last British slain is published weekly in the Jewish Chronicle, and a Jewish recruiting committee brings in from 50 to 60 fresh enlistments a week.

Even the Jewish ministry has also been organized for the war, contributing about a dozen chaplains to attend to Jewish volunteers. The senior chaplain, the Rev. Michael Adler, is now in France, but the machine he created is running smoothly. His assistant, S. Lipson, is now in charge.

The United Kingdom, he says, has been mapped into areas, which have been placed under nine Jewish assistant chaplains appointed by the War Office. The function of these chaplains is to get in touch with their coreligionists in the ranks, arranging services for them and looking after their welfare generally. They also visit the Jewish wounded in the hospitals.

The young Jews are enthusiastic soldiers, according to Chaplain Lipson, who tells of one who quit his job in Brazil and traveled to London to enlist.

COLLEGE BARS LOVEMAKING

Also Forbids Girl Students to Wear Thin Dresses.

HUTCHINSON, Kan., July 4. — The Kansas Holiness College, situated in Hutchinson, with 177 students enrolled, has declared war on Dan Cupid and severed diplomatic relations with Dame Fashion.

It is rule 21 of the new code of discipline of this college that does the business. Here it is, as announced by the college faculty:

"Young people who think more of lovemaking than of God are not wanted and need not apply in this school. Girls are not allowed to wear dresses with short sleeves or low necks, or those made of thin material exposing the body. This rule will be kindly but firmly enforced."

There are 177 students enrolled in the college at present as shown by the register, and more than 100 of them are young women. There was consternation among the girls when the new rule was promulgated.

Some of the girls vowed and declared they'd never put up with it, but the majority approved it, after sober reflection, and agreed that it was a reasonable restriction, after all.

"DRY" FORCES CO-OPERATE

Anti-Saloon League and Catholic Prohibitionists Join Forces.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 8.—Closer co-operation between the Anti-Saloon League forces and those of the Catholic Prohibition League in the fight for Nation-wide prohibition was indicated in a resolution adopted by the latter organization and which was presented to the convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America at tonight's session.

A special advisory committee was appointed by the Catholic League, whose task will be the enlistment of all Cathiolic influences throughout the country in support of the principles and programmes of the Anti-Saloon League.

MR. BLETHEN RESTING EASY

Physicinas, However, Hold No Hope for Editor's Recovery.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 8.—Physicians attending Colonel Alden J. Blethen, editor and publisher of the Seattle Times, still say that his condition holds no hope of his recovery.

He is resting fairly comfortably tonight, however.

FRENCH PAY FOR DACIA

Appropriation Made to Cover Seized Contraband Cargoes.

PARIS, July 8.—The French Senate today appropriated $600,000 to be used by the minister of marine in payment of cargoes of neutral vessels that have been seized, and especially of that of the American steamer Dacia.

Release of Platuria Obtained.

BERLIN, via London, July 9.—The American steamer Platuria, which, while on the way from New York with a cargo of petroleum consigned to a Swedish port, was stopped by a German warship and taken to Swinemunde, has been released. This action was taken after the United States embassy had taken up the case.

AUCTION MARKETING OF APPLES UPHELD

Arthur Geary Sent From East to Lecture to Growers of Pacific Northwest.

METHODS ARE DESCRIBED

Former University of Oregon Man Says Jobbers Who Condemn Plan Buy Fruit and Turn It Over Later for Auction Sales.

Arthur Geary, formerly of the University of Oregon and more recently a close student of fruit marketing in the East, has been sent to the Pacific Northwest by fruit auction companies to lecture to growers, explaining the auction system and to ask growers that they give this means of sending fruit to market a fair trial.

Auctioneers, says Mr. Geary, object to growers making the auction sales rooms merely a dumping ground for good, bad and indifferent fruit. Merely to forward to the auction houses apples that cannot be sold otherwise is, he says, to invite certain disaster for the method.

"No branch of the fruit marketing system is as little understood by the grower and the public as is the fruit auction," he said. "I venture to say that not many of the growers in the Pacific Northwest know what proportion of the fruits consumed in the large cities of the United States is sold at public sale in the auditoriums of the auction companies. In the auction centers all the Almeria grapes from Spain, all the lemons from Sicily, 85 per cent of the grapefruit and oranges of Florida, about the same percentage of the pineapples from Cuba and Porto Rico, and all the fruits shipped from the Pacific Coast, except the bulk of the apples, are now marketed by public sales or auctions.

"The officials of the California Fruitgrowers' Exchange, the California Fruit Distributors and the Florida Citrus Exchange, whom I have met in the different large cities of the United States, are practically unanimous in the belief that box apples should and in time will be marketed through the auction in a systematic way.

"The large receiving apple jobbers with whom I have discussed the question, on the other hand, are uniformly opposed to the selling of apples at auction. No wonder, because when apples are sold at auction, the smaller jobbers, the owners of strings of retail stores, and the brokers whose business consists of buying for others, will be able to procure apples from the daily fruit auctions at the same time and place that they now purchase the other fruits, instead of having to buy at the store of the large apple jobbers.

"The apple jobbers have great confidence in the auction system as shown by their selling through the auction companies most of the fruit that they receive. I could name four or five of the largest apple jobbing houses in New York who buy oranges f.o.b. in Florida and sell them at auction. One jobber in Philadelphia was pointed out to me who went among the growers with criticisms of the auction system and then later sold at auction the fruit that he obtained by his slanderous campaign."

8 TIMES EARNINGS SPENT

Sued New Yorker Accuses Son-in-Law of Extravagance.

NEW YORK, July 4.—The dispute between Seymour W. Bonsall and his stepdaughter, Mrs. Charles Shiverick, who lives near him, over an estate of more than $420,000, has revealed some curious bits of family history. Among other things Bonsall declares that his stepson-in-law has managed to live at the rate of $32,000 a year for nearly two years, although he earns only $4000 a year.

Mrs. Shiverick was the daughter of Frank Connell, of Mamaroneck, who died and left a fortune. His widow was married to Bonsall and when the widow's daughter, Beatrice, was married to Charles Shiverick, Bonsall was intrusted with her business affairs. She recently brought suit in the Supreme Court at White Plains demanding an accounting of her estate, which, she declares, is worth more than $420,000.

Bonsall sued her for two pieces of property in Harrison and Mamaroneck worth $10,000, but Mrs. Shiverick alleged that they were his wedding gift to her and refused to give them up. She also alleged that his demand is not made in faith. Justice Tompkins has just decided that the demand is allowable.

In Bonsall's amended answer to the suit he declares that he gave the property to Beatrice on the understanding that she would give it back on demand. He declares that between June 10, 1913, and January 22, 1915, he advanced $39,400 to Shiverick for household expenses and that the young man told him he had spent $11,000 besides in that time to keep up his home.

GIRLS HARVEST BEAUX

There Is No Need for Kansas Marriage Bureau at Present Time.

SMITH CENTER, Kan., July 5.—The municipal marriage bureau, organized last Spring, is to be abolished. What correspondence could not accomplish the maturing wheat crop has been able to do, and do well.

There has been an oversupply of women and girls in Smith County, but the coming of the harvest hands has changed all this. Bright young fellows from colleges and universities, East and West, have become interested in the Western Kansas girls.

Two weeks' delay in harvest work has given the strangers ample opportunity to go courting, and there isn't a girl in Smith County now who hasn't at least one beau. Many of them have two or three applicants, and the marriage license clerk is anticipating a rushing business.

LOCKING UP WIFE DENIED

Mrs. Domicio da Gama Defends Son Accused by Father-in-Law.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Mrs. Domicio da Gama, wife of the Brazilian Ambassador at Washington, came to the defense recently of her son, Morris Roderick Voick, accused in habeas corpus proceedings of imprisoning his wife and 2-year-old daughter in their apartment at 11 East Sixty-eighth street. Before that young Mr. Voick had dropped out of his wife's ken a month ago, and it was announced he was going to Germany to join the Kaiser's army.

Mrs. da Gama was seen at the Ambassador's Summer home in Long Branch, N. J.

"A grave injustice has been done my son," she said. "He is not a German subject and never had any intention of becoming one. He is American-born, and his father and grandfather before him were American-born. He has not been away and he has not been squandering his time. As a matter of fact, he has been spending five hours a day studying for the diplomatic service, and expects an appointment as soon as he has qualified by passing his examinations.

"Neith r is it true that he attempted to place his wife under restraint. I was personally with the couple in their apartment in East Sixty-eighth street all one day recently.

"I do not know how the story that Mrs. Voick was restrained of her liberty could have been started nor why proceedings were begun for a writ of habeas corpus. It is beyond my understanding."

"Everything has been amicably arranged," said Mr. Voick. "I have hopes that my wife and I will be living together again shortly. Be assured we are on good terms."

The father-in-law, Jabish Holmes, a lawyer of 108 East Seventy-eighth street, who hurried to court for a writ of habeas corpus when he learned, he said, that his daughter and little granddaughter had been locked in their apartment by Voick, was highly pleased this morning.

"As soon as my son-in-law found out I meant business he tossed up his keys and left. Naturally, then, the cause for the writ was removed, my daughter being no longer under restraint.

"I don't know about a reconciliation," he added. "That's up to them."

"LOVE THEFT" IS DENIED

WEALTHY WIDOW DEMANDS THAT WIFE PROVE CHARGES.

Christian Scientist, Sued for $25,000, Asks That Plaintiff Tell How "Husband Was Stolen."

NEW YORK, July 4. — If Mrs. Brownie Rathbone Weaverson expects to collect part or all of the $250,000 damages for which she has sued Mrs. Caroline W. Frame, prominent Christian Scientist, for the alleged theft of Frederick Weaverson's husbandly affections, a hard task is before her.

In Justice Goff's part of the Supreme Court Mrs. Frame, who could pay four times the amount she is being sued for and then have a big balance left, asked for a court order compelling Mrs. Weaverson to give in minute detail all particulars as to just how she won Weaverson's affections. Here are some of the particulars she wants:

"What religious instruction or suggestion did the defendant give Weaverson that led him, as his wife alleges, to leave his home and spend his time with the wealthy widow?" Mrs. Frame is a Christian Scientist. Mrs. Weaverson is a Maxdaznanist. The latter belief leans away from science and is taught in this country by a Hindu philosopher, with headquarters in Chicago. Mrs. Weaverson is asked to tell what there was lacking in her belief that her husband found in Christian Science.

"What wiles, arts and flattery did Mrs. Frame use in accomplishing the alleged 'theft'?" Mrs. Frame told the court that she was not aware of any wiles, arts or flattery she might possess, and as to using them on Weaverson; why, the very idea! She always treated him nicely because he had befriended her and had saved a large part of her big fortune when scheming acquaintances tried to defraud her.

"What costly gifts did Mrs. Frame bestow upon Weaverson that made him, as Mrs. Weaverson alleges, look up to the widow as a better woman than his wife?" Mrs. Frame wants a list of all the presents and information as to just how the gifts them affected Weaverson.

"When and where did Mrs. Frame tell friends that Mrs. Weaverson was not a fit companion or wife?" Mrs. Weaverson says that it was what Mrs. Frame said to outsiders about her that led Weaverson to leave his apartment—at that time on the floor below Mrs. Frame's apartment at No. 440 Riverside drive—and take up his abode in the Frame domicile.

"What promises did Mrs. Frame make to Weaverson that turned his head, as Mrs. Weaverson alleges?" The rich Christian Scientist also wants to know where and when these promises were made, since Mrs. Weaverson alleges that she (the defendant) told Weaverson her influence in Christian Science would result in his elevation to an important office in the church if he would accept her belief.

Although the suit was filed more than a year ago, it lay in the archives of the County Clerk's office long unnoticed and simply accumulating dust. Correspondence between lawyers and the two women resulted in the recent action.

When the suit was begun no intimation was made in the papers of illicit relations between Mrs. Frame and Weaverson. It now develops that when Mrs. Frame's attorneys, a short time ago, asked Mrs. Weaverson if she intended to charge her husband with marital wrongdoing, she replied that she intended to press such charges at the trial of the action.

BOSTON SELLS RODGERS

EX-BEAVER TURNED OVER TO CINCINNATI NATIONALS.

Sale Puts Halt to Negotiations for Return of Second Baseman to Portland Champions.

BOSTON, July 9.—The sale of William Rodgers, infielder, to the Cincinnati Nationals was announced by Manager Carrigan, of the Boston Americans, Thursday.

Rodgers came to Boston from Cleveland, after having been released by that club to the Portland, Or., team.

The sale of Rodgers by the Boston Red Sox puts a halt to Walter McCredie's negotiations for the ex-Beaver captain. When Bobby Davis, Portland shortstop, was injured July 5, Manager McCredie at once telegraphed Boston asking that Bill be sent back if waivers could be obtained. At once Boston began asking for waivers, but something went awry, apparently, and the hard-hitting infielder was turned over to the Cincinnati Nationals.

Rodgers was obtained by the Boston Red Sox from Portland on an arrangement whereby one-half the draft price, or $1250, should be paid Portland if Boston found Rodgers acceptable by the end of the season. The Cincinnati deal evidently means that McCredie will get this money, but not the player. Rodgers had objected to returning to the Portland team when he was ordered back here by the Cleveland American League club, which bought him from Portland last Fall. His objection was so strenuous that he finally landed a berth with the Red Sox.

OAKS GET TWO PITCHERS

BEER, NICKNAMED "LAGER," COMES WITH FINE RECORD.

Russell, Tried Out Once by McCredie, Is Second Boxman Counted on to Stem Commuters' Slump.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—(Special.)—Look for the Oaks to jump out of the cellar soon. They are going to have two new pitchers. One of them is named Russell, a promising young left-hander; but all this hope centers around the other. His name is Beer, and if he doesn't act as an inspiration to the trans-bay pastimers, they should give up the game.

Beer is also said to have something besides his name. He was rated as the best pitcher in the Rio Grande League, which disbanded after July 4, and last season was a whirlwind in the Western Canadian League. With the Saskatoon club he won 23 and lost 7 games for an average of .767, striking out 190 and passing only 51. He is described as a small fellow, his only drawback, but is said to possess a spitball that is a wonder. He was christened "Samuel," but to be the first on the job in the Coast League, he is hereby nicknamed "Lager."

Russell, the other new acquisition, has not such a dandy recommendation. He hurled in the Western Canadian League in 1914 and won seven and lost 10 games for a .412 average. He is reported to be a left-hander as big as Harry Ables. Fleharty, the former Venice pitcher, recommended the youngsters to Manager Rowdy Elliott. The Oakland pitching staff needs some bolstering up and this is the first move in that direction.

Russell, one of the new Oak recruits, tried out with the Portland Coast League club in the Spring of 1914. Walter McCredie heard of his prowess in the bush around Santa Barbara and gave him the "once over" for nearly a week in camp at Santa Maria. Russell is considerably larger than Harry Ables, and McCredie thought he was too big and cumbersome ever to become a real pitcher. He went from there to Salt Lake and ultimately to the Western Canada League.

BACKUS AND BURGHDUFF LEAD

Portland Anglers to Take Part in Tournament at Tacoma.

Walter C. Backus and A. E. Burghduff will represent the Multnomah Anglers' Club in the fly and bait-casting events at Tacoma the latter part of August. This decision was reached Thursday at the close of the two days' tournament. The events were staged on the landing at the Oaks. The results:

Distance fly, heavy rod—W. E. Carlon, 90 feet; W. C. Block, 85 feet; Jack Myers, 85 feet; L. W. Humphreys, 77 feet; W. F. Backus, 75 feet; J. C. Morris, 71 feet; C. C. Harris, 70 feet. A heavy wind bothered the contestants in this event.

Accuracy bait-casting, half ounce—W. C. Block, 98 per cent; L. W. Humphreys, 96 14-15 per cent; A. E. Burghduff, 96 8-15 per cent; J. I. Caldwell, 96 4-15 per cent; Dr. E. C. McFarland, 96 4-15 per cent; W. F. Backus, 95 4-15 per cent; Charles Demmler, 92 per cent.

Accuracy fly-casting—W. F. Backus, 99 2-15 per cent; W. E. Carlon, 98 12-15 per cent; A. E. Burghduff, 98 9-15 per cent; W. C. Block, 98 8-15 per cent; L. W. Humphreys, 98 6-15 per cent; Jack Meyers, 97 13-15 per cent; J. C. Morris, 97 5-15 per cent; C. C. Harris, 96 2-15 per cent.

Distance bait-casting, half ounce—A. E. Burghduff, average of 156 feet; Dr. E. C. McFarland, average of 156 feet; W. C. Block, average of 144 feet; J. I. Caldwell, average of 131 feet; L. W. Humphreys, average of 103 feet; Charles Demmler, average of 94 feet. The longest cast was that of 172 feet, made by A. E. Burghduff.

GAME SATURDAY FOR CHARITY

Beavers and Angels Likely to Play Before Great Crowd.

All indications point to success of the charity ball game Saturday between the Beavers and Los Angeles. Every day brings calls for seats at the headquarters of the Associated Charities and from the present outlook a large crowd will be in attendance.

Society of the city will be well represented as a glance at the list of boxholders shows.

Efforts will be made to have the police band on hand to enliven the afternoon.

President Edgar S. Higgins, of the Portland Baseball Boosters, and the organization are working hard in an effort to have several thousand see the game.

"The cause is a worthy one, and I feel that everyone that can possibly do so should turn out and see the game. I can depend on the loyal fans to be on hand at this game if they never get out the rest of the season, but those not interested in baseball should go Saturday and help swell the fund that goes to help out the city's needy," said Mr. Higgins, yesterday.
