SHIPPERS AND DOCK HANDS TO CONFER

Equalization of Charges on Freight Handling to Be Considered Here Soon.

PORTLAND COST HIGHER

Chamber and Others to Present to Longshoremen Effect Rate Now Prescribed Has on Port and to Suggest Readjustment,

Representatives of the shipping and commercial bodies of Portland and of the longshoremen's organizations will hold a meeting in Portland within the next few days to consider the matter of equalization of freight-handling on the waterfront here with the charges in other Pacific Coast ports.

This meeting will be attended by committees from the Portland Chamber of Commerce, agents of the steamship lines now operating out of the Columbia River and the following representatives of the men who handle freight on the docks: T. V. O'Conner, president of the International Longshoremen's Union: John Keene, president of the Pacific Coast division of that organi-zation, and Andy Madsen, its secre-fary.

For six weeks such a hearing has

For six weeks such a hearing has been held at Seattle, and while Fort-land has not had any information as to what has transpired at those hear-ings, the results in the way of agree-ments as to charges for handling waterfront tonnage will be made pub-

Business Men Favor Change. When the committee convenes Port-land shippers will be ready to meet this question. They will have the ac-tive support of a united body of business men who are members of the Federation of Pacific Coast Waterfront Employers. The Portland Chamber of Commerce has committed its members to a propo-sition under which charges for handing for a reduction in charges unless a reduction is necessary to place them on the same basis as the shippers of Seattle or San Francisco.

Difference Is Explained. It is pointed out that foreign-bound freight originating at Portland can be shipped by rail to Seattle and there loaded aboard outward bound steamers at a less cost than the same freight can be loaded aboard steamers after it is delivered of the Portland allowed. is delivered at the Portland docks.

The longshoremen who unload and load ocean-going steamers and river freighters at Portland are controlled by the same organization as the long-shoremen at Scattle, and it is contended by Portland men that there should not be a difference in charges, it being conceded that there is a difference in favor of Portland in the cost of living.

Marine Notes.

In the amount of grain tonnage en route and listed Portland is not far behind last ear, considering the searcity of skips, ac-ording to statistics of the Merchants' Exhange. Vessels on the way have a combined mage of 73,405 and those in port 8479 tons, while a year ago there was a total of 88,264 one on the way and 7632 in the harbor, he same time in 1913 the tomage comag amounted to 57,494 and there were ships has committed its members to a proposition under which charges for handling freight on the waterfront will be placed on an equality with competitive ports on the Pacific Coast. The action was taken with the approval of the 4000 members, most of them shippers of various lines of goods, and will gain support of that many leaders of the Portland business field behind the movement.

Charges Considered Excessive.

For many years Portland shippers via water routes have been required to pay much larger amounts for unloading and loading cargoes on the docks than is charged for the same service at either Seattle or San Francisco.

While it is an advantage to be able to handle any freight as cheaply as possible, the shippers recognize that they can pay as high a scale as any other port, and therefore are not asking for a reduction in charges unless a reduction is necessary to place them and a fair freight.

In response to a request made by the Fishermen's Union the lighthouse tender Menmanita today removed the black sparbuoy near the Taylor sands, as it was an obstacle that interfered materially with the operation of gillnets. It was shifted to the north and into 15 feet of water. The Mannanita will set a buoy to mark the great Republic wreck in the lower harbor. That wrech is an obstruction that has never been marked properly and was the cause of a steamer breaking her propeller a short time ago.
