COAL BUNKER NEED SUBJECT OF QUERY

Chamber of Commerce to Work With Harbor Commission on Investigation.

NECESSITY TERMED URGENT

Port Representatives Hope Business Interests Will Take Up Matter and Supply Want by Private Enterprise.

Commissioners D. C. O'Reilly and R. D. Inman and E. W. Wright, manager, will begin an immediate investigation into the coal bunker problem and report to the Port of Portland Commisison with a view of co-operating with the Chamber of Commerce in hastening the establishment of a plant here so vessels may obtain fuel in any quantity and at relative prices with Puget Sound and British Columbia.

The matter has been gone into in the past, before and after the Commission was authorized by a majority of the voters of the Port of Portland district to include coaling ships among its other functions, but it was felt that the outlay estimated to be required was not then warranted. Now the ground will be gone over once more and it is not improbable that if bunkers are built they will be located on property adjoining the Port's drydock at St. Johns.

Bunkers was a subject under discussion yesterday between the Commissioners and a committee from the Chamber of Commerce made up of J. N. Teal, A. L. Lewis, Edward Cookingham, George Cornwall and A. H. Devers, whose primary object was to discuss with the Port body the proposed redredging of North Portland harbor to clear away sediment deposited in the channel since the last maintenance work there, so bunkers can be built.

There was a division of opinion as to whether North Portland harbor was as accessible for vessels as some point on the main river. S. M. Mears, president of the Commission, said that he thought arrangements could be made whereby bunkers could be built on the drydock property and no rental or lease payment demanded.

Coaling Costs More Here.

Mr. Teal said that data from various sources had been compiled and it showed that to fully coal a modern tramp here would cost from $2500 to $3000 more than in British Columbia. It was said that the United States Navy Department had investigated facilities available here for coaling and oiling ships and that if Portland would be in line for such business a bunker should be established.

"I say that bunkers are a necessity and after the war there will be great stimulation in business along the Coast," said Mr. Inman, "but we had hoped before that some individual or corporation would take up the project and not make it incumbent on the Port to shoulder it."

Colonel McKinstry, Corps of Engineers, U. S. A., in charge of channel improvements between Portland and the sea, on being asked for his opinion, said he thought the bunkers should be at Portland from the point of view of Portland interests.

It was said that lumber loaded here for offshore ports was really from 50 cents to $1 above that on Puget Sound when loaded on a steamer, because of lack of bunkers. Also, it was pointed out, parcel shipments of lumber were being made in large volume from the north and that to attract steamer lines here to reap the same benefits it was necessary to have bunkers.

In designating a committee to go into the matter in detail, Mr. Mears made it plain that the Commission stood ready to do all in its power to advance the interests of the Port and that if it was shown now was the time to act in erecting bunkers, the members were willing. When a report is ready those interested are to assemble and ascertain what will be necessary to provide the facilities and whether by the Port or by outsiders.

MR. M'KINSTRY SAYS 'ADIEU

Engineer Officer Thanks Port Body for Courtesies During Stay.

On the dredging plan for the coming season being outlined further between the Port of Portland Commissian and Colonel McKinstry, Corps of Engineers, United States Army, yesterday, Colonel McKinstry took leave officially of the Commission. He said that having charge of channel improvements between Portland and the Pacific had been among the most interesting work in his life, and that it had been more pleasant because of the cordial relations with the Commission. Major Jewett, who remains here with Colonel Potter, due the latter part of the month, came in prominently in Colonel McKinstry's remarks as one who was deeply interested in the project and who was fully capable of carrying it forward.

S. M. Mears, president of the Commission, said every member regretted the departure of Colonel McKinstry, even though Colonel Potter was to succeed him, the latter having served here and is well known.

In talking over dredging matters Colonel McKinstry said that the overhauling of the dredges Multnomah and Wahkiakum had progressed so that one of them would be available by Monday to take the place of the Columbia, one of the port's dredges, near Henrici. The Columbia will be withdrawn in a day or two so she can concentrate her efforts in the Willamette.

MARSTON GOES WITH LUMBER

Schooner Cleared for Adelaide and Second Voyage Arranged.

Off for Adelaide, the schooner W. H. Marston got under way yesterday afternoon from the Eastern & Western Mill in tow of the Port of Portland tug Oneonta, laden with 1,209,855 feet of lumber, that is valued at $18,150. She was to stop at Martin Bluff to take on a shipment of powder. The vessel is under charter to J. J. Moore & Co., and has been fixed for a second voyage. On the way back from Australia she will carry a cargo of coal to Honolulu.

The Marston reached the river June 26 from East London, South Africa, after a voyage of about 167 days, and considering that she was drydocked for cleaning and painting and has been given other attention, her visit has not been lengthy. Captain Fred Wann continues as her skipper.

BEACH TRAVEL INCREASING

O.-W. R. & N. Official to Inspect "Clam Shell" Line.

A. W. Perley, "safety first" expert of the O.-W. R. & N. and special agent for the operating department, left last night for North Beach in company with "Captain" Budd, head of the wafer lines and fifth division, to give his attention to safety appliances on the road between Megler and Nahcotta.

"Captain" Budd says the trip of the "safety first" expert is a perfunctory one, because equipment along the "Clam Shell" route is up to the highest standard. In fact, he says, a mishap is so rare that accident report blanks become mouldy waiting to be used. Beach travel has increased to a marked degree during the past few days and there is a scramble in advance to obtain reservations on the steamers, though the Hassalo leaves in the morning and the T. J. Potter at night.

FRIEDA MAHN IS FRENCHMAN

German Bark Goes Under Hammer of Prize Court at Cherbourg.

As the French bark Bon Premier what was formerly the German bark Frieda Mahn is now sailing the high seas, having been a victim of the war abroad and was ordered sold by the prize court, so fell into French hands. She is now mking her way from Cherbourg to Australia and may again find herself on the Pacific Coast of the United States, where she is well known.

The vessel was en route from Callao for Hamburg when the war broke out and she was seized by a French naval vessel and ordered to Cherbourg, where she was recently declared to be a lawful prize and disposed of. The vessel was at once chartered at a good rate and is expected to make a handsome return to her new owners before she again reaches home waters.

Regarding the bark Tridonia, which is listed for Portland from Simonstown to load wheat, a story is told that after her capture as the German ship Heinz and her sale, she was taken to load a full cargo of maize in Africa for Australia, from where she proceeds here to take wheat to the United Kingdom under charter to M. H. Houser.

SANTA CECILIA RETURNING

Grace Line Cancels West Coast Voyage After Loading Wheat Here.

Through the revocation of an order for the Grace liner Santa Cecilia to proceed to the West Coast for nitrates, so she is again placed on berth for New York, the vessel is due to return here Friday from Puget Sound to work at least 300,000 feet of lumber, shipments of salmon and other cargo that will amount in all to about 1000 tons. The vessel is to load copper at Tacoma today for New York.

She left Portland Sunday afternoon after discharging about 800 tons of inward freight and taking on 1473 tons of wheat. The cereal was originally intended for delivery on the West Coast and the question now is whether it will be unloaded so as to be placed aboard another vessel for South America, or allowed to remain aboard and sold at New York.

Third of Larson Cargo Discharged.

ABERDEEN, Wash., July 20.—(Special.)—For lack of dock facilities, the arm-laden schooner Annie Larson has not yet been entirely unloaded, but it is expected that she will be soon. About a third of the cargo has been discharged. Word is still awaited from Washington, D. C., concerning the disposal to be made of the vessel.

Fruit Inspector Aids to Get Cars.

WENATCHEE, Wash., July 20.—(Special.)—County Auditor Ross has been authorized by the County Commissioners to buy two cars for the use of the two assistant fruit inspectors, Carlyle Kellog and A. L. Smith. The authorization was made at the Commissioners' last session on the condition that such purchase was legal. Attorney-General Tanner has decided that the step is legal.

The ice cream consumption of the United States is estimated at five quarts per capita annually.

MOVE CALLED INIMICAL

Delegates Regard Commissioner's Efforts as Use of Government Weapons Against Interests of Country and Ask Check.

ferred to the executive committee with instructions to investigate the facts before taking any definite action. The resolution referred to the recent report that Mr. Bryan, in leaving the office of Secretary of State, took away with him the historic desk at which the great Secretaries of State had worked since the founding of the Government. The resolution urged that this report be examined and if the facts be sustained that the Government be urged to take steps for the recovery of the relic.

The complete text of the resolution regarding Commissioner Claxton and the School Peace League of America follows:

Whereas, The United States Commissioner of Education, P. P. Claxton, is reported to have expressed sentiments derogatory to the American flag and criticised its defenders in an address delivered before the American School Peace League; and Denials Not Recorded.

Whereas, Although his attention has been repeatedly called to the matter, he appears to regard it of little importance and has never, so far as we can learn, denied the accuracy of the report, as the expression of his opinion, nor repudiated its sentiments; and

Whereas, The Sons of the American Revolution take sentimental pride in the words of the ballad, "Columbia, the gem of the ocean," and hold in highest honor the defenders of the flag that symbolizes the United States of America; and

Whereas, No man is worthy of the privileges of American citizenship who insults the flag or defames its defenders; therefore be it

President Asked to Discharge.

Resolved, That the executive committee be instructed to present the matter to the attention of the President of the United States, with the firm belief that his high patriotism and devotion to duty will permit no man holding such sentiments to remain at the head of one of the most important bureaus of our Government. Be it further

Resolved, That we protest against any further printing or reprinting of the publications of the American School Peace League under the authority of Commissioner Claxton at the expense of the Nation.

Newark, N. J., was selected as the place for the 1916 Congress of the society. Other cities seeking the congress were Nashville, Tenn., and Sioux City, S. D. The campaign which resulted in the success of Newark was led by John R. Weeks, state secretary of the New Jersey Society.

Historical Celebration Factor.

Next year will be the occasion of the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the founding of Newark, and this historical event had something to do with the decision of the executive committee as to the place of holding the 1916 convention.

In the election of officers the campaign for Elmer B. Woodworth, of Syracuse, for president-general was rushed through successfully and the vote for Mr. Woodworth was unanimous. Wallace McCamant, president of the Oregon Society, who had been spoken of as a possible rival of Mr. Woodworth for the presidency, was the first to congratulate the new president-general and escort him to the platform.

Here the retiring president-general, R. C. Ballard Thruston, of Louisville, conferred upon Mr. Woodworth the insignia of his rank and turned the gavel over to him.

The election of vice-presidents was as follows: First, H. F. Punderson, of Massachusetts; second, Major M. W. Wood, of Idaho; third, Dr. Samuel Judd Holmes, of Seattle, Wash.; fourth, William K. Boardman, of Tennessee, and fifth, Samuel C. Parks, Mayor of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Several Are Re-elected.

A. Howard Clark, of Washington, D. C., was re-elected secretary-general and registrar. Other officers re-elected were: Treasurer, John H. Bourroughs, of New York; historian-general, D. L. Pierson, of East Orange, N. J., and chaplain-general, R. L. McCready, of Louisville, Ky.

Each state turned in its own nomination for trustee and these names were reported to the executive committee for future action. D. E. Sanford was named trustee for Oregon.

The principal event of the morning, aside from the business session, was the presentation of the membership flag to the delegation from Washington, in recognition of the greatest gain in membership in the past year. The flag was presented to the Washington delegation by J. R. Weeks, of New Jersey.

The business session of the congress closed at 2 o'clock yesterday with a motion for adjournment to meet again in San Francisco Friday, for a purely patriotic programme. The executive committee held a short meeting after the close of the general session for the transaction of routine business.

Auto Trips Enjoyed.

Late yesterday was devoted to automobile trips about the city for the visiting delegates, followed by a tea at the Waverley Golf Club. The annual banquet was held at the Portland Hotel last night.

Today will be devoted entirely to entertainment. The entire party of visiting delegates will make the trip up to Bonneville over the Columbia Highway in the morning. They will return by boat at 5 o'clock tonight.

Practically the entire party will leave for San Francisco on train No. 13 at 8:15 o'clock tonight, and for three days will be guests in Oakland and San Francisco at a special patriotic entertainment that has been provided for them under the auspices of the California Sons of the American Revolution.

Newaukum Line Operating.

CENTRALIA, Wash, July 20.—(Special.)—The Newaukum Valley Railroad, just completed from Napavine to Onalaska, 12 miles east, is now open to traffic and a time table will be put in force this week. The new line was built by the Carlisle-Pennell interests as an outlet for the mill being erected at Onalaska by the Onalaska Lumber Company. The road will open up one of the richest farming and timber sections of the state.

Grading Begun Near Woodland.

WOODLAND, Wash., July 20.—(Special.)—Jeffries and Buffton, contractors on the 1½ miles of concrete road leading north from Woodland, began operations yesterday on the grading of the road preparatory to laying concrete. Because material could not be brought in on high water as expected, the work has been greatly delayed.

Road Superintendent Acquitted.

NORTH YAKIMA, Wash., July 20.—(Special.)—That N. H. Case, superintendent of road district No. 1, was found not guilty of larceny in carrying two of his drivers on the road payroll in order to reimburse himself for sums paid out of his private purse to transient laborers was the decision of Justice Forrest H. Sweet yesterday.

LINCOLN EDITOR DIFFERS

H. M. BUSHNELL IS NOT "PEACE AT ANY PRICE" PROPAGANDIST.

Emphasis on History in Grades is Declared Need to Awaken Citizenship Ideals Early.

H. M. Bushnell, of Lincoln, Neb., editor of the Lincoln Wade Review, differs in his opinions from one great American who also came from Lincoln, for he is one of the most unrelenting foes of the "peace at any price" propaganda in attendance at the congress of the Sons of the Revolution.

Mr. Bushnell declares that the emphasis in the public schools should be placed on history and that the efforts of the teachers should be concentrated upon instilling into the minds of the pupils pride in the achievements of the forefathers and a desire to emulate them.

"It isn't so important in the higher institutions of education," he said, "to have history emphasized, but the great mass of the people do not go much past the common schools, and there is the one place where we have a chance to keep patriotic ideals keenly alive in our citizenship."

The delegates from everywhere but California, who have come to the Congress, are wonderfully enthusiastic in their praises of the climate.

"It is worth a trip around the world to be in this wonderful city," declared Arthur E. Johnson, of Minneapolis, yesterday. "All along the way we have met with rain or other unpleasant conditions, but when we came into Portland it almost seemed as though we came into paradise."

The California delegation, on the other hand, vows that the weather here is the hottest it has ever seen and asked again and again yesterday how the Portland people could stand such a torrid climate.

Meanwhile they are using every effort to get the delegates who go to San Francisco routed through the Sacramento valley at night.

The decoration of the Masonic Temple for the congress are a striking example of the beauty with which the American flag lends itself to decorative purposes.

The balconies and rostrum are draped in great American flags; flags are festooned from the ceiling, and on pedestals flanking the speakers' stand four great eagles are on guard.

At the right a beautiful, full-size replica of the Liberty Bell is placed, and the beams from which it is swung are wound with the National colors.
