BIG STEAMERS HERE

Eureka, Iowan and Santa Cecilia to Load in Port.

CARGOES WILL BE VARIED

Wheat, Lumber, Flour, Wool, Rubher and Salmon Are to Be Taken On for New York-General Cargo Will Be Discharged.

The American steamer Eureka will for arrive in Portland today to take on wheat and lumber for Baltimore. The 1500 tons of general cargo. She will take on about 700 tons of miscellaneous cargo at this port and will then drop down the river to Astoria, where she will take on about 600 tons of canned goods. She will then proceed to Seattle and Tacoma before making the return trip to New York City.

Varied Cargo to Be Taken.

The Santa Cecilia arrived from Puget Sound, where she had taken on several thousand tons of freight, including a shipment of copper. She will take on flour, wool and old rubber at Municipal Dock No. 1 this morning.

Municipal Dock No. 1 this morning. She will also take on lumber, salmon and other cargo to about 1000 tons. The Santa Cecilia had originally in-tended to proceed from Puget Sound to South America for a cargo of ni-trates, but a revocation of an order brought her to Portland.

Terminal Yards to Get Gravel. A couple of barge loads of gravel will be transferred to cars at the new slip at the north end of Municipal Dock No. 1 today by the Pacific Bridge Company for use in filling in around the terminal yards. The slip, with the rall-road switch alongside, makes it possible to transfer gravel directly from barge to car. This will be the first time, it is said, that the new slip has been used in that manner for unloading

Heavy Sea Encountered. Passengers on the Great Northern, that arrived at Flavel yesterday from San Francisco, had the opportunity of seeing an exceptionally heavy Summer sea. The steamer began to roll just after leaving the Golden Gate, and when nearing Point Arena she ran headlong into an 80-mile gale, according to passengers who arrived in Porting to passengers land last evening.

Marconi Wireless Reports.

mere in Portland today to take on wheat and lumber for Baltimore. The vessel will load wheat for M. H. Houser. She has just undergone extensive repairs at Seattle.

The American-Hawaiian line steamer Iowan, which makes the regular run from New York to Western ports by way of the Panama Canal, arrived in port yesterday, and the Grace liner Santa Cecilia, also on the run from New York came into port early this morning. The arrival of the Eureka consequently will mean three large steamers in Portland harbor at the same time taking on cargo for Eastern ports.

The Eureka will first tie up at the Irving dock, where she will take an under-deckload of wheat. The British bark Amulree, now at the Irving dock, will be shifted downstream to make room for the steamer. After the wheat has been loaded the steamer will drop down the river to Wauna, where a deckload of lumber will be taken on.

Repairs Delay Vessel.

The Eureka, which is commanded by Captain Guptill, was due in Portland about July 5. Repairs, however, delayed her. She is a vessel of 1339 tone. The Iowan was brought into port from Astoria by Captain Moran, of the river pllots. She tied up at Albers Dock No. 3 and will discharge about 1500 tons of general cargo. She will take on about 700 tons of miscellaneous cargo at this port and will then on down the river to Astoria where a drop down the river to Astoria where and the river to Washing and the properties of the properties. Marine Notes.

The steamer O. M. Ciark, under charter to the Grace Line, which was damaged by being grounded on a spit near Port Angeles, went on the dry dock at Seattle to undergo repairs yesterday, according to information received here. The O. M. Ciark, which is of 467 tons, is to load lumber and flour here for the west coast of South America. here for the west coast of South America.

The American bark John Ena, which had been taking on wheat at the Mersey dock, has been shifted to Albina Dock to complete the carso. She is expected to get out of the river shortly for Australia.

The steamer Rose City of the "Big 3" line is due to leave for Sam Francisco and California ports this morning at 9 o'clock. Officials of the line report that she will have a good load of passengers and an almost capacity load of freight.

Four hundred and fifty tons of cargo and a good list of passengers were carried on the steamer F. A. Kilburn, which got away for San Francisco yesterday morning. The vessel calls at Coos Bay and Humboldt Bay.
