ELDERS ARE INSTALLED.—At the services yesterday morning at the consolidated First Presbyterian Church, East Thirty-seventh street and Hawthorne avenue, the recently elected elders of the consolidated church were installed. H. M. Nisbet and L. B. Speer were installed for a three-year term and P. H. Stevenson and W. C. Carr for one year each. Rev. F. D. Findley, the pastor, officiated, and delivered the address. Last night a platform meeting was held during which several addresses were delivered. Miss Eleanor Ewing, of Reed College; Miss Berger, vice-president of the Washington state Christian Endeavor Union; Miss Kerr, of the Muskingum College; James Kelso, of Monmouth College; and E. M. Runyan, of Reed College, made brief talks.

HOLINESS CAMP MEETING CLOSES.—The eleventh annual camping of the Oregon Holiness Association came to a close last night at the grounds East Thirty-third and Mason streets. Yesterday was the biggest day of the entire ten days. Services began at 8 A. M. and lasted all day in the morning and afternoon. A public meeting at the tabernacle were held. Big meetings were held through the afternoon and last night the final services were conducted. A number of ministers and evangelists took part, including Rev. Charles Stalker, C. W. R. R. of Indianapolis; Rev. Stella Crook, of Portland; Dr. Alexander Beers, of Seattle, Wash.; and Mrs. Edith White, president of Portland. Newly-elected presidents of the association.

REV. J. F. GHORMLEY TO RETURN.—Rev. J. F. Ghormley, formerly a prominent minister of the Christian Church and a builder of Portland, will arrive in Portland Tuesday or Wednesday to take the place of his son, Rev. J. Carlos Ghormley, pastor of the Christian Church while the latter takes his vacation. Rev. J. F. Ghormley has been pastor at Great Falls, Mont., but is anxious to return to Portland even for a short time. He was pastor of the Central Christian Church, East Salmon and East Twelfth streets, and was founder of that church. His son will pass his vacation in Eastern Oregon.

CHILD'S CLOTHING FOUND.—Clothing found on the banks of Columbia Slough on Friday, and apparently the property of a girl 5 or 6 years old, was turned over to the police bureau yesterday by Claude Everett, of 394 Simpson street, a member of the juvenile police. The clothes included a brown and white checked dress, black stockings and white shoes and slippers. That a girl may have been drowned while in swimming, or have been the victim of an attack, is the theory being held. No girl of that age has been reported missing of late.

MR. McMICHAEL TO LECTURE.—Stanley L. McMichael, of Toledo, secretary and National One-Cent Letter Postage Association, will be the speaker at the luncheon on Friday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce building. The meeting is to be at the union's headquarters, 1115 and Eleventh street. "The Requiem" and "Open the Gates" will be the solos.

MAJESTIC FILM GRIPS

"PROHIBITION" PICTURES CLEARLY POWER OF LIQUOR HABIT.

Plot of Story Entertaining, Action Is Rapid and Lesson Carried In Strong Plea for Temperance. "Prohibition," a great seven-reel drama, vividly picturing the effect of drink "to the third and fourth generation," is the Majestic attraction all this week.

The plot of the story is unfolded rapidly in a prologue, in which the family life of a newly-wedded man, who is a lawyer, is shown. His sister, Mabel Larkin, refuses a talented lawyer because of his intemperance, and when Leonard Larkin's wife dies, leaving two small sons, Dick and Ben, Mabel becomes their foster mother. Later Dick and Ben love Hattie Bell, who is won by Dick. The loser determines to ruin his brother, using his inherited craving for drink as a means. Finally succeeding, he takes his brother to a cabin in the woods, where he gives him a supply of liquor. Later the plot is discovered and a struggle with Dick, Ben is killed.

In the meantime, William Irving, the lawyer, has reformed and is elected to Congress on the Prohibition ticket. Finally, after the third generation, the drama, and son free themselves from the grasp of rum, and the film ends with Dick rejecting over the birth of his son.

It is a stirring play, which strives to reach every class with an entertaining presentation of a great lesson. The characters, too, are well portrayed and clearly drawn.

COLLEGE WIDOW AT ORPHEUM

Dashing Story of School Life Is Thrilling in Picture Form. The clever and popular "College Widow" is presented in pictures for the first time in Portland at the Orpheum this week. Ethel Clayton and George Sorenson lead an excellent cast as the "College Widow" and Billy Bolton. Coach Macgowan finds the material and scratches about to obtain players, some of whom are illiterate bums.

Billy Bolton, the best Northwest halfback, stops at Atwater on his way to a rival college and meets Jane Witherspoon, the president's daughter. Jane consents to the student's persuade her to induce him to enter Atwater and play on the team.
