OSTEOPATHS READY FOR NATIONAL MEET

Oregon Committees Finish Entertainment Details for Visiting Delegates.

SCENIC TRIP IS ARRANGED

Most of Time, However, to Be Spent in Session, With Occasional Excursions, Luncheons and Banquets After Work Done.

The general arrangements committee for the National convention of osteopaths here next week has spent a busy year in preparation for the meeting. When Portland, with 25 osteopathic physicians, won the convention in competition with Los Angeles, with its 200 osteopathic doctors, the Oregon Osteopathic Association decided to exert every effort to make the 79th annual meeting the most complete the association has held.

Every detail has been arranged for the convention and the tasks assigned to each of the committees have been completed. The general arrangements commit-

Osteopaths of State Assist.

The 100 or more esteopaths of the state have been a part of the big plan and generous contributions have been made to finance the week's convention. The National body is largely a work-The National body is largely a working convention and does not devote much time to pleasure seeking. Consequently, a luncheon for the officers on Saturday or Sunday, an excursion for the delegates up the Columbia with a salmon barbecue at Bonneville on Wednesday afternoon and a banquet at Multnomah Hotel Thursday night will be the main features of entertainment. However, many small automobile parties will be made up to permit delegates to see the beauties of Portland and the Columbia Highway.

All Committees Busy. The general arrangements commit-tee is made up of Dr. F. E. Moore, chairman, and Dr. Mary E. Giles, sec-retary, with a committee chairman. The committees, with chairmen and members, follow:

We have our own refrigerating apparatus, which has a capacity for making 25 tons of ice per day. A great portion of this capacity is utilized in cooling brine, which is pumped through pipes to the furstorage vault, where furs may be stored all the year round in a temperature below freezing.

These pipes also run to the refrigerators, the provision counters and the drinking fountains. There are 42 sanitary fountains distributed at convenient points throughout the building, supplied with the pure Bull Run water that has made Portland famous. The water is kept in constant circulation by means of an automatic motordriven pump and cooled by the special refrigerating process. Thus, with the pressing of a lever, you are always sure of a drink of the best of water-Bull Run-cooled to the proper temperature at all seasons of the year.
