Woodstock and Mallett Woman's When the giant saw Gretchen busy

When the giant saw Gretchen busy with the clothes he called out in a voice of thunder: "Come and cook for me. girl! If you do not I will beat every house in this country to the ground." when the neighbors heard this they begged Gretchen to go to save them. And Gretchen, who was a brave girl, said she would for the sake of the rest of the people. So the giant put her up on his shoulder and off they went to the cave. Here she was kept busy all day baking and broiling and stewing for the giant, who did nothing but go after food, eat it up and then sleep. One day Gretchen noticed that in a corner of the cave was a red box. She peeped in and saw it was full of gold coins—new, shining ones, that looked like they had just come from the mint. At this moment in came Dumdum.
