

FRENCH BRING NEW FLYER INTO ACTION

More Powerful Engines and Heavier Armament Features of Mysterious Chaff.

PARIS' SAFETY ASSURED

Germans Also Develop Strong Antagonist, but France Believes It Has Revolutionized This Form of Warfare.

PARIS, July 15.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The armed aeroplanes, officially reported to have been used in a raid on a German flying machine to night, are supposed to be the new flyers that have been the subject of much mysterious private talk, but of which nothing has been known officially.

From many allusions to this new arm, it appears that it is expected to accentuate the superiority which the French declare they have gained over German aviation. The German machines were better prepared for warfare at the beginning, had more powerful motors and could outdistance French machines in air chase.

Raid on Capital Ended. The French brought out more and more powerful motors, protected some of their machines with steel plates and armed them with special guns. These machines, which have been piloted by aviators who volunteered for the war and who have specialized themselves in the chase of German aircraft, put an end to the aeroplanes raid on Paris.

Recently the Germans announced the appearance of new machines, supposed to surpass everything yet produced, with four powerful engines and two motors to each propeller. A letter from a French aviator says regarding an engagement with one of these machines: "Each time he passed me, the machine gunned a whole band of cartridges—it was a hail of bullets. Then the machine swung around and came back above me.

Ammunition Is Exhausted. Four times he repeated the maneuver and it seemed each time I could see the bullets. My band began to run out all our ammunition, but the machine was too fast for us. Then we turned to draw the enemy toward our lines. At 1200 meters he scented the ruse and turned tail.

As fast and efficient as these new German machines may be, the French say that they have been able to further revolutionize this kind of warfare.

Men Who Have Been Fighting Intensely Since Beginning of War Sadly Shaken by Visits to Domestic Scenes.

BY CAROLYN WILSON. (Copyright, 1915, by the Chicago Tribune. Published by arrangement.) PARIS, July 10.—There is a much greater influx of soldiers into Paris this last week than there has been since the beginning of the war. It is the commencement of the series of permissions which will ultimately release, at stated intervals, all the men at the front.

There are many, many men who have been fighting ever since the beginning—some of those with superhuman luck—who have seen regiment after regiment made up of the remnants. One man I know is the only officer who has not been wounded or killed in four years. He has been made up of his original one, his first permission came the last week in May, and he was back in Paris for four days. And he is an officer, too, for whom the situation is necessarily a

FRENCH WAR TAX VOTED

FINANCE MINISTER REPLIES TO CHARGE OF DEPUTIES.

Attempt to Inject Politics Into National Military Affairs Fails—Virtility of Country Defended.

PARIS, July 30.—"Words cannot diminish the confidence of the country," declared the Finance Minister today in another violent attack made by Deputy Leon Accombray in the Chamber of Deputies. Calling the Deputy's philippic "lecturing of the Chamber," the aged Finance Minister replied to the charge that the present government had emasculated the country, saying: "Never has the country been more virile. The government does its duty as the Chamber also can. The country will judge us. At this hour should alone be reiterated the steadfast purpose of the nation to do its whole duty to obtain victory."

An attempt made by Deputies Accombray and Emmanuel Brousse to stimulate the Chamber and give them an opportunity to inject politics into the military affairs of the country failed. The direct taxation bill which was under discussion was put to a vote following Finance Minister Ribot's riposte to Deputy Accombray's attack and the measure was passed by 450 yeas.

In an earlier attack on the government, made June 24, Deputy Accombray affirmed that the country was being ruined by the present government for the deaths of many soldiers, he expressed regret that the national republic was being betrayed by a government, and he deplored what he termed a lack of foresight displayed as to supplies and munitions.

LA GRANDE, Or., July 30.—(Special.)—Eastern Oregon lumbermen decided to send representatives before the Federal Trade Commission when it sits in Eugene August 6, to present the problems of manufacturers and dealers, and the Western White Pine Association's plan to enter into the National Association as advertising campaign, which contemplates an expenditure of $50,000 annually in the interest of lumber, was heartily endorsed at a meeting of the Eastern Oregon Lumber Producers' Association which convened here today.

The convention was attended by representatives of all of the big mills of Eastern Oregon and some from Boise and Spokane and the National advertising campaign was put before the meeting by P. W. Cooper, secretary of the White Pine Association, with headquarters at Spokane.

Delegates to the Federal Trade will be provided with data on close gateways, freight rates, general conditions that have impeded the industry, etc.

Settling Demand of Man Who Sold Timber on Stump Authorized.

The additional sum of $150 was authorized to be paid to M. J. Kelly by the City Council yesterday for timber purchased on the stump by the city during the winter. The city made Mr. Kelly one payment, but he said that there was still money due him.

The disagreement grew out of the difference in the measurement of the wood made by the men in the employ of the city and by Mr. Kelly. He also said some of the timber should have been cut was not cut.

Additional Regiment Asked For. In his first message after his arrival at Port-au-Prince, when the marines and bluejackets encountered slight resistance on landing, Admiral Caperton asked for an additional regiment of marines. The men were needed, he said, to police the city and surrounding district adequately. He asked that additional marines be sent on the cruiser North Carolina or Tennessee, fast ships, indicating that he expected some difficulties. These ships were not available and the Department ordered the battleship Connecticut at the Philadelphia Navyyard to sail. The Connecticut was taking on stores tonight. The department issued this statement: "At the request of Rear-Admiral Caperton, now in command of forces landed at Port-au-Prince, Haiti, for the protection of lives and property in that city, the following reinforcements have been sent him: United States ship Connecticut, Captain E. H. Durrell commanding, has been directed to proceed to Port-au-Prince without delay. A regiment of marines, about 500 in number, will be embarked on the Connecticut. Upon the arrival of the Connecticut at Port-au-Prince, the Connecticut will return to necessary maneuvers with the Atlantic fleet."
