

MEETING TODAY TO CONSIDER JOBLESS

Business Men Will Gather to Map Out Campaign to End Unemployment Problem.

MR. BAKER BACKS PLAN

Commissioner Says Purpose is to Provide for Men Who Belong to Portland and Discourage Other City's Jobless From Coming.

Business men and women in all walks of life today will take off their coats, figuratively speaking, roll up their sleeves and set themselves at the task of handling the unemployment problem in Portland.

On the theory that it pays to make hay while the sun shines, a conference has been called for this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the City Council chambers, City Hall, when in a serious, sober sort of way the city will look on the menace to the peace and happiness of the community, and mints all oratory and theorizing will "get down to brass tacks" to meet a situation.

To provide work now and this winter for the resident heads of families will be the first consideration.

To regulate the influx of jobless men who belong to other communities.

Campaign to Be Planned.

To map out a campaign whereby any "hooters" will know that Portland is not a desirable place for them is still another.

To elevate the problem from a foundation of charity to sound municipal business is yet another, and there are dozens of other angles of the trouble that will be met.

The meeting will be addressed by personal invitation of George L. Baker, City Commissioner. He has asked men of every following: men with money, and men without money but with sufficient brains to help figure out a solution. The meeting will not be just a "meeting." It will be an action.

When the meeting shall have adjourned the men present and the citizens in general will realize that actual steps in alleviating possible suffering, now and this coming winter, will be under way.

Problem Held Broad One.

The object of the meeting is to get the best thoughts of the best men of the community, said Mr. Baker yesterday. The proportions of the unemployment problem have reached a Federal scope. It is a National problem, and while the days are yet warm we must figure out some way to provide work for the worthy. In the brief month I have been in office more than 1000 men have come to me begging for work.

It has ceased to be merely a matter for the city as a municipality to look upon. It has become a matter for practical action by society as a unit. The business men of Portland, who have risen to all other occasions, will rise to this one, I am sure, and we will work out a way to handle the problem.

City's Own First Problem.

"If one tangible proposal will be made, no doubt it will be this: to map out some regulation whereby we can bar from entry to the city those other communities who take care of, who might come here and take work which rightfully belongs to our own citizens. There are thousands of heads of families here who are good citizens and should be taken care of first. We may have to resort to some census plan; adopt regulations in a measure something like Federal regulation for unworthy immigrants. Anyhow we must make the 'hooters' understand that Portland is no 'snip.' The second plan will be to take the unemployed problem out of the charity status.

"We are going to synchronize the jobless man with the maker of work. We are going to provide work for any man who will not return the favor in good citizenship and care for his family.

"We want to see if it is feasible to prohibit the migratory class from coming here just because we have here-tore in a way held open our arms and allowed them to enter.

To Aid Needy is Purpose.

"The sincere purpose of the movement is to provide for the needy families in a respectable way.

"The men who will meet Monday afternoon will not be orators or theorists, at least I hope not.

"We want to start the people to thinking on this while the summer is yet here; and then follow up that thinking with action. We can do it.

"Residents first, nonresidents next; that is about the gist of it."

Mr. Baker, who has given much time of late to studying the various proposed methods of other parts of the country in meeting the situation, has met with good response. His invitations have been answered in person and by letter, and some of the foremost men and women of the city will meet this afternoon in mapping out a plan of action.

Miss Katherine Dowd and Miss Katherine Galvin left on Saturday for San Francisco.

Mrs. Walter McCredie left recently for Weaverville, where she will visit her father, George L. Horman, for a week or more.

Mrs. D. G. Stephens and Mrs. Clark R. Belknap were hostesses on Friday evening at a very pretty party at the home of the former, Lakeside Place on Columbia Boulevard, in honor of the engagement of Miss Edith Mae Rankin to Mr. Schmidt. About twenty friends of the young couple were present and the evening was enjoyably spent in old-fashioned games and dancing. A "kitchen show" with appropriate presentation remarks was a feature of the event.

Mr. Schmidt holds a responsible position with the Gifford Nash party. Mrs. Rankin is one of the leaders in her set. The marriage will take place early in September.

Mrs. Rose Courson-Reed and Miss Ada Alice Tuttle have left Portland for a two weeks' riding and camping outing in the Cascade National Forest, with the Gifford Nash party. Mrs. Reed will then visit Los Angeles and San Francisco, returning early in September.

The Carrie Jacobs-Bond Musical Club held a picnic Saturday, July 31, at Peninsula Park. A 1 o'clock luncheon was served. Mrs. Carrie R. Beaumont is director and Etelka Newton president of this club. Between 30 and 40 attended, including the children, active members of the club and honorary members, which includes the mothers.

Miss Ethel Christina Trouton has returned from two weeks at Cannon Beach.

Mrs. William E. Towne, who has been visiting here for several weeks, will leave for San Francisco on Wednesday. She will deliver 16 lectures in California. On September 2 she will return to her home in Holyoke, Mass. Mrs. Towne has enjoyed her stay here, having been entertained at smart social functions and informal motor parties.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Newton, of Spokane, were guests of honor at a luncheon given by Paul Westinger at the Nortonia on Friday. Mr. Newton added to the pleasure of the occasion with several vocal solos.

SOCIETY

MME. JEANNE JOBELEU contributed to the pleasure of a coterie of friends Saturday night when she entertained at an informal musical at her home in the Trinity apartments. Several prominent members of the smart society and musical sets shared her hospitality.

Mme. Jobeleu sang a number of songs, among which were selections from "Tristan and Isolde," the opera "Louise," a Cheminade number, Bartlett's "Dream," and many more, in which her voice showed splendid advantage. Her dramatic selections were superb. With Mme. Valair, the hostess sang a duet from "Aida." Mme. Valair, who has a rich, sympathetic contralto voice, gave "The Purple Flower," "June," and others.

An exquisite little love song, composed by Mrs. Robert Power (Carmel Sullivan) was sung by Mme. Jobeleu with Mrs. Power accompanying on the piano. At the request of the guests the song was repeated.

Miss Isabel Clark, a gifted young pianist, who has just returned from Boston, played several solos, among which were "The Duet," "Lullaby," and a difficult Paderewski selection. Dainty refreshments were served at the close of the programme. Mme. Jobeleu has just returned from a visit in California, where she was extensively feted. She is planning to give another reception and musical in the near future.

Many prominent Portland women were among those who greeted Mrs. William Jennings Bryan at Saturday at the Hotel Portland. The rooms were beautifully decorated with maple, palms and gladioli. In the receiving line were Mrs. Robert Coffey, Mrs. Solomon Hirsch, Mrs. George E. Chamberlain, Mrs. H. R. Albee, Mrs. Harry Lane, Mrs. Sarah A. Evans, president of the Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Julia Marquam, chairman of the peace department of the Federation; Mrs. Isaac Sweet, president of the Council of Jewish Women; Mrs. A. HOOD RIVER TRACTS SOLD.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Aug. 1.—(Special).—Through the agency of W. J. Baker, E. Rogers, Jr., of Hillsdale, has just purchased from C. D. Tweedy, an acre and a half of property on the Belmont road about a half mile from the city. The tract formerly was a portion of the Paradise farm of the late Dr. W. L. Adams, a Hood River pioneer. Mr. Rogers plans to build on the place. J. Toni, of Los Angeles, Cal., has sold to Walter Walters two lots located on the Heights.

CONVICT STILL AT LARGE.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 1.—(Special).—John Monahan, who escaped from a band of convicts pulling flax near Pudding River Saturday, had not been captured last night, although a posse of penitentiary guards searched the woods in the neighborhood. He was convicted of assault with intent to rob in Multnomah County. About 200 convicts have been employed in the flax fields for more than a week, and Monahan is the only one to escape.

BAND PLAYS TO 3000

Washington Park Crowded by Concert Audience.

SOLOS WIN APPLAUSE

Critic Praises Perfect Harmony and Co-operation of Musicians in Hands of Leader—Popular Airs Emphasized.

There were many outdoor attractions yesterday at Washington Park. It was reckoned to be the coolest spot in town. There were numerous family parties enjoying picnics. The flowers never looked better. The wild animals in the cages furnished abundant entertainment and education for the youngsters. The scenic view was gloriously beautiful.

But yesterday the biggest attraction of Portland's favorite breathing spot was a fine, rousing concert by the Municipal band, W. E. McElroy director.

Grand opera selections, two-step, patriotic music, popular songs, classics and "rags" were played by the band, and the big crowd took part in the programme by its hearty applause. More than 3000 attended.

Mr. McElroy has fashioned the Municipal band this season into one of the tangible musical assets of this city. The band plays with perfect ensemble, tone, finish and appeal. The men evince a pleasant spirit of co-operation and the discipline kept is admirable. In no composition played was the brass section overpowering, and the reeds were under fine control.

The finale was a feature worth watching as a picture of dynamic effect. Each week the band provides first-class music at the parks and gives pleasure to many thousands.

The renditions of the overture to Rossini's "William Tell" and part of Puccini's "La Boheme" were star numbers. In the oboe solo, the playing of the oboe leads by Frederick Starke were masterly and an especial pleasure to hear. Picoles solos by H. G. Knight, and xylophone solos by J. Henkel were highly creditable to these musicians. Weber's "Invitation to the Dance" classic, was played with a true waltz swing and appreciation of its many musical beauties.

Popular features were also kept in mind, and in this department Lotter's "A Southern Wedding" was most amusing. In popular music, "The Red, White and Blue" tied with "Dixie" in receiving applause.

The park zoo was largely attended, especially by the children.

Later he will be taken to Clackamas Lake, in the Bull Run watershed, to see the devices for logging in the canyon. He intends to spend three weeks in the Oregon forests.

Mr. Nakai will inspect the nursery maintained by the Government at Carson, Wash., and will also study the methods of logging in the canyon of the Wind River Lumber Company.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Orpin entertained last Wednesday evening in their home at Glen Harbor Heights. Cards and dancing were enjoyed. Little Miss Helen Dietrich danced a delightful classic dance and Miss Jessie Bechtel favored with a few selections on the piano. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. Bailey, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Malone, Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Dietrich, the Misses Louise Goodwin, Ethel Goodwin, Gretchen Legg, Grace Bechtel, Esther Ritter, Blanche Bechtel, Ruth Carlson, Edith Carlson, Freda Hanson, Jessie Bechtel, Helen Bryant, Helen Dietrich, the Messrs.
