BY ROSCOE FAWGETT. Walter McCredie must have been foraging through the old newspaper iles the other day in Los Angeles when he gave up the ghost, as far as another pennant for Portland was concerned. ast year at this time the Beavers were riding high on the crest of their spurt to first position. Now they are in third place, 55 points behind, and while the boys have been playing good ball during the fortnight, there doesn't seem to be the same sort of consistency aboard that ruled last year.

The present Beaver crew is just as the loss of consistency aboard that ruled last year.

apt to lose an entire series as to win one. There's no telling what the Mackmen will do, because their pitching corps is so flighty. Hal Krause usually begins his winning streak about this time of the year, but it hasn't made its appearance yet. Rube Evans simply can't get going on an even keel, and even old Gibraltar Higginbotham isn't as consistent as he was last season.

Lush, Coveleskie and Kahler seem to be holding up the team at present, and they are doing a good job of it. In the two weeks away from home on the present trip Portland has won 11 games and lost only five. lose an entire series as to win and lost only five.

This week the Beavers will meet Los Angeles and will get a chance to pay up for the four-out-of-five series the Angels waitzed home with less than a month ago. At that time the Portland team was crippled owing to Davis' absence. The new Cleveland youngster, Hammend, seems to be going finely at second, and with Stumpf at short, the combination is much stronger than it combination is much stronger than it was with Speas on second base.

Walter Doane must be feeling rather chesty this morning. Walt batted semething like 474 last week for velice against the boss who released him, and this was better than any other member of the Venice outfit. The other member of the Venice outfit. The ex-Beaver's clouts were directly responsible for the loss of two of the four games by Portland, so we say again that Walt's chest expansion must have gone up a couple of notches. Portland fans had a lot of fun over the Lober-Krueger deal a couple of years ago, and undoubtedly remembering this, the Los Angeles newspapers have been getting in their licks while the crowing is good. The Times has been running a daily "deadly parallel" feature, showing what the two traded players, Doane and Carlisle, have been doing since the barter.

Angling Good Practice.

Two seven-pound birck bass in a few minutes' fishing on Oswego Lake was the record established Sunday afternoon by Dr. E. C. McFarland, secretary of the Multnomah Anglers' Club. Dr. McFarland says that is the kind of exercise he needs to put him in trim for the Northwestern fly and baitcasting tournament to be held in Tacoma August 25, 25 and 27.

Several members of the club are keeping their whip arm in shape by practicing fly casting each day at the foot of Stark street. A fly and bait-
