Germans Expelled From Canada

May Settle in New Mexico.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 2.—Several hundred farmers of German birth or ancestry who were expelled from Canada on the outbreak of the war, or who fled to escape internment, and who have since found refuge in Seattle, Bellingham, Tacoma and other cities of the Northwest, are preparing to emigrate in a body to New Mexico, where they have planned to establish a farm colony near Santa Fe, to be named Hindenburg. In honor of the German field marshal.

Special rates from Seattle to Santa Fe have been made for the colonists. It is expected that 1000 persons will find homes in Hindenburg.

The cause of this homicide was a quarrel over the right of way through the said Joseph Brown's allotment and was not the result of intoxicating liquor, which has been the cause of several homicides during the past few years.
