Games and sports of many kinds were enjoyed by the commercial men, including contests of many kinds, and a baseball game between the Travelers' Protective Association and the United Commercial Travelers, which was won by the former organization, 9 to 0.

The barn had been used as a garage and it was believed that the fire probably had started from the pipe of a lamp. The flames spread to the house, destroying the kitchen, but stopping short of the living-rooms. Most of the household goods were saved by neighbors. The barn was insured for $200, and the damage to the house was covered by insurance.

About the Sunset's New Photo-Play Policy, Briefly: Under the former and generally adopted system of securing films, that of being obliged to take them as they came, it is admitted that a goodly number were poor and indifferent. A proposition, made to us by the largest Photo Play Exchange, relieved us of this dilemma. It is this: Out of 250 films authoritatively recorded for dramatic strength, and their popularity with the movie-going public, we were given our choice, selecting twenty-five, every one a classic, accepted by the public as such. "The Shattered Idol," now appearing here, is the third production under our new policy. Watch for further announcements of those that are to follow.

STAGE TOPIC IGNORED

REV. F. W. GORMAN SILENT ON DISPUTE OVER STAGE CAREER. "Singing Parson" Prays for All in Church and Emphasizes Need of Charity for Others.

A capacity congregation filled Atkinson Memorial Church yesterday morning. There was a hush of expectancy when the auditorium was filled, but not once in his sermon did the pastor, the Rev. Frank W. Gorman, refer to the trouble that had arisen over his appearance in vaudeville.

At the close of the service the members crowded together to shake hands with the pastor. Although no definite mention of the occurrence was made, in his opening prayer, "the singing parson" gave a hint that the disturbance was on his mind when he asked for the blessing of the Almighty on each and every member of the church, and especially upon those who, during the past week, had suffered bereavement.

Rev. Mr. Gorman spoke on "God's Care for the Individual," and by urged his congregation to be prayerful, not merely "saying prayers," but praying from the depths of their hearts.

Each sung a hymn, each kindly deed a prayer.
