EASTERN OYSTER IS BEING BRED IN WEST

Vast Possibilities Indicated Proof Adduced at Willapa Harbor.

GREAT SUPPLY FORECAST

Possibility of Cross of Bivalves From Atlantic and From Japan Indicated-Fisheries Society to Meet in Portland.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16.—With the announcement of the discovery that the Eastern oyster is breeding in the Pacific waters, new possibilities in the oyster industry were predicted today by Professor Trever Kincaid, of the University of Washington, speaking before the Pacific Fisheries Society.

Professor Kincaid showed photographic slides to prove that the Eastern oyster, heretofore supposed to be impossible of propagation on the Ceast, is reproducing freely in Willapa Harbor. That it will also breed abundantly in Puget Sound was the statement of the Washington scientist, who has been engaged in a special study of overtee continue on the Ceast. At pres-ment of the Washington scientist, who has been engaged in a special study of oyster culture on the Coast. At pres-ent Eastern oysters are maintained in local waters only by transplanting. Increased Supply Predicted.

"This fact, as well as other discoveries of the past year, means an enormous increase in the supply of oyaters on the Pacific Coast," said Professor Kincaid,

Among the other important announcements bearing on this was that of the discovery that the Japanese oys-ter will reproduce here, and that the Japanese and Eastern systems may be successfully crossed. Culture of the native system may be greatly increased, according to Pro-fessor Kincald, by a discovery that the embryonic bivaive can be kept alive in captivity at least three weeks. This, he said, comes close to solving the problem of artificial culture. If breeding can be controlled, as salmon hatching is controlled, the effect on the cyster industry will be tremendous.

Among the chief events is a wrestling match for $1000 a side between Tony Ajax and Jim Wilson, an 18-year-old Bandon boy who has recently sprung into prominence through besting M. G. TOO FEW SIGN PETITIONS Proposal to Bond Coos County to Build Roads Meets Rebuff.

MARSHFIELD, Or., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—The movement for bonding Coost County for $370,000 to construct "permanent" roads met a rebuff when the petitions were circulated for two days and, instead of the required 1000, less than 500 signed them. The campaign was opened as a plank road proposal, but the plan was criticised. The petitions were drawn by District Attorney Lillicavist, and the promoters statney Liljeqvist, and the promoters stat-ed the word "permanent" would be con-strued as hard surface when the court would finally pass upon the term.
It is planned to obtain another 500 names and ask the County Court to grant a special election, when it meets the first Monday in September.

Or., Aug. 10.— (Special.) — Another chapter in the controversy be-tween State Engineer Lewis and the State Highway Commission was writ-ten today when the board positively in-formed Mr. Lewis that he must keep hands off new highway construction work, and instructed Chief Deputy Can-tine that he was in charge.
