The chutes is the concession to which chcildren will be admitted free today. To relieve congestion tickets will be given to the youngsters as they enter the gates of the park.

A number of prominent Portland women have promised to act as chaperons. There will be a programme of races and free performances of various kinds for the kiddies. Punch and Judy will run continuously.

More than 11,000 children were guests of Manager Cordray and it is anticipated the crowd today will be fully as large.

Cockroaches Thrive on "Poison," so Jailers Go Ahunting.

Chief Flings Book at Cook, Who Would Shoot Bedbugs "That Can't Squeeze Between Bars."

"GIMME a .22 rifle, quick!" exclaimed E. C. Carpenter, cook at the County Jail, as he rushed into the jailer's office.

"Whassa matter?" asked Chief Jailer George Hurlburt, "somebody trying a jail delivery?"

"I want to shoot cockroaches," said the cook.

"We need some decent exterminator," said the jailer. "There's something in that insecticide they thrive on. There are cockroaches out there as big as my foot."

"Some big," remarked George Yatens, glancing unconcernedly at the floor.

Mr. Yatens dodged a telephone directory.

"Why," continued the chief, as he knelt on the floor and thrust his arm under a desk for the book which had missed the head of his assistant, "these cockroaches and bedbugs get in one corridor and grow so big they can't squeeze between the bars to get out. We have to open the doors for them."

All of this was for the benefit of a chance visitor, but it indicates fairly accurately the state of mind of the jailers on the bedbug-cockroach question. They declare that the "bug juice" furnished by the county is not effective; the chief even says the insects thrive on it.

Mr. Hurlburt asked for another kind of "bug juice," the kind used in the City Jail and most penitentiaries throughout the country. The County Commissioners refused to furnish this kind of exterminator. Instead, they offered an article prepared at the county farm and invented by one of the inmates. The jailers declare it contains so strong a solution of chemicals that it is dangerous for the prisoners themselves to handle.

Circus Publicity Man Burdened With Elephant Jokes.

Story of Elephant Stampede Offered Year Too Late, so Newsmen "Have Laugh."

NELSON F. JOHNSON, publicity manager for the Al G. Barnes Circus, thinks he has a good joke on the Portland newspapermen.

Yes, and he keeps rubbing it into them every chance he gets, too. He keeps telling everyone in town that one of the biggest stories of the decade broke a year ago last Winter when the Barnes show was Wintering in Portland, and explains how funny it was that not a word about it ever got into the papers, so far as he could see.

But now that the circus soon is to appear in Portland, Mr. Johnson thinks it would be a good idea for all the papers to print a couple of columns about how a flock of Barnes elephants stampeded and broke loose from the Country Club grounds, where they were hibernating, and invaded some of the choicest homes in Rose City Park, uprooting trees, bowling over small buildings and frightening women and children into hysterics in their mad flight.

But just because he has been trying to joke at the expense of the Portland newspapers, the newspaper boys now refuse to look at the story in his way.

And whenever he begins talking to them about elephants the "boys" retort: "You mean white elephants!"

PAVING PLANT PROPOSED

City Highway Bureau to Ask $10,000 for Repair Equipment.

A municipal paving repair plant to cost $10,000 is to be asked for by the Department of Public Works in its proposed budget for 1916. Recommendation that such a plant be established was made yesterday by R. E. Kremers, chief of the municipal bureau of highways and bridges, to Commissioner Dieck. The plan has met Mr. Dieck's approval.

The city, it is said, will have great need for a repair plant next year, since large amounts of paving will come under municipal maintenance at that time. Under the present system, the contractor maintains the pavement for the first five years.

TOOL THIEF IS SENTENCED

Man Found Guilty Gets 360-Day Jail Sentence.

Found guilty of stealing about $2500 worth of tools from contractors about the city, M. L. Hilbert was sentenced to a term of 360 days in jail by Municipal Judge Stadter yesterday. Hilbert served a term last Winter on a similar charge.

He is said to have sold about $2000 worth for $150 to N. M. Seater, who conducts an establishment at 142 Russell street. Hilbert, according to officers, represented that he had gone into bankruptcy and had secreted the tools out and was trying to dispose of them on the sly so that his creditors would not learn of it.

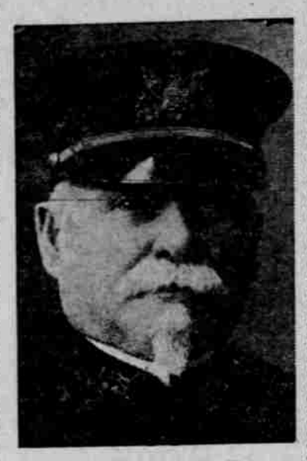
COL. JACKSON HURT

Aged Retired Army Officer Is Run Down by Auto.

CAR OWNERSHIP MYSTERY

Driver Aids Victim and Disappears Before Identification—Firm to Whom License Was Issued Say Number Taken From Shop.

Colonel James Jackson, United States Army, retired, inspector-general of the Oregon National Guard, was knocked down and badly cut and bruised as the result of being struck by an automobile at the corner of Sixth and Oak streets yesterday about 1:40 o'clock. The injured man was reported to be resting well at his home, 380 Thirty-second street North, last night. Dr. Byron E. Miller, who attended him, said that it was difficult to say how serious his injuries were. He said that Colonel Jackson, who is 82 years old, could not recover from such a shock as readily as a younger man.



Colonel James Jackson, Veteran Army Man, Who Was Injured When Run Down by an Automobile Yesterday.

Immediately after the accident Colonel Jackson was taken to the Wells-Fargo office and then to the Commercial Club building, being later taken to the office of Dr. Byron E. Miller, in the Broadway building, where his wounds were dressed. Colonel Jackson suffered three bad cuts on one of his hands, one on the back of his head and one on his chin. He was bruised about the head and on one shoulder.

Identity of Driver Sought.

After the wounds were dressed the injured man was taken to his home in a taxi by Adjutant-General George A. White.

John McNulty, of the Hydrographic Bureau, was the first to reach Colonel Jackson after the accident. He and Attorney B. F. Thompson, who also saw the accident, assisted in carrying the injured man into the Wells, Fargo office.

The police bureau was working last night in an attempt to learn the identity of the man who was driving the car at the time of the accident. Mr. Thompson said that his last name was Hansen, but he did not learn the initials of the fellow.

The car bore a tag originally carried by a machine belonging to John H. Benbrook, of 1065 East Washington street, investigator for the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. Mr. Benbrook, however, turned the machine back to Boone & Co. after he had driven it a short time.

Investigation to Continue Today.

When called up by the police last night officials of Boone & Co. denied that the tag was being used on any of their cars. They said that they had resold the machine, but that they had taken the tag off and put it with a pile of other discarded ones in the shop. They said that someone had taken it.

The police will make a further investigation of the matter today.

The machine that struck Colonel Jackson was a light delivery car. The driver was described by Mr. McNulty as being about 45 years old, sandy-haired and florid and wearing a huge white apron. Mr. McNulty said he bore the appearance of being a butcher or engaged in a similar trade.

After the accident the driver is said to have stopped and assisted the injured man into the Wells-Fargo office, after which he disappeared.

CENSUS OFFICIAL HERE

MAJOR W. N. SAXTON VISITS RELATIVES IN PORTLAND.

Veteran Civil War Officer Has Record of 53 Years in Federal Government Employ.

One of the oldest Government employes, in point of years as well as service, is in Portland. He is Major Willard N. Saxton, uncle of Mrs. Fred Spoerl, wife of the president of the Rotary Club, and is 86 years old and has been in the employ of the Government 53 years. At present Major Saxton is connected with the Census Bureau, and is in Portland on a furlough, visiting his sister, who is the mother of Mrs. Spoerl, at the Madison Park Apartments.

When the Civil War broke out Mr. Saxton was commissioned a Captain by President Lincoln and assigned as an aide in the division of General Rufus Saxton, his brother. His brother had been in the military service of the United States for many years prior to the opening of the Civil War and was at one time stationed at Vancouver as chief quartermaster. General Rufus Saxton was the man who held Harper's Ferry against the assault of Stonewall Jackson.

Major Saxton has held various positions in the Government service, being at first a printer of Government work that was done by contract. After the close of the Civil War Major Saxton was in the Freedmen's Bureau, but later he accepted an appointment in the office of the first Controller of the Treasury.

Before his 17 years of service in that department had been completed Major Saxton had been elevated to the position of the chief of the division. While in the office of the Controller he often was entrusted with the delivery of large sums of money. At one time Major Saxton was the head of a party that took to Europe bonds to the value of $13,000,000 and delivered them to the Rothschilds.

After leaving the controller's office the first time Major Saxton served in the quartermaster's division with his brother, but returned to the controller's office in 1896. Nine more years were spent in the Controller's office, and he then took the position in the Census Department that he now holds.

Major Saxton will be the honored guest at the noon-day luncheon of the Rotary Club today.
