HIGH TRIBUTE IS PAID

Leading Citizens Gather to Honor Man Reluctant to Lose Moment From Building Up Columbia River Highway.

"Appreciation."

This word was spoken by 12 of Portland's leading citizens yesterday in recognition of the work that John B. Yeon, county roadmaster, has done in building the Columbia River Highway.

building the Columbia River Highway.

It was engraved, in substance, on the handsome silver loving cup presented by these same citizens in recognition of Mr. Yeon's invaluable services.

And it became impressed, no doubt, upon Mr. Yeon's memory so that he will bear it always with him.

And it is the wish of his friends that he shall. It was for the purpose of impressing him with the knowledge that his work is appreciated that Mr. Yeon was called to the Benson Hotel yesterday morning to attend a breakfast—ostensibly to talk over some plans for further road development work.

Noted Road Enthusiasts Attend.

They tried first to attract him to a luncheon or a dinner or a meal at some more reasonable time of the day, but Mr. Yeon protested invariably that he was too busy. He is out on the roads until late every night. Sometimes he goes out as early as 5 o'clock in the morning, but yesterday he was prevailed upon to stay in town until 8 o'clock.

So it was with somewhat of an impatient and bored look that Mr. Yeon entered the Tyrolean room of the Benevan. It was 8 o'clock and already he had lost fully three hours that he might have devoted to the roads.

Around the breakfast table he found a group of familiar faces. Among them he noticed Simon Benson, Samuel Hill, H. L. Pittock, Julius L. Meier, A. S. Benson, Rufus C. Holman, Major H. L. Bowiby, Samuel C. Lancaster, C. S. Jackson, Frank Terrace, John F. Carrell and Oswald West.

Each of these men had been prominent in road development work and had played an important part in the good roads movement.

Further evidence that the occasion was one intended as a particular compliment to Mr. Yeon was presented in the fact that his aged father, John B. Yeon, Sr., soon joined the company.

But even this did not enable Mr. Yeon to divine the purpose of the meeting.

Following the feasting, Mr. Meier.

as chairman of the Columbia River.

Highway Association, besought the elder Mr. Yeon to note particularly of the proceedings that were to follow.

"We have called your son here to give account of himself." he explained, "and it is well for the father to know what the son is doing." He continued by reviewing some of the road work that has been accomplished in the Northwest through the individual and the combined efforts of the persons present, and then presented Mr. Hill, whom he termed the pioneer good roads man in Oregon.

Dr. Anderson himself was arrested yesterday by Deputy Constables Nicholason and Druhot on a charge of performing an illegal operation on Mrs. Moore, preferred against him by the husband. Dr. Anderson will receive his hearing today.

He pointed out that the company there assembled has been responsible for most of the highway work that has been done in this vicinity in the last few years, and urged them particularly to aid in the movement to develop Southwestern Washington by assisting in the construction of the new sisting in the construction of the new highway through Skamania County. Up to this time he had not mentioned Mr. Yeon. But, turning then to the highway builder, he produced from some mysterious source the engraved cup, which he formally presented.

Tescue of the crew on the achooner M. L. Hall, at Glades Head, off the Massachusetts coast, May 20 that year. The story of Dr. Hegele's "find" was reliated in The Oregonian last Sunday, and yesterday the grandson of the late Mr. Whitcomb and several friends of the family made themselves known.

Dr. Hegele yesterday turned the medal over to W. H. Whitcomb, who lives at Courtney Station, who revealed the fact that the widow of the late Mr. Whitcomb still lives in Portland, at 315 Glenn avenue, with a daughter, Mrs. F. M. Rowley. The story of Mr. Whitcomb's bravery in rescuing the crew of the wrecked schooner has become family history, and is frequently a topic of conversation, according to the younger Mr. Whitcomb.

Mrs. J. C. Luckey, of 560 Elm street, is another who threw light on the history of the medal. Mrs. Luckey was a friend of the Whitcombs in Scituate.

to The Oregonian:

The William Whitcomb mentioned in The Oregonian died in this city October 29, 1904, at the age of $3. His home was at 285 East Twenty-eighth street. His daughter, Mrs. George C. Linceln, lived in an adjoining cottage on East Twenty-ninth street.

At that time his two daughters were living in Portland; his sons were in Kanssa. Since then the Lincoln family moved to a farm in Klickitat County, Wash. He had two grandchildren living here at the time of his death—Warren Lincoln and Mrs. Irene Lincoln Feppleton.

I knew his relatives in Scituate, Mass., many of whom are now dead.

Mr. Yeon replied feelingly, declaring that it was some satisfaction to know that he had the confidence and appreciation of his friends.

He carried the cup proudly to his automobile and promptly complied with Mr. Hill's admonition by taking it home to Mrs. Yeon.
