JOHNSON SAME POPULAR COMEDIAN IN REAL LIFE

Star of "Dancing Around," at Hellig, Aims to Amuse and, After He Gets "Em," to Hold 'Em So That They Don't Often Get Away.

AL JOHNSON is a regular fellow—one of the kind that "get" early in the game, but stayed down among the fellows who put him up, to enjoy life. Mr. Johnson's business is to make people laugh. In "Dancing Around" he does quite a considerable of it, and it's become a habit with him to make like all habits, a little of a worry too.

"You see, I can't always tell if I got 'em," he says, "serious business, this funny business stuff," he said. "Once you get 'em, they don't get away often, but lemme tell you somethin', you got to get 'em. Some peopple don't come to the theater to laugh—they come to be made to laugh and that word 'made' covers up a multitude of funny business ideas."
