

SOCIETY NEWS

ONE of the most delightful bridge parties of the season was given yesterday by Mrs. John F. Toft, who entertained at the Oaks. Sixteen tables were arranged, each having one lady and one gentleman. The tables were decorated with trailing vines of nasturtium reaching from the crystal vase to the edges of the table. Luncheon was served at 1:30 o'clock, and the afternoon after the feast, was devoted to bridge. The honor guests were Mrs. Sandler, of Aurora, Ill.; Miss Jackson, of Chicago; Miss Tinsley, of Seattle; and Miss Zischewitz, of Pindley. The table at which they were seated was most attractive. Mrs. Toft received in a pretty white lily-like gown and the guests all wore dainty summer frocks in white and the delicate pastel shades. The place proved an ideal spot for an afternoon festivity.

An interesting engagement announced yesterday was that of Miss Isabel Riggs and Edward Taylor Sturgeon, of Postville, Idaho. The news was made known to Miss Riggs' friends yesterday at the beautifully appointed luncheon at which she entertained in compliment to Miss Gertrude Kanter, of Detroit.

The attractive bride-to-be is one of Portland's most socially gifted girls. She has specialized in children's songs, and yesterday she gave several selections accompanied by Mrs. John Claire Montfort. She is a member of Omega Xi sorority and is popular socially. Miss Riggs is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Riggs, Mr. Sturgeon is a graduate of Wisconsin state universities. He is a fraternity man and a Shriner and is well known in business circles.

The yesterday's bridge luncheon table was decorated with pink sweet peas, and at each place was a corsage bouquet to which was attached the announcement card. Miss Riggs was adorned in a gown of pink chiffon trimmed with lace and with the bertha ornamented with rosebuds. Miss Kanter was pretty in white lace over pink taffeta. A corsage of pink rosebuds added a smart effect to the dainty costume.

Among those invited to the luncheon were Miss Kanter, Miss Isabel Baker, Miss Martha Chapin, Miss Frances Hubbard, Mrs. Frederick Stein, Miss Louise Bradley, Miss Harriet Kern, Miss Mary Kern, Mrs. Donald Spencer, Mrs. Montz, Miss Margaret Porter, Miss Constantine Piper, Miss Helen McCusker, Miss Nancy Zeig, Miss Howell, Miss Hazel Kennedy, Miss Gretchen Klosterman, Miss Louise Boyd, Miss Margaret Hale, Miss Alberta Blair, Miss Norma Lawler, Mrs. Riggs and Miss Stella Riggs.

In compliment to Mrs. J. F. Hall, who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. Farrington, Jr., Mrs. Charles G. Arnold will entertain today at a luncheon. Covers will be laid for Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Farrington, Mrs. J. G. Hecox, Miss Beattie Gatson, Mrs. Dudley Clark and the hostess.

The Oak Grove Parent-Teacher Association will hold a social at the school-house Friday at 8 o'clock. A program will be given and ice and cake will be served. A small admission fee will be charged. A trio consisting of Mrs. Emerald Waldron, Mrs. John F. Riley and Mrs. Idris K. Skulason will sing.

Miss Myrtle Gram, of 262 Larrabee street, is recovering after a slight operation which she underwent on Monday. Miss Gram is popular in sorority circles.

Mrs. Lesaux, of White Salmon, was last week the guest of Mrs. F. Hickson. Several afternoon functions, these being motor trips were given in her honor. On Monday Mrs. Lesaux entertained several friends with an informal musical, giving several brilliant piano selections. She has returned to her home to take up her musical work.

Mrs. and Mrs. Nathaniel Lee Kingsbury are being congratulated on the arrival of a baby boy born August 12. The baby will be named Jean Gordon Kingsbury.

Miss Louise Small and Miss Ruth Small are in San Francisco, where they are enjoying the exposition. After a fortnight's visit they will go to Marysville, where they will be entertained by relatives and friends.

Peninsula Park Lavender Club will hold a meeting at Mrs. J. G. Hecox's field house at the park at 2:30 o'clock. A musical program will be given by Dan Foster. The last meeting of the club was given on Thursday day of last week, when there were about 40 present. They assembled in Columbia Park with basket lunches and enjoyed a delightfully informal outing, with music and readings and games in the afternoon. The club is made up of women over 50 years of age, who meet weekly.

Mrs. Rudolph F. Przel entertained yesterday for Mrs. Frank Schneider, of Alabama. A few of the honored guest's former friends from Salem were included in the list of those invited to the tea.

Miss Ira Hawley, daughter of Representative Hawley, was a recent visitor in Portland and was entertained informally. She was accompanied by Miss Ellen Thibault, of Salem. Miss Hawley and Miss Thibault have gone to San Francisco, where they will visit Cecil Hawley and attend the exposition.

Mrs. Folger Johnson was operated upon yesterday morning for appendicitis and is getting along nicely at the Portland Sanatorium. Mrs. Johnson was on a trip through Halman Park, when Mrs. Johnson became ill suddenly, and was hurried to Portland and taken immediately to the hospital.

The Misses Bertha and Carrie Moores have returned from California after a visit of six months.

An approaching marriage of interest to society in various parts of the state is that of Robert Kinney, of Astoria, and Miss Althea Moore, of Salem. The date for the ceremony has been set for September 1. Miss Mildred Smith, of Astoria, will be the maid of honor and Gordon Craig, formerly of Portland, but now of New York, will come West to be best man at the wedding. The bride-elect is the daughter of A. N. Moore. Both of the young people are popular in society.

Miss Corabel McNaughton, of Seattle, is the house guest of Mrs. E. S. Hinkle, of Linton Court. Several informal parties are planned for the attractive visitor.

Mrs. and Mrs. H. J. Wilkins (Mary B. Barlow) left on Sunday for a visit to the exposition in California. They will be away for about six weeks.

Miss Edna Snowmaker, of Bethel Baptist Church, Oresham, left yesterday for China, where she will be a missionary.

Mrs. and Mrs. Paul H. Geer (Elsie Scott) are receiving congratulations on the arrival yesterday of a baby son.

Miss Margaret McLennan, of Hondo, for whom much entertaining is being done, was the honor guest at a party given Saturday by Miss Myrtle Blair. Miss McLennan is a former

POPULAR MEMBER OF YOUNGER SET TO BE BRIDE OF NEXT WEEK.

Miss Anna Elizabeth Hodecker. Bushnell Photo

The marriage of Miss Anna Elizabeth Hodecker and Dr. H. H. Schmitt will be solemnized in the First Presbyterian Church on August 25. Both young people are popular and are being entertained by their many friends.

Portland girl and is a great favorite among her friends in this city. A wedding of interest will take place in Spokane today, when Miss Agnes Hammerlund will become the bride of Carl Lindgren, a well-known singer. The bride-elect is a society girl who has frequently visited here, and has many friends among the musical set. Her father, Dr. Lindgren, was a colleague of Mr. Lindgren.

She did not care, and so she looked up at him with love shining in her eyes and said: "Perfect love is all I ask for from the man I marry." "That you will have," replied the youth, "for I loved you from the first, but I knew I was not perfect and I did not urge my suit." "Of course, it turned out that the stranger was a Prince, and had come to visit the pretty Princess, and he had arranged with her father not to let her know the object of his visit. The pretty Princess found that looking for a perfect person would have been an endless task, but she also found that love makes all things perfect, even the faults in those we love vanish with the love we have for them and the love they bestow upon us."

THE SANDMAN STORY
BY MRS. F. A. WALKER

The Princess and the Youth.
ONCE upon a time there was a Princess who declared she would never marry until she could find a husband that was without faults. "I am afraid, my dear," said her father, "that you will be an old maid if you wait for perfection." But in spite of all he could say the Princess held to her word that she would wed only a perfect man. Many came to the palace and paid a visit for inspection, but they all had some fault in the eyes of the Princess. One man ate too much. "He is a glutton," said the Princess. "I could not be happy with anyone who thought so much of food; he would be sure to forget me every day at meal time." Another who came to pay a visit to the Princess was condemned because he was too tall to look over to get his food into his mouth," said the Princess; "he looks like a pole with arms."

Another was too fat. "He looks like a barrel," said the Princess, when her father remarked that he liked him. One day a carriage stopped and a man came to the Princess. He was watching him from a window behind a curtain, but she was surprised when she heard him ask the way to town in the town that night. "I have lost my way," she heard him say. She was a little vexed as well as surprised, and she hurried downstairs and told the servants to ask him to wait and have some refreshments.

But the youth answered no, that he must go on his way, as he wished to make the least impression on him. The Princess was interested by this time, for no youth had ever called and left of his own accord before, and so the pretty Princess determined to ask the stranger to stay in person, feeling pretty sure he would not refuse. But even her invitation did not seem to make the least impression on him. However, when he started to leave his driver told him that one of the horses was lame, and should not travel farther that day, and he was forced to accept the offered hospitality of the King, who had by this time appeared and urged the stranger to stay.

The next day it rained so fast that the roads were rivers, and the stranger was forced to stay another day and night. "He seems very pleasant," remarked the King to the Princess the second day, "but I should say he was a little too short, if anyone should ask me." "I don't think he is short," replied the Princess. "But, of course, he is far from a perfect man," said the King; "and, besides that, he is only an ordinary gentleman, and not here as a suitor, he never heard that you were looking for a perfect husband."

Now, the pretty Princess had fallen in love with the stranger, and she was in a quandary, for she could not ask him to marry her, and he had not shown any preference for her while in her father's palace. The next day the sun shone and the stranger's horse was quite well, so he bade the King good-by and thanked him for his hospitality.

When he said good-by to the Princess she asked him to stop when he was on his way home, but he told her he expected to return by another road and very probably would not see her again. The haughty and fault-finding Princess knew that she had spoken too soon. It was then too late, however, to provide a village hair shampoo. THE barber nodded pleasantly when asked for a hair shampoo. "I do not give it here," he said, "but my wife does in there," and he opened the door into a small room adjoining his shop. His wife came forward, a little smiling, black-eyed woman and deftly began taking out hair pins. "We do not do much ladies' shampooing," she said. "Perhaps only a half dozen in a season. People only come here on days or two, just to see the sights, and then they are off again. And they wait until they get to the cities to have their shampooing done. But we accommodate those who want it." "And then she proceeded to give one of the most thorough, careful and comfortable shampoos it had ever been the lot of her patron to experience. The customer complimented her upon her work while she was fanning and shaking the hair dry. "I wanted to do it right," she said brightly, "if I did it at all. And so when my husband and I talked it over, and I decided to do it for those who wanted it, I asked my mind to learn all about the work I could. When I was up in the city, I went to one of the best establishments to see how it was done. This I read up on the hair. I had no idea the hair was so interesting. You cannot imagine how I enjoyed studying about it. Then I studied shampoo mixtures, and what things are beneficial to the hair and what are not, and all about drying the hair. We cannot afford a hot air dryer because we haven't such customers. But this way is really better for the hair. The hair needs to be thoroughly rinsed. The rinsing is one of the most important parts of the shampooing. We have a good water pressure here, and I certainly get a good rinse." "It is a pleasure to run across such a spirit about work, isn't it? A good many of us in the hair business would fear, have shrugged and said a bit contemptuously: 'Six customers a year! That scarcely pays for the trouble!' And we would have slumped on some sort of soap, save only the laundry variety, possibly rubbing it on instead of making a shampoo mixture. We would not have massaged. We would have made short shrift of the dry. We would not have cared much if we had pulled in untangling—so carefully did she straighten it, the combing was scarcely felt. We would probably have looked upon the whole affair as so much of a side issue in our daily work as to be worth scarcely any thought or attention. Yet was not here the true way in which to look upon whatever we do? And viewing it in this way, it is not so much a lot more pleasure out of it than she would, had she done it in a slipshod, indifferent sort of fashion? She not only felt the right that comes from work well done, but she had found genuine enjoyment in the study she had given to the subject. Her reading on the life and structure of the hair, on massage, on soaps and such things had opened vistas of thought and discussion to her that had added fresh interests to her life. And all who work in the same spirit will find a joy in their work that will brighten its monotony. The woman who keeps a restaurant, who cooks, who spots, whose glassware she shines, whose cooking good, gets something out of her work that the woman whose restaurant is drowsy and her cooking poor does not know. And it is the same with every worker, no matter what his labor may be. The one who masters his work, who knows all there is to know about it, who puts the best of

SNAPSHOTS
BY BARBARA DOYD

CLOSED TIGHT
Preparing for our Annual Factory Shoe Sale will open Friday, Aug. 20

WRIGHT'S
COR. FOURTH AND ALDER STS.

himself into it, is the one who goes to his task with shining face, who can say with the poet:
"A long day and the joy to make it fly.
A hard task and the muscle to achieve it."

FORESTRY ACTS SCORED

UNFAIRNESS IN PAULINA RESERVE IS CHARGED.

Crecent Commercial Club Adopts Resolutions Condemning Land Elimination Recommendations.

A lengthy set of resolutions unanimously adopted by the Crescent Commercial Club, a copy of which was published in the Crescent News of August 14, condemns the alleged hostile tactics of the district forester's office regarding the methods pursued in the recommendations for land elimination in the Paulina Forest. The resolutions are mainly a brief review of the acts of the district forester of this district for the last five years to prevent the further recommendation of the settlement and development of that portion of the Upper Deschutes Valley.

The people of that portion of the Deschutes feel that the forester of the district has been unfair in the matter of withdrawal of land for the use of the rangers and has been hostile to them in the matter of land elimination. The land elimination in the Paulina Forest and in the region of Crescent, the resolutions declare to be the most obscure and the most impossible agricultural land in the entire reserve and they loudly condemn the district forester for the recommendation of the land that resulted in the elimination. "Nearly everyone took a 'shot' at the district forester's office at Portland," is the statement of the News.

As a reply to the charges of hostility to the Upper Deschutes region by the officials of the forester's department here C. J. Buck, assistant district forester, last night declared that although the district officials made the recommendations when land was to be eliminated, their judgment was by no means absolute.

"We do make recommendations," said Mr. Buck, "but an inspector is always sent from Washington and if the officials at Washington are to be disregarded the recommendations that we make, and make the elimination according to the report of the special officer. So we merely aid in the matter of elimination. So far as the charge being made that excessive amounts of land have been withdrawn for the use of rangers that charge is unfounded. The amount of land needed for the rangers varies but we have never recommended a withdrawal that was excessive."

"It is true that most of the land eliminated recently in the Paulina Forest is worthless for agricultural purposes, but as soon as the settlers are there they are more suitable for agricultural purposes than for timber land they may be withdrawn when the proper requirements have been met."

CITY WON'T PAY PASTOR

DEMAND OF REV. L. K. RICHARDSON IS HELD UNSPORTSMANLIKE.

Recommendation of Park Superintendent, Approved by Mr. Baker, Cites Children as Example.

Rev. L. K. Richardson is not to receive the $20 damages he asked from the Park Bureau for injuries to his ankle received recently while giving instructions in tennis at the Sellwood playground. Park Superintendent Cohn recommended that the claim be denied, and the recommendation was approved by Commissioner Baker yesterday.

In his letter to Commissioner Baker, Superintendent Cohn says to pay the claim would result in the children losing the meaning of the word "sportsmanship." "Thousands of children visit our playgrounds," says Mr. Cohn in his letter, which will go before the Council this morning, "and we accept our responsibility beyond careful supervision. Ankle sprains, sprains, fingers are dislocated by baseballs and a thousand petty accidents of childhood are done. But we accommodate those who want it." "And then she proceeded to give one of the most thorough, careful and comfortable shampoos it had ever been the lot of her patron to experience. The customer complimented her upon her work while she was fanning and shaking the hair dry. "I wanted to do it right," she said brightly, "if I did it at all. And so when my husband and I talked it over, and I decided to do it for those who wanted it, I asked my mind to learn all about the work I could. When I was up in the city, I went to one of the best establishments to see how it was done. This I read up on the hair. I had no idea the hair was so interesting. You cannot imagine how I enjoyed studying about it. Then I studied shampoo mixtures, and what things are beneficial to the hair and what are not, and all about drying the hair. We cannot afford a hot air dryer because we haven't such customers. But this way is really better for the hair. The hair needs to be thoroughly rinsed. The rinsing is one of the most important parts of the shampooing. We have a good water pressure here, and I certainly get a good rinse." "It is a pleasure to run across such a spirit about work, isn't it? A good many of us in the hair business would fear, have shrugged and said a bit contemptuously: 'Six customers a year! That scarcely pays for the trouble!' And we would have slumped on some sort of soap, save only the laundry variety, possibly rubbing it on instead of making a shampoo mixture. We would not have massaged. We would have made short shrift of the dry. We would not have cared much if we had pulled in untangling—so carefully did she straighten it, the combing was scarcely felt. We would probably have looked upon the whole affair as so much of a side issue in our daily work as to be worth scarcely any thought or attention. Yet was not here the true way in which to look upon whatever we do? And viewing it in this way, it is not so much a lot more pleasure out of it than she would, had she done it in a slipshod, indifferent sort of fashion? She not only felt the right that comes from work well done, but she had found genuine enjoyment in the study she had given to the subject. Her reading on the life and structure of the hair, on massage, on soaps and such things had opened vistas of thought and discussion to her that had added fresh interests to her life. And all who work in the same spirit will find a joy in their work that will brighten its monotony. The woman who keeps a restaurant, who cooks, who spots, whose glassware she shines, whose cooking good, gets something out of her work that the woman whose restaurant is drowsy and her cooking poor does not know. And it is the same with every worker, no matter what his labor may be. The one who masters his work, who knows all there is to know about it, who puts the best of

PERSONAL MENTION.

- E. J. Rose, of Tacoma, is at the Cornelius.
- E. M. Ryan, of Baker, is at the Multnomah.
- S. J. Frank, of Hood River, is at the Oregon.
- Patrick Welch, of Spokane, is at the Oregon.
- W. C. Knighton, of Salem, is at the Sewanoot.
- George B. Hall, of Seattle, is at the Seward.
- W. H. Lilley, of Eugene, is at the Seward.
- W. O. Bowman, of Seattle, is at the Perkins.
- H. V. Hobson, of Newberg, is at the Perkins.
- H. S. Mitchell, of Astoria, is at the Imperial.
- D. L. Ewart, of Astoria, is at the Nortonia.
- George Kabuth, of Astoria, is at the Cornelius.
- W. A. Brazee, of Spokane, is at the Multnomah.
- A. L. McCauley, of Hood River, is at the Cornelius.
- C. A. Lindeman, of Yuma, Ariz., is at the Multnomah.
- Mrs. C. E. Fanny, of The Dalles, is at the Portland.
- J. L. Stuart, of Little Shasta, Cal., is at the Nortonia.
- Mr. and C. Z. Randall, of Salem, are at the Portland.
- C. T. Joy and family, of Mosier, are at the Perkins.
- J. B. Roberts, of Seattle, is registered at the Imperial.
- The Rev. E. J. Handell, of Chicago, is at the Portland.
- Dr. and Mrs. Ed. Ruffner, of Tacoma, is at the Cornelius.
- W. B. McElroy, of Seattle, is registered at the Oregon.
- Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Jones, of Seaside, are at the Imperial.
- Mr. and Mrs. J. Stafford, of Salem, are at the Portland.
- Professor Max Farrand, of the De-

The Owl Drug Co
Awarded the Gold Medal
by The Panama-Pacific International Exposition

THE highest jury of the world's greatest Exposition: the Superior Jury of Awards of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition has awarded The Owl Drug Company

The Highest Competitive Prize for Pure Drugs

FIRST in the quality and purity of its drugs—and first in the improvements made by its laboratory in the refining and combining of crude drugs into pharmaceutical products.

The Jury, in awarding the Gold Medal, also considered the various other phases of The Owl Drug Company's business—its ideals and business policies—the general excellence of its stores—its accuracy in filling prescriptions—the superior service rendered the public by its 1000 employees.

This award is a signal recognition by a great International Jury, of those high standards of principle and practice upon which this business has been built and operated, from its very beginning, twenty-three years ago.

The Owl Drug Co
Twenty-One Stores on the Pacific Coast

partment of History in Yale, is registered at the Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Autop, of Denver, are at the Nortonia.

J. A. Harper, of Corvallis, is registered at the Seward.

J. E. Christie, of Pendleton, is registered at the Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. Alf. McAlary, of Helix, are at the Multnomah.

Dr. G. A. Whittemore, of Salem, is registered at the Nortonia.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Marshall, of Klamath Falls, are at the Perkins.

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—(Special.)—From Portland today at the Congress was registered Edmund C. King, and at the La Salle, Myron C. Woodard and A. Cohn.

FAT WOMAN IS SOUGHT

Olympia Man Writes Mayor for Circus Performer's Address.

Possibility of a violation of the law against matrimonial agencies caused Mayor Albee yesterday to fail to comply with a request in a letter received from Allen House, of Olympia, Wash., asking for the address of a fat woman traveling with Barnes' circus. Mr. House wants her address. He did not indicate what his purpose is. "It might be matrimony," suggested the Mayor to his secretary, Will H. Warren. "Better not take a chance," said Warren. So Mr. House's request went to the pigeonhole without further attention.

TRIP WEST IS NECESSITY

New York Banker's Son Says Journey Has Lesson for Easterners.

It is necessary to see some of the rest of the country to appreciate the advantages of New York, says Pierpont Twitcheil, son of B. K. Twitcheil, vice-president of the Chemical National Bank of New York City, who has just completed a tour of the Pacific Coast. Young Mr. Twitcheil, who is a Yale student, started on a vacation trip this Summer with the idea of finding a suitable location after he has completed his education. He is taking a course in economics, and intends eventually to embark in the banking business, like his father. Mr. Twitcheil was greatly impressed with the Columbia River Highway.

Applicant—Yes, mum. She said if I could get along with you for ten minutes I'd be a wonder.

Ready to Serve

No Cooking or Heating

Booth's Sardines

Booth's Sardines are not the Sardine that you are accustomed to—they are four times to six times larger than the ordinary Sardine.

They are called Sardines because the United States Government officials say they belong to the Sardine family. They're big Sardines—caught in Monterey Bay, California—big in size and appetizingly delicious.

One tin contains enough for a light meal for four people.

BOOTH'S
CRESCENT BRAND
SARDINES

They are spiced in just the way to give a delightful flavor and put in three different sauces—to suit everyone's taste—tomato, mustard and souse.

The entire family will like them, they will call it a treat. You will buy them again and again.

Ask your grocer for them. He may not know at first what you mean because he may not have handled them before. Just mention this advertisement and then he will understand.

Ask for a Book of Recipes

This little book contains many suggestions for light, dainty lunches and meals which you will appreciate. Ask your grocer for a copy.

Packed by
Monterey Packing Co.
San Francisco, Calif.
S. W. HULLER & CO., INC., Distributors.
212 Morgan Bldg., Portland, Or.

Made in America Best in the World

Lifted to Joy Heights by

Cliequot Club

Pronounced Klee-ko

GINGER ALE

Every drop in a bottle of Cliequot is a wet, cooling, gingery, joy giver.

When you are tired or hot, working, playing, resting or loafing, Cliequot Club Ginger Ale will delight and refresh you.

It has the sparkle of champagne—the life and clean, keen taste no mere chemicalized Ginger Ale ever has.

It is the product of purest Jamaica ginger, lemon and lime juices, and of cool, pure, bed-rock spring water. Perfectly safe to take when you are overheated.

Splendid basis for all sorts of mixed drinks. Try it with fruit flavors and other good drinks. Have it sent home by the case.

Cliequot Club Beverages:
Ginger Ale
Sarsaparilla
Birch Beer
Lemon Sour
Root Beer
Orange Phosphate

Sold by Good Grocers and Druggists

Parrott & Company
Selling Agents
22 1/2 Third Street

Goiters, Tumors
and Rheumatism. Latest and best methods. No Operations, no Medicine. Consultation and Examination Free. 312 Sweetland Bldg., Phone Main 5574.