FIRES ARE CHECKED

Oregon, Washington Spend $25,000 Fighting Flames.

Change in Weather Controls Flames in State and Little Trouble 1s Expected Unless Dangers Should Be Revived.

Washington has cost the United States Government just $25,000 for July and August. This figure was announced yesterday by the officials of the forestry department after a close survey of the expenses of the 60-day period just passed. According to their report the figure is much lower than for the corresponding period in 1914.

A decided change in the weather has put all the fires in the Oregon forest under control and with the possibility of $6.50 and light stock went at $6.50 to under control and with the possibility put all the fires in the Oregon forest under control and with the possibility of rain within the next few weeks fire-fighting in Oregon will no doubt cost little more this season.

T. H. Sherrard, who was at the Zig Zag ranger station when the Saimon River fire was at its worst, said yesterday that the weather change about a colock Monday had aided materially the fighting of that fire.

"Unless we have another change of weather and the hot east wind again springs up I do not think that the fires in the vicinity of Mount Hood will give us any more trouble. However, we are taking no chances and are leaving enough men at the first line to take care of any emergency," said Mr. Sherfard.

Besides the fires in the vicinity of Mount Hood that are all controlled, there are other fires in Oregon that are causing a great deal of anxiety. A new fire has been reported near Fort Rock, in the Deschutes National forest in Lake County. About 40 men have been dispatched to the fire line. The fire is in yellow pine and as the weather is hot and dry the fighters have their hands full.

The fire in the Ochoco forest, reported yesterday, is completely under control and the men have been released. Fire still rages in the Crater National forest in the vicinity of Butte Falls and in the White Saimon and Wenatchee Valicys in Washington.

UMATILLA GRAIN IS BURNED More Than 2000 Sacks Destroyed in Two Districts.

PENDLETON, Or., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—The most disastrous grain fire of the season in Umatilia County destroyed more than 2000 sacks of wheat stroyed more than 2000 sacks of wheat near Helix Monday, sweeping across part of Carl Kuper's ranch, spreading to William H. Dale's place and across a quarter-section stubble field to William Timmerman's farm. The Timmerman house and barn were threatened, but were saved by two score volunteers. The fire is believed to have been due to a spark from a Northern Pacific Totomotive.

WENAHA FOREST ENDANGERED

Blaze on Spackman Mountain Defles Crews and One Missing.

WALLA WALLA, Wash, Sept. 1.— The most threatening fire that has burned in Southeastern Washington this year is beyond control on Spack-man Mountain, about 40 miles east of man Mountain, about 40 miles east of Walla. Walla, and is rapidly nearing the Wenaha National forest.

Hundreds of residents in that vicinity are fighting the flames, but without avail. Several homes have been burned and grain fields on the mountain have been saved only because the grain is too green to burn. One man is reported missing.

LA GRANDE, Or., Sept. 1.—(Special)—Forest fires in this vicinity have been checked and so far as can be learned all are under control today. Climatic conditions have relieved the municipal water condition in La Grande, and moderate sprink-line of lawns is now premissible. ling of lawns is now permissible Timber men are encouraged in their fight against fires by the Governor's proclamation banning hunting for the

GRANT COUNTY FIRE SERIOUS

Ranch Homes and Hundreds of Acres of Forest Are Burning.

BAKER, Or., Sept. 1.—(Special.)— Fifty men are fighting a forest fire in the Malheur forest reserve near Myrtle Creek in Grant County and calls are being sent for more. Several hun-dred acres are reported to be blazing and a number of ranch houses are on fire.

Supervisor Bingham is in charge of the fighters and more men are being recruited in Burns.
