-Perfect support that bordered on the spectacular at times enabled "Irve" Higginbotham to shut out the Seals his morning and gave the Beavers their first game of the series, 1 to 0. The whole trouble came in the fourth inning. Carliele opened with a drive between first and second that Beatty and Downs both went after, the first baseman getting the ball. In turning toward first he slipped and fell and Walter reached the bag before he could throw to Fanning. Lober sent the runner to third with a hit to right and Carlisle tallied when "Skeet" uncorked a wild pitch. Bates followed with a and Bodie got their signals crossed, but Sepulveda winged Lober out at third. Sumpf was turned back on three strikes, and Carisch went out, Jones to Beatty. single, getting the hit because Corhan

Ward Saves Game.

Ward Saves Game.

The big feature of the contest was the sterling work of the two shortstops, with Ward getting the edge because he saved the game in the ninth. With Bodie out of the way, Downs doubled to left and Meloan, pinch-hitting for Beatty, was walked. Jones followed with a hit to Stumpf and "Boss" Wolverton replaced Corhan at bat. The old battling eye was there, all right, but he reckoned without Ward, who went high in the air, stabbed the ball with one hand and toesed to Stumpf for a double play to retire the side.

In the afternoon session it was a hard fight the Northerners gave Blil Steen, their former pitcher, who back in 1911 was winning games for them, and right up to the retirement of the last Portland pinch hitter there was no telling what might happen.

Kahler pitched better ball than he showed earlier in the week and doubtless would have stayed to the finish save that room was needed for a pinch hitter, Gus Fisher filling the berth, Coveleskie had no Trouble in the two innings in which he substituted.

Benvera Take Lend.

Beavers Take Lead.

The Northerners got away to a onerun lead in the second. After Stumpf had popped to Downs, Carisch was safe as Corhan booted, but was nipped at third trying to make third base on a left field swat by Speas. Derrick rammed the hall through the pitcher's box to the outfield for the tally.

The locals wasted no time in recovery. With Beatty out on a pop fly to first, Jones smashed at Kahler and the ball caromed toward first. Corhan's clout against the fence boards sent Bobby on to third and Sepulveda failied his man with a double past first and into right. Steen's sacrifice fly to center that Lober almost missed scored Corhan, who came along easily enough from third with no attempt to throw

The Seals tallied once again in the fifth, when a safety for Schaller to right, a hot liner to center by Bodie and an infield out for Jerry Downs the trick Beavers Threaten Often.

The Fortlanders put up a hot fight all the way along, even though they didn't connect. Doubled out in the third, the Beavers threatened again in the fifth. Detrick hit to third, but was forced by Ward. Steen threw away the ball in his attempt to keep the Portland shortstop nailed to the bag, and Ward went along for two extra bases. There he halted while Rainer was fanned and Southworth sent an easy fly to Downs.

Really the critical moment happened in the seventh. Speas hit to short and Beavers Threaten Often.

Really the critical moment happened in the seventh. Speas hit to short and loped to second on a had throw by Corhan. Devrick was walked but Ward, attempting a sacrifice, raised a fly that Steen captured. Beatty, likewise, was in for the bunt, and the absence of a man on first robbed the Seals of a trible play for both bath. triple play, for both base-runners were well off the cushions. As it was, Steen threw to Corhan for the double play that cut down the side.

New Man Hits Homer.

Southworth's home run came in the eighth. He was first man up, but the Beavers couldn't keep going. Lober and Bates were fanned and Srumpf rolled the ball down to Jeremiah Downs.

Walter McCredie, who has tried out something like 36 ballplayers so far this season and hasn't closed the books as yet, produced another newcomer in the person of Billy Southworth, an outfielder. Southworth put in his appearance in the morning and was stuck in at left field in place of Carlisle. Considering his newness to the league, he turned a "right smart trick" when he poled the ball over the centerfield fence for a homer Sources. for a homer. Scores:

Manager "Doc" White's brilliant pitching after replacing Piercey in the fourth inning was mainly responsible for the afternoon victory. Wilhoit's double and Berger's single in the 10th scored the winning run. Risberg and Mitze were stars at the bat. Manager Dillon was put off the field in the ninth inning for disputing a close decision at the plate. Scores:

In the men's scratch singles Brandt H. Wickersham defeated D. B. Catton, 6-1, 6-2. The only match played in the men's scratch doubles resulted in a victory for S. P. Clark and W. A. Kearns, 6-2, 7-5, over C. M. Brown and W. Downard. The latter created quite a sensation in the annual Spring tourney of Multnoman Club, when they won the men's doubles.
