

COURTS BEGIN WORK IN EARNEST TODAY

With Vacations Now at an End, Judge Gantenbein Becomes Presiding Official.

'MORAL SQUAD' SUIT IS DUE

Mr. Kavanaugh Will Resume Consideration of Dodge Case—Meeting to Pass on Proposed Rules Expected in Near Future.

Vacation in the courts is over. Today jurors, lawyers, judges and the usual ever-present attendants will swarm the courthouse...

Sheriff Harburt this morning will officially open the September term of Circuit Court...

Circuit Judge Gatens automatically becomes presiding judge today and Circuit Judge Gantenbein takes charge of the criminal department...

Meeting on Rules Expected Soon. It is expected a meeting soon will be called to consider the court rules proposed by members of the Multnomah Bar Association...

Judge Gantenbein appeared on the bench last week, but will not formally open his docket until today...

Morrow for the past two weeks has been hearing a few cases and disposing of odds and ends of business...

Judge Kavanaugh will not resume his docket today, but will begin active work on the famous Dodge timber land case...

'Moral-Squad' Suit Begins Today. One trial of interest that will begin today is the $20,000 damage suit to be heard by Judge Gantenbein against Will H. Warren...

Charles Hayes will be tried soon for assault with intent to kill. H. C. Behnke, a former real estate man, will be tried on a charge of obtaining the signature of Gottlieb Harburt to a mortgage by false pretenses...

The Albin L. Clifton case, resulting from the wholesale election frauds in Precinct 37 at the last general election, is still hanging fire.

Clark's first trial on the charge of changing 120 odd ballots in favor of Tom L. Word, Democratic candidate for Sheriff, resulted in a hung jury.

On the second trial, before Judge Gatens, he was convicted. The sentence was delayed for some time, and the sudden death of A. M. Butler, court reporter, intervened.

Although Deputy District Attorney Collier offered the affidavits of two stenographers that they could make a transcript from Mr. Butler's notes and offered to stipulate a bill of exceptions with the attorneys for the defense...

Judge Gatens set aside the verdict and ordered a new trial. Mr. Collier said the state already had been put to the expense of two trials, and he was not sure another would be ordered.

When court opens today a new case will appear in the courtroom of Judge Kavanaugh. George C. Graham, has been appointed clerk of that department by County Clerk Coffey.

He succeeded Sanfield MacDonald, who was discharged by Mr. Coffey while the Dodge trial was in progress.

Colonel Samuel Moody, the veteran passenger traffic manager for the Pennsylvania lines, was in Portland yesterday on his annual visit to the Pacific Coast.

The Colonel, as usual, is full of bright stories and happy sayings, and was greeted by all his old friends and many new ones.

Colonel Moody has been coming to Portland for 25 years and says he always delights to come. He was happy yesterday in being here at the same time as Governor Branbaugh, of Pennsylvania.

"Don't ask me how business is," he advised cheerfully when questioned by Portland friends. "You ought to be busy enough out here with all the people we are sending out to see the Coast."

"Yes," he commented, "travel from our section to the California fairs has been all that we expected. It ought to be a great help to this Coast to have so many new people come here. Everyone who returns seems to be full of praise for this part of the country."

Colonel Moody was accompanied by T. A. Buck, Pacific Coast agent for the Pennsylvania at San Francisco.

Grays Harbor Canning Clubs Urged. ABERDEEN, Wash., Sept. 6.—(Special)—The organization of girls' canning clubs in the rural districts of Grays Harbor County is being strongly advocated by C. F. Monroe, county agriculturalist.

He says there would be a brisk demand for these home-canned goods, both vegetables and fruits. The government furnishes free labels for such canning clubs.
