

METHODS OF POLICE ASSAILED IN COURT

Damage Suit Against City Officers for Arrest of Married Couple in Vice Raid Opens.

DEFENDANTS ARE GRILLED

Wilson T. Hume, Representing Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Ingersoll, Succeeds in Getting Record of Ex-Patrolman Wise Before Court.

Methods of the police and the Mayor's office in their suppression of vice were brought to light yesterday in the $20,000 damage suit of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Ingersoll against the City of Portland, private secretary to Mayor Albert Police Lieutenant Harms, Patrolman Martin and ex-Patrolman Wise. Taking of testimony in the case was concluded at 4:30 P. M. and the arguments of the attorneys will be heard today.

Mr. Warren and Lieutenant Harms were subjected to grilling cross-examinations by Wilson T. Hume, attorney for the Ingersolls. The use of "stool pigeons" and alleged "habitual degree" methods were charged by Mr. Hume in cross-examining the witnesses.

The "John Doe" warrants signed with Municipal Judge Stevenson's rubber stamp were admitted as evidence by Judge Gantenbein. The use of "stool pigeons" and alleged "habitual degree" methods were charged by Mr. Hume in cross-examining the witnesses.

John Doe Warrants Assailed. Arguing against the admission of the warrants, Mr. Hume declared that if warrants were signed by the Judge's stamp in the hands of his clerk, it would be possible for officers to secure any number of "John Doe" warrants and go on "fishing expeditions" with them, arresting whomever they pleased.

Lieutenant Harms testified that he and Mr. Warren had hired a man named W. O. Flint as a "special officer." Flint was instructed to rent a room in a lodging-house which was under suspicion, and endeavor to obtain evidence against the occupants who were suspected.

Flint, when called to the witness stand, said he had been doing special police work for the city. He said Lieutenant Harms paid him sometimes, and sometimes Mr. Warren paid him. "You're what is commonly known as a stool pigeon, aren't you?" asked Mr. Hume.

"No, I'm not," retorted the witness. Lieutenant Harms was on the stand practically all of yesterday morning. He contradicted the testimony of the Ingersolls on several points, declaring he had read the warrants to them. He denied that he talked with Deems regarding Mrs. Ingersoll when he questioned her in Chief Clark's office at the station.

Wise's Record Aired. Attorney Hume procured his desired effect in bringing out the record of ex-Patrolman Jack Wise during the cross-examination of Lieutenant Harms, even though Judge Gantenbein would not admit the testimony.

"Did you ever before arrest a man and wife in a random manner without a marriage certificate?" asked the attorney.

"I don't recall any instance," said Lieutenant Harms. "Didn't you and Wise arrest a man named Goddard and prosecute him for selling his wife into white slavery?" "Yes, we did."

"And convicted him?" "Yes, we convicted him."

"And wasn't this Mrs. Goddard the same woman whom Patrolman Wise later ran away with?" asked Mr. Hume. Many in the courtroom, including several of the jurors, laughed to the right. Stanley Myers, Deputy City Attorney, was quickly on his feet with an objection, and Judge Gantenbein ruled that the question did not have to be answered.

Notice Given Landlord. Mr. Warren told of preliminary arrangements for the raid on the Minook Hotel in which Mr. and Mrs. Ingersoll were arrested on the night of February 2. He said a Mr. Miller, who owned the hotel, was summoned to the Mayor's office and told that complaints had been received about the place. Mr. Warren said he told Mr. Miller that he would give him one week in which to clean up the place, or it would be raided. He waited 10 days and then raided it.

On direct examination the Mayor's secretary said the officers had not been rough in handling their prisoners, and that Lieutenant Harms had not been entering in his attitude toward Mr. and Mrs. Ingersoll.

"As a representative of the Mayor's office, why didn't you permit the officers to take Mrs. Ingersoll into a room where there was nobody but five or six police officers and give her the 'third degree'?" asked Mr. Hume on cross-examination.

"There wasn't any third degree," protested Mr. Warren. "What authority did you have to question her at all?" asked the attorney.

"I don't know what authority we had, but we did it," was the reply. Law Enforcement Declared Atm. "What do you, as an officer of the city, think of this method of suppressing vice, raiding these places and dragging the women to the four corners of the earth?" asked Mr. Hume.

$42.50

The Wonderful Power of Organized Purchasing Is Shown in Our Superb Assortment of

Women's New Autumn Suits and Coats at $22.50 to $50.00

IT IS impossible to describe the bigness of our Apparel Store in the little space we have here. Experts to buy—the same service given by exclusive specialty shops plus the enormous purchasing power resulting from buying in "wholesale" quantities. Where others buy one garment, we buy hundreds. This does not mean "dozens of a kind," but dozens of kinds—almost infinite variety to select from.

Clever Autumn Suits in all the charm of their newness—broadcloths, gabardines, whipcords, serges, mixtures and tweeds, not to mention rich velvets! Skirts that are fairly wide and flaring, jackets that are short and loose and coats that are long and fitted.

Coats of voluminous fullness, some with high "chin" collars of fur or velvet, others in close-fitting military effect. Of mixtures, broadcloths and whipcords—coats of such smartness you must see them!

Two Suits and Coats Exactly as Illustrated

Selected at random from hundreds of equally attractive garments at prices equally moderate.

- a—An ideal coat of damson-colored Bolivia cloth—light as a breath, but warm. With "chin" or crushed collar of velvet. Yoked front and back, with roomy raglan sleeves. Pockets cleverly set on top like flapped bags. Priced at $42.50.
- b—A trim suit of brown invisible check, made on plain tailored lines. Coat with tailored pockets, belt and side pleats. Skirt made moderately full by side pleats. Priced at $22.50.
- c—Brown broadcloth with soft brown fur—a suit for street or dressy wear. The collar can be buttoned up close about the throat or worn open. The Russian blouse lines are youthful and simple. Skirt with back in loose box pleats from waist. Priced at $48.50.
- d—Gray mixture, made into a loose, practical coat for general utility wear, with high chin collar, deep raglan sleeves and slashed pockets—altogether a good-looking coat—priced at $25.00.

SMARTNESS, style, quality—the three essentials that go to the making of a chic hat! All are found in our untrimmed hats, at prices surprisingly moderate. Among them

TURBANS grow more distinctive every day. Some are tiny, snug and close fitting. Others give an upward tilt to the silhouette for fall.

SAILORS, of course, and in such variety that every taste will be satisfied. Some are low and broad, requiring but a single flower or beaded ornament. Some are high and rolling, full of dash. One at $7.50 has a poke front with high flaring back—quaint!

Three Models as Illustrated

Experts will gladly help you design your hat and choose from an endless variety of trimmings. These Velvet Shapes in black and all prevailing shades priced from $1.75 to $7.50

50 Different Styles Trimmed Hats $5

Hats at five dollars with the style and quality you would look for in hats at twice the price! Simple tailored toques, small and severe, or soft and draped. Medium-sized sailors trimmed with Oriental bead ornaments or beaded birds and bugs. Larger sailors with bows of ribbon or ostrich bands.

This seems a conservative price for your "first-of-the-season" hat, so we're showing an unusual assortment now in black and colors at $5.

DAIRY BARNS RESTRICTED ORDINANCE ENABLES NEIGHBORS TO REMONSTRATE.

Council Will Have Power, After Six Months, to Overrule Objections or Order Stables Removed.

Dairy barns where more than two cows are kept and to which neighbors have objection are doomed six months hence. The City Council yesterday passed an ordinance, which will go into effect in six months, requiring the dairy barn owners to get the consent of neighbors to keep the barns.

FOREST RAINS AWAITED MORE TROUBLE WITH BLAZES NEAR MT. HOOD NOT EXPECTED.

Destruction of Timber and Expense of Fighting Flames During Season Considered Small. "We are just waiting for it to rain to put an end to our fire trouble of this season," is what Mr. T. H. Sherrard, of the forest service, has to say as to the fires in the Cascade range that have been the chief item of expense in fire fighting in this state this season.
