Prospects for Export Trade Are Uncertain-Oriental Business Hampered by Abnormally High Freight Rate.

There has been no general selling move-ment as yet in new-crop flour. The large boyers are holding off until the last methe wheat market.

In milling circles it is believed that new flour will open around $4.70, if wheat values maintain about the present level. A few mil lots are reported to have been offered, and it is said one mill has named a price of $4.60, but there is little interest yet the market in any quarter. Prospects for export trade are still un-European buyers name prices certain. European buyers name prices

Against trade with the Orient is the an-mormally high freight rate of $8 now quoted by the few lines that remain in operation. Demestic flour business in old-crop pat-ents is of seasonable, small propertiens, and the market is maintained at the customary over the probable price of new-crop efferings.

Flour trade conditions serve to keep millers out of the wheat market and with the exporters also more or less inactive, wheat exporters also more or less inactive, wheat trailing is naturally at a low ebb. Local dealers assert they never saw a season when the grain market was so quiet at this time of year. At the Merchanis' Exchange season buyers and seliers were I cents to 6 cents apart in their prices. Bluestem bids were raised a cent, and October forty-fold was also a cent higher, but otherwise the market was but little changed from Thursday. An easy tendency pervaded the coarse grain market.

PRICE CHANGES ARE IRREGULAR Alterations in Principal Commodity Markets About Equally Divided,

Price changes in the past week in the principal commodity markets were almost equally divided, of the 76 alterations that appear in the 322 quotations received by Dun's Heview, 39 being advances as sgainst

There was considerable irregularity in movements of foodstuffs, although no very important charges occurred. Dairy products were favorably affected by a more active 6cm and, and almost all kinds of butter, cheese and eggs scored mederate advances. On the other hand, prospects of very large crops of grain and a light movement abroad resulted in eary conditions in wheat corn resulted in easy conditions in wheat, corn and oats, while lower prices were named

Although there was no particular change live meats, beef tended upward, while Although there was beef tended upward, while hors and sheep were rather easy and some reductions were made in provisions. The tone in the hide markets was reactionary, and though quotations show only slight changes in one or two varieties, buyers results to operate except at a considerable recession from the record prices of a short time age. The strength of leather, however, is very well maintained on practically all grades, and in some instances holders appear indifferent as to trading at present values.

Although there was beef tended upward, while horse and sheep were large to the market was reactionary, and though quotations show only slight species. The steady improvement in Iron and stee market conditions is reflected in a harden-ing of quotations all along the line, and the market conditions is reflected in a hardening of quotations all along the line, and the increasing frequency with which premiums are being paid as an inducement for prompt delivery. There was a notable revival of sectivity and strength in lead, spelter and copper, but some decline appeared in the and antimony.

Cotton moved up sharply and raw work.

English Buyers Pail to Show Interest at Prices Quoted.

The hop market still shows no signs of a revival of activity. Prices are daily quoted to suyers in England, but meet with no response. The Eastern market is equally duil. The only business put through here was in amail, unimpertant lots at around 10% cents, which do not represent market values.

Harventing returns that are coming in are in line with those received earlier, that the Gregon crop will be a very short one. Interest in the trade yesterday contered in the reports of hopyard fires in the linder pendence and Salem districts.

In provisions the outcome varied from 50 decline to a rise of 12 % c.

High promiums for immediate delivery of wheat caused general covering by shorts, especially in the September option. St. Louis and Kansas City reported similar conditions. Heavy rains which have interfered with threshing and shipping and which were again prevalent today led to assertions that not for several manths, if at all this season, would there be any big accumulations of Winter wheat at the principal primary markets. No actual sales to Europe were disclosed today, except 400.000 bushels of Manitoba wheat at the seaboard.

Corn ruled firm with wheat and as a result of cooler weather, with some reports of frost.
