LOGANBERRY MAY LOSE ITS LAURELS

Luther Burbank Says His Own Phenomenal Deserves Credit and Is Superior.

JURORS PUZZLED

Investigation Has Been Started That May Go Into Minute Detail and Oregon Growers Are Asked to Give Information.

BT ANNE SHANNON MONROE, OREGON EXPOSITION BUILDING San Francisco, Sept. 20 .- Now comes San Francisco. Sept. 20.—Now comes the bomb! Just as everybody is rounded up on the loganberry juice list, sampling loganberry juice, ordering loganberry juice, planting loganberry juice, planting loganberries, scrambling for evaporated ones and turning back from scientific cookery to the good old New England pic habit, here comes the pronouncement that they are all wrong. It is not the loganberry that is tickling the exposition palate; it is not the loganberry whose fame has run from ocean to ocean, exciting the thirsty Broadwayites and sending the studious to wayites and sending the studious to reference libraries to learn its history; it is not the loganberry that has made the soda fountain man sweat with rage because he had it not and knew it not; it is not the loganberry that has gone joyously down the throat of our ex-Secretary of State, thereby exciting the animosity of the late favoring the grape juice.

No, there is such a drink, but it is positively not the loganberry. It is the phenomenal berry, an improvement on the loganberry, brought to its fine juice-making, pie-filling, firmand-easily-shipped state through the scientific work of the wizard, Luther Burbank

Burbank Himself Says So. Mr. Burbank says so. He visited the Oregon horticultural exhibit, he lifted the lara of rich red berries in their fiery liquid, one after another, all labelled "loganberries," and he said: "These are not loganberries—they are hearing," berries, berries, berries, and he said:

"These are not loganberries—they are phenomenal berries—my berries."

He went on and explained the difference. According to Luther Burbank, the loganberry is a dullish red, a soft rather mushy berry, not easily shipped. He improved the loganberry and made it the berry of commerce, he called it the phenomenal; and some one planted the phenomenal in the Willamette Valley and it got its start in Oregon, and the loganberry, being older than the phenomenal and better known, got the credit.

Mr. Borbank unde no protest; he does not protest now; he does not even object, seriously; he only says, with that calm, dispassiomate persistence of one who knows, one who has tence of one who knows, one who has the indisputable fact in his possession: "The berry you are exploiting in Oregon as the loganberry is in reality the phenomenal." Fresh Fruit Juror Is Perplexed.

This is interesting to horticulturists. Professor V. W. Stubenrauch, of the fresh fruit jury and professor of horticulture in the University of Califorticulture in the University of California, is perplexed. He looks from a jar of loganberries to a jar of phenomenals and shakes his head and says he must know the truth. He has sent letters out in many directions, and he is now trying to trace the Oregon loganberry to its first Oregon ancestor. He wants the name of the first person in Oregon who planted loganberries. He wants to know where this person got his first cutwhere this person got his first cut tings. He has started a thorough investigation which should in time settle the question.

Dr. Bitting of the fresh fruit jury says he is doubtful if Judge John Lo-gan of Callfornia had anything to do gan of Callfornia had anything to do with the first loganberry farther than to own the garden where it originated. It might be a sport. It probably is a sport and not, as the legend runs, the result of an affinity between a raspberry and a wild blackberry.

Chief Dennison of the Horticultural Palace does not favor the Burbank theory. He decidedly has his doubts. Professor Wickson, dean of the agricultural department at Berkeley and a writer on the Rural Press of San Francisco, says he has an open mind, his opinion awaiting the results of investigation. Meantime the investigavestigation. Meantime the investigation goes on.

If any grower in Oregon knows anything that will throw light on this interesting horticultural puzzle, please let that light be thrown

Boys Exhibit First Aid Work,

Before receiving his lecture in economics, Mr. Rockefeller had been entertained by an exhibition of "first ald" work staged by some of the boys of the school. In imitation of the regular first aid teams maintained in the Southern Colorado mines, the boys, coached by their teachers and the camp physician, have organized a team and give frequent drills, one of their number being selected as the "patient."

At Sopris also Mr. Rockefeller inspected a clump of miners' houses, which the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company had recently made arrangements to buy and tear down. The houses, which stand on ground belonging to the company, were built 30 years ago by the first miners, when the mine was opened. Unsightly and Insanitary, they form a strange, old worn contrast to the new homes of most of the em-

New Homes Being Built.

"But these people have stuck to those old houses, in spite of everything we could do," explained Mr. Rockefeller, "They pay only a nominal rent for the land-say a dollar a year-and they have steadfastly refused to move to

"Finally the company has made arrangements to buy the houses outright, for several thousand dollars, and we are erecting new, sanitary cottages on the hillside near the old settlement. I'm afraid even now we may have trouble getting some of the old-timers to take their new quarters when we get them built."

Leaving Sopris the party motored to Morley, one of the newest mining camps in the district. Here the cottages are practically all of cement construction and the "company store" stands on the brow of a steep bluff is

SIX HURT AS RACE HORSE HITS CROWD

Canby Fair Throngs Scramble to Safety When Terrified Animal Makes Mad Dash.

DRIVER OF SULKY LEAPS

After Rubdown, Zomdell Returns to Track and Takes Second Place in Race-Hubbard Woman Is Most Seriously Injured.

CANBY, Or., Sept. 22 .- (Special.)-Six persons were injured today on the Canby fair grounds, when a runaway ace horse dashed from the track across the grounds and into the barns,

Those hurt are: Levi Yoder, Aurora face cut and bruised about the head and shoulders; D. Steffani, Canby, knocked down by the horse and bruised; Mrs. D. Steffani, Canby, and her child, aged I year, knocked down and bruised; Mrs. Samuel Shanbeck, Hubbard, right arm broken, elbow dis-located, scalp would; Miss Mary Hult, Molalla, leg lacerated and bruised. Several others were knocked down by the horse.

Mrs. Shanbeck, the most seriously injured, was knocked seven feet and under a water wagon. She was taken to her home in Hubbard tonight. The Steffani child was knocked from its mother's arms, but escaped with slight. The runaway occurred in the fourth heat of the last race. Zomdell, owned and driven by J. M. Merrell, was being run with a sulkey when one of the wheels worked loose and fell to the ground.

Driver Is Forced to Jump

Merrell was forced to jump from he sulkey as he was hit by the horse's loofs with each step. The racer startspeed, and the judges in the center of the track shouted to the hundreds that lined the track to stand back. Half-way to the gate Zambell col-lided with Prince Seattle, owned and driven by Fred Woodcock. In the mixup, a wheel was wrenched from Wood-cock's sulkey, but he was able to stop his horse.

Zomdell continued his race down the track. Judges made frantic efforts to get the crowd away from the fence and the gate which opened into the track. The sulkey was flying through the air and pieces of it were contin-ually hitting the animal, causing him to increase his speed. Growd Fices Before Rubaway.

He started across the grounds. As soon as the horse passed through the gate, the hundreds on that part of the ground began to run, but before they could get away a score had been knocked down or fell to the earth.

The racer ran to the barn and entered his stall. He was rubbed down, and later in the race won second place, while Prince Seattle took first. The race was the free-for-all trot.

The six who were injured were taken day. It was the biggest carnival ever held here.

Eugene merchants last night carried 18 pages of nearly solid advertising, announcing Dollar Day bargains in the Eugene Guard. Monday's Guard carried 16 pages of Dollar Day advertising, and that published Saturday carried 20 pages.

Dollar Day marked the opening of the Lane County Fair, and marked the greatest first day in the history of the fair. As last year, the grand and school Crowd Fices Before Runaway.

The six who were injured were taken to the office of Dr. H. A. Dedman in where their dressed. Several sustained minor brulses, but left the grounds without reporting their injuries to a doctor.

At one fire, according to one of the numerous confessions, three persons were in the house when the match was touched to the oily mixture. The front door had been left open, but gas generated so rapidly that the force of it slammed the door and it required heroic efforts.

This visitor, whose name is known to Mr. Evans, conferred with one of the women members of the "syndicate." They dined together at a down-town grill. When they came out Fire Marshal Jay Stevens, in his automobile, was waiting outside. He had placed a "jitney" sign on the car, and solicited the patronage of those he was watching.

Keeney and Fire Marshal Stevens fought their first big fire together ten years ago. Both were green hosemen at the time. This fire was in the old Paris House at Third and Davis streets. and it was the first blaze of any size either recruit had ever fought. Later they served in the same company, fight-ing fires side by side.

FOR A BAD COUGH

Here is a fine old-fashioned recipe for coughs, colds or catarrh trouble that is absolutely unequaled. Get from your druggist 1 oz. of Parmint Double Strength, and add to it 1/4 pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful 4 times a day.

No more racking your whole body with a cough. Clogged nostrils will open, air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has a stubborn cough, hard cold or catarrh in any form should give this prescription a trial.-

The Four Hats Pictured Were Taken From Many Handsome Models on Sale Today at $5.95

-Surprising how many different good-looking millinery modes there are this season, and it is difficult to say which of all these hats is most effective. For instance, one woman will best like the tri-cornered shape with the prim-looking feather novelty and silver ribbon. Another will prefer the turban, with its high frilled back and bright beads. Still another will find the new flaring sailor effect, with its trimming of grosgrain ribbon and silver fruit, best suited to her taste. And yet another will like the large-brimmed model with soft crown, and its fanciful trimming combined with gold lace. And, besides these, are small draped turbans, varying in size to the largest sailor shapes, all made of the finest silk velvet.
