be-whiskered as to plot, padded out by the artistry of its players, then those same several hundred souls had the big surprise of their several lives.

If any went prepared to patronize kindly the efforts of playwrights of a generation ago, or to stir up pale lavender emotions of other theatrical days, or to feel superior and highbrowish because "The Henrietta" was made in a day when there were no schools for playwrights, or censor boards, or uplift societies or kindred evils, of the drayma—then they, too, were disappointed.

Those in costume who assisted in the music and demonstration of characteristics of Syria were Miss Elizabeth Johnson, Miss Eva McKay, Miss Margaret Cundy, B. F. Murphy and Fritz de Bruin.

Ain't no old Henrietta-and ain't no eld-fashioned grandmothers either. Not any more, The New Henrietta is as kittenish and foxy, as be-ribboned and smart as the most modern grandma. Comedy Is Sparkling.

Those who went to reminisce and mayhap drop a tear on memory's coffin, remained to sit up very straight in their seats and take amazed notice in their seats and take amazed notice of the sparkling comedy, and as for the tears—well they flowed, too. But they were tears of laughter, fat little globules that sprung from a merry heart and trailed off one's best powdered nose or wiggled out of eye-corners and you didn't give a hang. For your neighbor and his neighbor were in the same condition of polite hysteria.

But ten columns cannot tell about the smoothness of the performance or the exquisite art of the players, an aggregation the assembled likeness of which we have never had in Portland.

"The New Henrietta" is clean in its humor and far-reaching. In sentiment, joyous nonsense and the fine decencies it brims over.

Play is Hare and Simple.

It is simple and rare—and it's revivers have had the courage to stick to fits decency when the slime is in full swing on all sides. Winchell Smith and Victor Mapes in remodeling The "New" Herrietta from the "old" have left her soul and red blood untouched. They have merely given her a modern gown. And the cast, the splendid cast sent us, is Henrietta's elixir of youth Performance is Flaviless.

Performance is Flawless.

No artist other than William H. Crane, dean of American comedians, could have played Old Nick quite so beautifully. It is 25 years since the combination of William Crane and Stuart Robson, as Bertie the lamb, was broken, and folk who saw him then in the role say that he gives the same flawless performance. He has the marvelous gift of what has been called double-suggestiveness. That is, he persuades his audience to adoration and faith in the vicissitudes of Old Nick, the while they are laughing uproariously and shamelessly at his woes.

The role of Old Nicholas Van Alstyne is one of contradictory moeds, but Crane achieves them $very one, from the delicate lovemaking scene with his fascinating widow to his patience-exhausted trials with Bertic.

As for that young man, he is played admirably by Thomas Researched. Performance Is Flawless.

As for that young man, he is played admirably by Thomas Ross, who follows the traditions of Robson, his famous predecessor in the role, but who loses for the comedy none of its quaint charm and whose every word gains a laugh.

Three-quarters of a yard of the material left, it consists of seven folds and a pair of steel or gilt ornaments.

C. W. LOUDON IS CONVICTED

Audience Likes Bertle.

Audience Likes Bertie.

Tuesday night's audience accepted the impossible Bortle with a joyous credulity I wouldn't have believed if I hadn't been there to see it.

Mr. Crane and Ross do not monopolize the quality in the cast. There's Maclyn Arbuckle, who is a huge success and you can play that word both ways. As the fashlonable, hypocritical doctor of divinity, Old Nick's rival for the widow's affections and a plunger in stocks of the Henrietta, Arbuckle is delightful and big, with the spirit of Individual comedy. Laura Hope Crews is adorable as the widow. She wears smart attire and has a way with her that fascinates.

Commander-in-Chief of Grand Army Assures Support and Chief Officer of Sons Says They Are Ready to Fight.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Veterans of the Civil War, here for the annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, were formally welcomed to the Capitol last night by President Wilson, who told them their battles 50 years ago were fought that the greatest instrumentality for the uplift of mankind the world has ever seen might not be impaired.

The President spoke amid scenes of patriotic fervor. Colonel David J. Palmer, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army, introduced him amid thunderous cheering and advised him that the veterans stood solidly behind that the veterans stood solidly behind the Administration's conduct of the William A. a single generation should have witnessed what you have witnessed in the crowded 50 years which you celebrate tonight. You took part when you were young men in a struggle the meaning of which I dare say you thought would not be revealed during your lifetime, and yet more has hap-pened in the making of this Nation in your lifetime than ever has happened in the making of any other nation in the lifetime of a dozen generations. LONG BEACH CAFES TARGET

Wealthy Residents Charge Liquor Is Sold and Disorders Permitted.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 .- Wealthy famllies who have Summer homes in Long Beach have begun a crusade against cafes that are charged with selling liquors after 1 o'clock in the morning in violation of the law, and with per-mitting disorders.

At a meeting of the village board, Warren E. Burns, a trustee, denounced the alleged laxity of the authorities in dealing with the cafes, and demanded that the village attorney be instructed to investigate. This was approved. Numerous residents are backing up Mr. Burns in the fight.

Three of the trustees later resigned.

ANTI-KAMNIA TABLETS FOR Locomotor Ataxia

In a very interesting article on Locomotor Ataxia, Dr. Henry C. Story says that drugs have practically no beneficial effect in these cases. He says that rest should be insisted upon, and there should be no worries or troubles. Plenty of fresh air and moderest exercise must be insisted upon, but oversxertion is injurious. The use of tobacco and alcohol should be strictly forbidden, and over-eating is dangerous, especially when the food is poorly masticated. The food must be of the most nourishing kind, and the quantity and variety must be changed so that the patient will not lose his appetite. The most annoying symptom in these cases is the pain which at times is almost unbearable. Dr. Story says that he fluds two Anti-kammia Tablets repeated in an hour if necessary, gives prompt relief and rest to the patient. These Tablets can be obtained at all druggists in any quantity desired. Ask for A-K Tablets.
