

The Oregonian

Entered at Portland, Oregon, Postoffice as second class matter... Portland, Monday, October 4, 1915.

Material can be made of a kind suggested by the Forest Service, often turning a loss into a profit on the entire output of a mill.

A SAD RECORD. Twenty-five years or so ago militarism gained a foothold in the Portland schools.

The consequences have been dreadful. The Oregonian published a list Sunday of men who were engaged in such nefarious practices as marching, drilling and maneuvering.

Those who have read the story about the Portland High School Cadets will shed tears as they reflect upon the unanimity with which the members of that organization are now attempting to wreck the republic.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

$213,893,970, as compared with net exports of $98,589,320 in the same period of 1914.

The question whether any particular power or bank depositor is pro- or pro-German has nothing to do with the case. We are selling goods to those who are able to buy, and it is up to American banks to finance the deal.

The region all around is an industrial one. Through this district of the department of Pas de Calais run large coal mines.

Always Appropriate Wherever They Reach and Stir Masses.

Among the open letters in The Oregonian has appeared one lamenting the fact that vaudeville artists utilize our National anthems in their musical acts.

I attended the theater where the reported horrible exhibition was enacted. I wish that it is a military post.

The small element in Oregon which fears to trust the state in the control and regulation of water powers has heretofore praised chapter 139 of the general laws of Oregon for 1915.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

Lens, toward which the French recently made a tremendous advance on their way northward in the direction of Lille, is a strong iron and steel center.

The region all around is an industrial one. Through this district of the department of Pas de Calais run large coal mines.

Always Appropriate Wherever They Reach and Stir Masses.

Among the open letters in The Oregonian has appeared one lamenting the fact that vaudeville artists utilize our National anthems in their musical acts.

I attended the theater where the reported horrible exhibition was enacted. I wish that it is a military post.

The small element in Oregon which fears to trust the state in the control and regulation of water powers has heretofore praised chapter 139 of the general laws of Oregon for 1915.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

European War Primer

Lens, toward which the French recently made a tremendous advance on their way northward in the direction of Lille, is a strong iron and steel center.

The region all around is an industrial one. Through this district of the department of Pas de Calais run large coal mines.

Always Appropriate Wherever They Reach and Stir Masses.

Among the open letters in The Oregonian has appeared one lamenting the fact that vaudeville artists utilize our National anthems in their musical acts.

I attended the theater where the reported horrible exhibition was enacted. I wish that it is a military post.

The small element in Oregon which fears to trust the state in the control and regulation of water powers has heretofore praised chapter 139 of the general laws of Oregon for 1915.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

STANDARD WAGES DEFEAT SCHEME

Unemployment Relief Must Not Attract Men From Elsewhere.

Portland, Oct. 3.—(To the Editor.)—As spokesman for the Oregon Society of Engineers in proposing to the Chamber of Commerce a plan for employing men in clearing land, it would, perhaps, not be out of place for me to make a reply to your editorial of September 30.

The plan proposed with a capital of $10,000. Buy a suitable tract of logged-off land for from $10 to $20 per acre on easy terms.

But while this plan is specially intended to meet the present emergency, it is also capable of expansion into a permanent relief scheme.

The differences between the cost of unemployment relief and the value when cleared is rarely more than $50 or $60 per acre.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

It is with some reluctance that we give credence to the statement of a contemporary that the world is a disaster has driven them into mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing pursuits and trades and professions.

Half a Century Ago

From The Oregonian of October 4, 1865. Washington.—The President has been informed by telegraph that the Alabama Convention, by a vote of 89 to 13, passed an ordinance providing that all debts created by the State of Alabama in the late war, directly or indirectly, are void.

Cincinnati, Sept. 25.—While General Grant was returning from Indianapolis an early hour yesterday morning a switch at the end of a trestle at Oakford having been turned intentionally, the car was thrown and dragged for considerable distance. No one was injured.

New York, Sept. 25.—The London correspondent of the Commercial says it is reported that the Massachusetts made arrangements for a Massachusetts state loan of $2,000,000 sterling.

Jeff Davis is to be tried in one of the Circuit Courts of the United States, though what particular one is not known. It is reported, however, that the place of his trial and that Chief Justice Chase will preside.

Philadelphia, Sept. 27.—The morning papers announce the death of W. J. Duane, aged 82, who was Secretary of the Treasury and resigned his office rather than consent to the removal of the deposits from the United States Bank.

From The Oregonian October 4, 1890. London, Oct. 3.—The McKinley bill is likely to die at the corner of the Birmingham button trade. Many of the orders have been canceled and the employees of many of the button factories have been put on short time.

Constantinople, Oct. 3.—Grand Visier Kiamil Pasha has written the Chamber of Deputies and three Armenian boys to confer at Constantinople in regard to settlement of the Armenian troubles. Russia approves the conference.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 3.—George Bancroft, the venerable historian, quietly passed his 90th birthday today.

The second dynamo for the powerhouse of the Waverly Woodstock motor line was hauled out to the powerhouse yesterday.

The West Shore Publishing Company yesterday purchased a piece of ground on the corner of Water and Columbia streets, on which it commenced a fine four-story brick block.

G. W. Dickson, assistant general superintendent of the Northern Pacific, is at the Portland.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—The home team defeated New York without difficulty, batting O'Day, New York 0, Chicago 19, New York 0, Pitches, King and O'Day.

WHEN OREGON HAS BECOME DRY Subscriber Wants to Know About the Old Scotch Uncle Sends Him.

Portland, Oct. 1.—(To the Editor.)—For a number of years I have annually received as a Christmas and New Year's present a keg of old Scotch whisky from an uncle in Glasgow, Scotland. Sometimes it has reached me before Christmas and at other times early in January.

1. If the whisky arrives and is delivered to you before January 1 you may lawfully keep it. You may keep any quantity you desire, provided as long as it has been received lawfully and is not sold or given away in violation of the law.

Portland, Monday, October 4, 1915. Entered at Portland, Oregon, Postoffice as second class matter... Portland, Monday, October 4, 1915.

MASSACHUSETTS SOUNDS KEYNOTE. The unequivocal declaration of the Massachusetts Legislature in favor of increasing our military strength sufficiently to repel any attack is a sign of the Republican party's position throughout the Nation.

Endorsement of a like policy by the Massachusetts Democrats is evidence that the people of the Atlantic Coast in general, regardless of party, realize that, if this country should be attacked, they would be the first to feel all the disastrous effects of war.

Senator Chamberlain, as chairman of the military committee, cannot help but see the truth. But he is the spokesman of one wing of a divided party, and we cannot expect an opinion which will carry the majority of that party with him.

MISREPRESENTING THE CASE. In defense of the seaman's law the International Seaman's Union has republished a series of documents which are almost entirely denunciations of imprisonment for desertion and defense of the safety provisions of the law.

THE LUMBERMAN'S WAY OUT. One paragraph in Mr. Bennett's letter to The Editor is worthy of the attention of those lumbermen who are seeking a way out of the depression which has fallen upon this industry.

FINANCING OUR EXPORTS. The course of foreign trade continues to increase the balance in favor of the United States so rapidly that the $100,000,000 loan having been limited to $50,000,000, exports on a large scale will be necessary to balance accounts.

LEASING AS PUBLIC POLICY. Secretary of the Interior Lane meets the objection to the Ferris bill that leasing of power sites would withhold them from state taxation.

CHIEF DIFFERENCE IS IN 'HOOTS.' Blue Grouse Gives Five Sounds; Timber Grouse of Eastern Oregon, One.

POLISHED RICE ONLY FEARED. Government Policy in Philippines Is to Stop Rice Exports.

CONCENTRATION. Newspaper advertising affords the National manufacturer a chance to concentrate on his best markets.