WIRELESS PHONE HERE

TALK BY LENTS STATION TO PUGET SOUND NOT UNUSUAL.

Federal Company Agents Report Latest Conversation Between Portland and Algona, Wash.

That wireless telephony, which sprang into prominence during the past week by the successful transmission of conversation through the ether from Mare Island to Arlington, clear across the continent, is not new in Portland is pointed out by the Federal Wireless Telegraph Company agents in Portland. They have conducted telephone conversations, entirely by wireless, from the company's station at Lents to Puget Sound on numerous occasions.

The latest demonstration was made last Saturday morning between Portland and Algona, Wash., a point near Tacoma, where the Universal High Power Telephone Company has an experiment station to try out a wireless telephone. A voice was carried on the ether successfully and the notes of a phonograph were heard distinctly.

The Federal station here has installed a DeForest ultra-audion receiver, a great improvement, it is said, in wireless appartus, which overcomes successfully the troublesome buzing caused by the condition known in wireless operating as "static," which makes it difficult for the operator to distinguish messages, both voice and the Morse telegraph signals. The same receiver is used in telephony and telegraphy.

Instead of the buzzing sound, this receiver transforms the message into a musical, whistling note. By its use, it is said, messages can be heard a few feet away from the instrument. The Federal station at Lents picks up messages being sent from the Tuckerton and Sayville stations in New Jersey to Europe right along. The undamped wave, used at these stations, is utilized here to transmit messages.

PRESS JINKS OCTOBER 13

Just to Cheat Ill-Fate, Programme Will Contain 13 Numbers.

The Portland Press Club is going to try to put the good luck sign on that day of ill-fate, October 13. The club has arranged to stage a jinks on that night and it will start at 8:05 o'clock and officially close at 12:01 the next morning—just to carry out the defiance to the ill-omened "13."

There will be at least 13 different numbers on the programme and Charles W. Myers, manager of the club, who has had something to do with every jinks that has been staged by the club, promises a surprise in every number.

In a letter to the club members he announces:

The Press Club jinks of the season will be given Wednesday night, October 13. It's going to be a little different this time and if you are not present you will miss something out of the ordinary. The programme will be completed soon, but you won't know what all the features are until jinks night. You've got to come to find out.

5 HURT IN JITNEY CRASH

TWO WOMEN AND TWO CHILDREN BRUISED AND CUT BY GLASS.

Wife on Way to Hospital to Bedside of Husband Continues Trip as Patient Instead of Visitor.

Five were injured, one seriously, yesterday morning when a jitney carrying six passengers crashed into the rear of a private automobile at Third and Market streets, and overturned. A. Wolfman, driver of the jitney, sustained a fracture of the right shoulder; Mrs. B. Simpkins, of Battleground, Wash., and 10-months-old baby were bruised; Allen Simpkins, aged 2½ years, was injured in an eye by a piece of glass, and Mrs. C. Dearinger, 812 Front street, was bruised. All injured were in the jitney.

Mrs. Simpkins, her two children and her friend, Mrs. Dearinger, were on their way to St. Vincent's Hospital, where Mr. Simpkins was about to undergo an operation. They continued on their way in the police automobile and were received as patients instead of visitors. Wolfman, the jitney driver, who lives at 116 Grover street, was taken to the Good Samaritan Hospital by the Ambulance Service Company.

An automobile driven by H. P. Jones, 1424 Macadam road, and occupied by Mr. Jones and his sister, Grace V. Jones, 1306 Macadam road, was going west on Market street and the jitney north on Third street. The jitney driver endeavored to swing sharply west into Market street and the left front wheel struck the rear right wheel of Jones' machine, which was past the intersection of the street. The jitney turned completely over, spilling its occupants.

The sixth person in the jitney was a woman, who was unidentified. She was not injured and made her way from the scene in the crowd that gathered. Neither of the occupants of the Jones car was hurt.

Patrolmen Shaffer, Cason, Burke and Thompson were sent to the scene from police headquarters. Patrolman Shaffer attributed the accident to carelessness on the part of the jitney driver, for endeavoring to make a sharp turn without due caution. The officer swore to a complaint against Wolfman, charging reckless driving, and also to a complaint against Jones. Trial will be held when Wolfman is able to leave the hospital.

"EAT FRUIT," FLYNN SAYS

LEMONS BETTER THAN "CURE-ALL" FOR MANY AILMENTS.

More Education on Value of Food Thought Necessary in Schools as Guide Post to Health.

W. Earl Flynn last night gave one of the best lectures since he has been conducting his health campaign at the Eleventh Street Theater.

The subject was "Some Popular Diseases," and among other things Flynn said:

"Eat more fruit—you will help your own state and save your life. When walking through a vegetable garden or a fruit orchard you would enjoy it much more if you understood the medicinal qualities of its products. Where an animal has it on man when he is sick is that instinct tells him the things that he needs to eat and he doesn't go howling around the block looking for a pill box.

"Millions of people are eating foods to satisfy appetite without the least knowledge of what the effect is on the body. With all our boasted education, even today in our colleges and schools little knowledge is to be had regarding the amount of protein, carbohydrates, fats, and salts necessary for the proper functioning of all the organs. Why not teach a little more along this line?

"For colds, fevers, rheumatism, throat troubles, pimples, biliousness, liver trouble, and 'that tired feeling,' there can be no prescription written equal to the recommendation of two or three lemons each day. People pass them up because they are so cheap, for some high-sounding cure-all, but remember in using them for medicinal use the sugar must be left out, as it destroys their value."

The lecture tonight at 8 o'clock is to be on "Appetite and Hunger."

Under-Track Tunnel Cost Studied.

Surveyors have been making estimates on the probable cost of cutting a tunnel under the main line of the O.-W. R. & N. at Fairview, thereby lowering the grade of the crossroad to meet the new level of the Sandy Road. While the road is negotiable for automobiles and light teams, the grade is too steep for heavy loads. It is the only outlet to the Sandy from the south at present. It has been suggested that a new road be opened near the O.-W. R. & N depot at Fairview, where a less grade can be found.

CHILDREN PLAN ENTRIES

Coming Junior Exhibition Is Explained at Shattuck School.

Airships, boats, tops, furniture and many other articles are being planned by the boys of Shattuck School for their part of the junior exhibition that will be held October 28 to November 6 in the Library. The girls are making dolls' dresses, fancy work, clothes for themselves and are practicing cake and pie baking, to be ready to compete in the exhibition that is being planned by the Portland Parent-Teacher Association.

Yesterday Mrs. Alva Lee Stephens, president of the Portland associations, gave an address at Shattuck School, telling the children how they might participate. Many asked questions and expressed great interest. Mrs. Stephens will speak at several other associations in the near future. Mrs. J. F. Kelly presided at yesterday's meeting.

Forest Meet Plans Set.

Advance copies are out giving the programme of the Forestry Industry Conference in San Francisco October 19 and 20, which is the chief occasion of the year to draw Pacific Coast lumber and timbermen to the Exposition City.

Held under the auspices of the Western Forestry and Conservative Association, an alliance of all fire patrol organizations from Montana to Northern California, the conference will also include state, Federal and British Columbia forest agencies. One day will be devoted to forest protective methods and another to possible reorganization of the lumber industry to meet its unsatisfactory trade conditions.

Prominent lumbermen from all the Coast cities will be in attendance, also state and Federal officials.
