Saloonman Chases Off Intruder Who Enters Place With Gun.

The man who sttempted the holdup was young, probably 25 years of age, according to Mr. Lee, and carried a 35-caliber "bulldog" revolver.

At 1:15 o'clock a man giving the name of Herbert Ciyde was arrested by a squad of detectives at Thirteenth and Salmon streets and was charged with the attempted holdup. He had a revolver. Shields identified Clyde as his companion.

Shields, officers said, confessed after being "sweated" for an hour and a half, to being an accomplice of Clyde's. The detectives assert both Shields and Ciyde were former inmates of the Reform School at Chehalis, Wash.

John Lee, while conducting a saloon at Tenth and Couch streets about three years ago, shot and killed a man who attempted to hold up his establishment at that time.
