

ABSCONDER INSISTS ON BEING ARRESTED

Man Wanted in Ohio for Embezzlement of $575 Tells of Being Drugged.

WIFE IS MET BY CHANCE

Credit of Surrender Is Given to Mrs. Welker, Who Followed Him to Portland on Money He Sent. Story at First Scouted.

A story of taking a drink in Columbus, O., and remembering nothing more until he woke up in a rooming-house in Dayton, O., is told by Earl F. Welker, aged 35, who Thursday night voluntarily surrendered to Sheriff Hurlburt, declaring that he was wanted in Columbus for embezzling $575. His story was confirmed by telephone and he will be returned to the Ohio city for trial.

Welker first went to Chief of Police Clark, he says, and offered to surrender, but the chief refused to detain him, because the belief that Welker was "broke" and merely wanted free transportation to his home state. The chief, however, advised Welker to see the Sheriff. Mr. Hurlburt agreed to hold Welker until he could get an answer to a telegram to the Chief of Police of Columbus. The answer was a request to hold the young man.

Wife Gets Credit for Surrender.

Mrs. Welker, aged 21, who followed her husband to Portland, is given the credit by her husband for inducing him to surrender. Their first idea was to find employment here and eventually reimburse the Franklin Cullingham Supply Company, from which the money was embezzled, but neither was able to find work, and after passing a week in the city, during which they lived in a room at 712 Hoyt street, Mrs. Welker overcame her husband's determination not to surrender.

Only Silver Found Missing.

"I found the currency, amounting to about $450, in an inside pocket, but silver amounting to $125 was missing," he states. "When I left the bank it was all in a bag with the passbooks. Where the silver went and how the currency got into my inside pocket I haven't the slightest idea.

"I fear possessed me, as I knew my story would not be believed, and I went to Cincinnati, then to St. Louis, and next to Kansas City, stopping only a few hours in each city. From Kansas City I sent my wife money to join me, explaining in the accompanying letter what I had done, but before she arrived I became afraid of being caught and started West, leaving a note for her announcing that I could be found in Portland. I stopped off a day or two at Cheyenne, Wyo., en route.

LEPER'S BODY CREMATED

BROTHER WILL BE RELEASED AFTER NECESSARY PRECAUTION.

Bedding and Everything Used in Case of Victim Are Burned—Incineration Kept Quiet.

Portland no longer has a leper or a leper isolation hospital. After three weeks of suffering at the temporary isolation hospital, near Kelly Butte, Dominico Pinelli, the Italian who was found recently in the last stages of leprosy, is dead. The body was cremated yesterday and the tent and all the bedding and other things used at the hospital were burned.

Paseo Pinelli, the brother of the leper who sacrificed himself to attend to his brother, when released after a few days of detention, during which time he will be given treatment to prevent development of the disease in him if he has become infected. All his clothes and personal effects were burned yesterday and he was newly outfitted. He will receive a series of baths in disinfectant water, which he will be released. In the meantime he will be kept at his tent at the detention hospital.

Dominico Pinelli was found in a First-street rooming-house, about three weeks ago and as soon as his case was demonstrated fully to be leprosy, he was removed to an isolation tent. It was said at the time of his removal that he could not live long. While at the hospital, although given all possible medical attention, he grew rapidly worse until the end.

For fear of there being some obstacles in the way of cremation of the body, the death was not announced until after the body had been burned. The leper's brother knew of the death, having been at the bedside at the time, but not until after incineration did he know that the body had been removed.

CARE OF CHILD ADVISED

HEALTH LECTURERS DEMONSTRATE TO BENEFIT MOTHERS.

Exercises Given on How to Build Up Before and After Operations. Sex Talks Are Given.

The two sex lectures were given yesterday by W. Earl Flynn at the Elevator-street Theater. The subject in the afternoon was "What a Woman Ought to Know," and in the evening "What a Man Ought to Know." In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Flynn gave exercises to the mothers who were present and the many pains suffered by many women, and also gave exercises demonstrating how to build up before and after operations. Mr. Flynn dwelt several minutes on the care of the child, showing how easily it was influenced in its young life by what it sees. He said: "Let me make some practical suggestions for you in the care of your child. If he hasn't the best home, send him out where he can see the best there is in life. Do not put your immature boy in a workshop or factory. His young body may be dwarfed, his mind left undeveloped, his morals thwarted and his aspirations killed. Send him to school until of proper age for business, that he may get, in youth, the influence of good environment. Do not nag the child, but show him by your own person, call his attention to others who look as you wish him to look, and thus develop his pride in himself. Children should always sleep apart; avoid all irritating clothing. Be careful what you feed your children after 7 o'clock at night." Mr. Flynn will open his fifth week Sunday night. The subject will be "Cause and Cure of Hardening of the Arteries and High Blood Pressure," and "The Relation of the Spiritual to the Physical Body." Tonight, "Nerves in and out of Order" and "A Sick Mind" will be the topics.

BELGIUM PRESENTS PLAINT

Vice-Consul in Portland Reports Action Taken in Washington.

C. Henry Labbe, of Portland, Vice-Consul for Belgium, yesterday received advice from the Belgian Minister in Washington has handed to the State Department a memorandum from the Belgian Vice-Consul in Chicago charging that Germany has violated the international law of the Hague convention in trying to force Belgian workmen to work for the benefit of the German army and to the detriment of Belgian interests. It is represented that the German authorities tried to induce Belgian workmen to engage in railway operations that would make about an army corps of Germans available for the trenches. The Belgians refused the employment, whereupon, it is declared, the German authorities resorted to coercive measures, such as arrest, imprisonment, deportation and confinement in concentration camps.

ARMY FLIER KNOWN HERE

Lieutenant Sutton on Leave After Death of Companion on Flight.

According to advices from New York Redondo B. Sutton, of the United States Aviation Corps, known to Portland as "Doc" Sutton who narrowly escaped death in a flight at Fort Sill, is at the Hotel Astor. Lieutenant Sutton has entirely recovered from the injuries of the flight in August when his companion, Captain Knox, was killed, and is in New York on leave. He declared that his accident will not deter him from making future flights, as he considers the aeroplane one of the biggest assets of the army. Lieutenant Sutton was educated in the Portland schools and after his graduation from Portland high, now Lincoln, received his West Point appointment.
