

PRESIDENT AND HIS FIANCEE PLAN TRIP

Wedding Arrangements Now Being Made—Honeymoon May Be on Yacht.

"ROYAL" HERITAGE SHOWN

Mrs. Galt Direct Descendant of Indian Princess Pocahontas—Her Tastes in Many Particulars Are Like Mr. Wilson's.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The President and Mrs. Norman Galt, his fiancee, began today making preliminary arrangements for their wedding, but their detailed plans have not been discussed, even with their intimate friends or relatives.

A wedding trip is being considered, but the place has not been revealed. The Presidential yacht Mayflower may be used.

Despite reports that the wedding might be held soon, it was said today, in well-informed quarters, that the plans still were for a wedding early in December.

Dinner Given at White House.

A dinner was given by President Wilson at the White House tonight for Mrs. Galt, the fiancee, including Secretary and Mrs. McAdoo, who leave tomorrow for a trip through the West. Secretary and Mrs. McAdoo will not return to Washington for nearly a month, and as Miss Margaret Wilson, the President's eldest daughter, will not come home from the West until about October 20, it now is considered certain that the President and Mrs. Galt have not changed their original intention of delaying their marriage at least a month.

The President and Mrs. Galt are being urged to go to Pass Christian, Miss., for their honeymoon by the Misses Lucy and Mary Smith, cousins of the President, whose home is at New Orleans.

The President spent Christmas at Pass Christian two years ago and it was suggested today that he might be married during the Christmas recess of Congress and go for a short trip South.

Heritage Is Royal.

Mrs. Galt is proud of the fact that she is a descendant, in the ninth generation, from the marriage of John Rolfe and Pocahontas, the Indian princess who saved Captain John Smith's life when the dourly English colonist was to have been killed at her father's orders.

The President's brother, Mr. Galt, confirmed the family's descent from the Indian princess and the British colonist, Rolfe. He said the family had always taken great pride in their lineage.

Mrs. Galt will bring to the White House the first strain of Indian blue blood that the historic executive mansion has ever known. Literally she is an Indian princess, by descent, and can rightfully claim "royal blood."

Pocahontas is a familiar figure in American history. Her name is known to the story of her intervention to save Captain John Smith.

Records Show Relation.

While records in the Virginia State Library do not indicate the relationship of Mrs. Galt herself to the Indian princess, they do state very clearly the relationship of the Boelling family to the Indian princess.

Jane Rolfe, daughter of Thomas Rolfe, who went to Virginia in 1640 and settled at Henricopolis, 16 miles below Richmond, following the death in England of his parents, John Rolfe, and Pocahontas Rolfe, was married in 1675 to Colonel Robert Boelling, of Boelling's Hall, near Bradford, England, who settled in Virginia in 1680, following the troublous days of the Stuart kings. Dying a year later, she left one son, Robert Boelling.

Powhatan Boelling, descendant of this Boelling, ran for Congress against John Randolph, of Roanoke, Va., afterward Speaker of the House of Representatives, who was himself a descendant of Pocahontas, being a son of Jane Boelling.

Tastes Like Those of President.

Like the President, a native of Virginia, having been born and reared in the western mountains about Wytheville, Mrs. Galt comes from one of the Old Dominion's "blue-blood" families. Her father, Judge William Boelling, was a prominent lawyer. Her brother, Ralph Boelling, is a Government employe in Panama. She was educated in a Wytheville private school.

Tastes of the President and Mrs. Galt are in common. She is deeply interested in literature and, like the President's first wife, is interested in charitable work.

Mrs. Galt is also a business woman.

She owns and operates, through a relative, one of the largest Washington jewelry stores. When her husband died, eight years ago, she inherited the interests of his brother in the store.

Fondness for books and music is another characteristic of the President's fiancee. She is an accomplished pianist and is said to have a sweet voice. She takes keen interest in outdoor sports, golf and baseball especially. She has also followed the hounds.

ARMY AIRMAN FALLS

Lieutenant W. D. Talliferro Killed at San Diego.

MACHINE DROPS 1000 FEET

Body Strikes in Bay Near Shore, but Rescue Craft Which Rush to Spot Are Unable to Find Trace of Young Officer.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 11.—Lieutenant Walter D. Talliferro, stationed at the United States Army Aviation Corps School at North Island, fell 2500 feet into San Diego Bay this morning and was killed. His body has not yet been recovered.

Lieutenant Talliferro ascended from the Army hangar on North Island this morning, and had been almost continuously in the air when, about 11:30 o'clock, his machine became unmanageable and fell into San Diego Bay, about a quarter of a mile from shore, and where the water is about 50 feet deep. Rescue boats put out from the shore, but after a long search no trace of the aeroplane or of Talliferro's body had been found. The cause of the accident has not yet been determined.

Lieutenant Talliferro was accounted one of the most accomplished aviators in the Army service. He had several times distinguished himself by remarkable flights, one of his last being September 17, when he established a new altitude record for a plane by remaining in the air nine hours and 45 minutes.

Talliferro rose to his rank of first lieutenant of artillery from the ranks. He was born in Kentucky December 9, 1880. April 23 of this year Talliferro was married to Miss Leicester Sehon, daughter of the late Captain John L. Sehon, U. S. A., retired, and ex-Mayor of San Diego, the wedding being one of the biggest social events of the season.

Dividers from the United States cruiser San Diego worked all day to recover the body, but failed to bring the wrecked aeroplane to the surface by dusk. The machine, which fell from a height of 1800 feet, is held fast in mud, and Army officers who are directing the work say it will require several hours to remove it.

Talliferro, it is declared by eyewitnesses, was attempting to loop the loop when the fatal plunge began. He was strapped to his seat and did not have a chance to save himself.

DEAD AVIATOR SERVED HERE

Lieutenant Talliferro Is Known at Vancouver Barracks.

VANCOUVER BARRACKS, Wash., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—Lieutenant Walter R. Talliferro, who lost his life by falling into the bay at San Diego while maneuvering an aeroplane, was well known to many officers and men in the post. He left this post nearly three years ago for San Diego to join the aviation corps.

When a friend told him that it was almost as bad as committing suicide for him to take up navigation of the air, he calmly replied: "Well, a fellow might as well die in the air as on the land. I'm willing to take a chance." He was with the artillery when he left here.

WISCONSIN ADVERTISE WOODS ADVERTISE

Fellow Democrats Urge President to Meet Demand for Revision of Tariff.

ISSUE AROUSES COUNTRY

Action to Forestall Conditions at Close of War Regarded as Political Necessity if Democrats Are to Win.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, 11.—President Wilson, in being advised by Democratic politicians to renounce the tariff views of his Secretary of Commerce and to urge on Congress the necessity for making important changes in the Underwood tariff law.

These advisers of the President, alarmed by widespread dissatisfaction with the present tariff, concerned because that law has proved a failure as a producer of revenue, and especially alarmed because what may happen at the close of the European war, caution the President to act wisely on the tariff before it is too late.

Those Democratic politicians who feel that revision is a political necessity if the Democratic party is to remain in power, have pointed out that action now taken would be reasonable to such an extent that the tariff, if not then revised, will be too late for the party to derive any benefit from the issue in the campaign.

Tariff Cannot Be Avoided. For a long time it was the hope of Administration supporters that the Democracy could force foreign relations to the fore in its campaign and ignore the tariff. National Democrats, however, naturally intend to raise, they were content to rest their case largely on the fact that President Wilson has kept the United States out of the European war. They have come to realize lately that they cannot avoid meeting the tariff issue and other big issues. Republicans will force to the front.

Politics having been served on the Democrats, the tariff issue will be made a party issue if the coming Congress fails to provide for an adequate Army and Navy, the President appears to be disposed to go much further than many of his party associates, farther than his Secretary of the Navy, but not so far as his Secretary of Commerce. The President, but Secretary Garrison, on the other hand, is inclined to abandon the advocacy of an Army of 220,000, and to compromise on a smaller force. The President intends to take a middle ground.

Gauging of Redfield Advised. Whether the President's views on the tariff can be as readily changed as a pro-business politician would suppose that the Secretary of Commerce—the tariff expert of the Cabinet—would have declared officially against a tariff revision, is a question that has not yet been decided. Yet nothing did more to arouse agitation in favor of modification of the Underwood law—revision upward—than the tariff expert of the House, Redfield, Democrat after Democrat who has called on the President in the past to demand a non-partisan tariff commission. Republicans generally are demanding such a commission; Progressives are clamoring for it; some Democrats want it. The Administration meets this demand with the assertion that the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce and the Federal Trade Commission have all the demands of a Tariff Commission and are equipped fully to advise Congress on necessary tariff changes.

The fact remains that both bodies have regular work they must perform other than the gathering of data on which to base a tariff revision, and the further fact is important that they have yet made no investigations which would enable them to recommend tariff changes at the coming session of Congress, unless it be the Trade Commission could recommend the restoring of a certain amount of duty on lumber.

grounded in law and in justice. We are not trying to keep out of trouble; we are trying to preserve the foundations upon which peace can be rebuilt. Peace can be rebuilt only upon the ancient and accepted principles of international law; only upon those things which remind nations of their duties to each other, and deeper than that, of their duties to mankind and to humanity. We ought to be very careful about some of the impressions that we are forming just now. There is a too general impression, I fear, that very large numbers of our fellow citizens born in other lands have not entertained with sufficient intensity and affection the American ideal, but their numbers are not large. Those who would seek to represent them are very vocal, but they are not very influential. Some of the best stuff of America has come out of foreign lands, and some of the best stuff in America is in the men who are naturalized citizens of the United States. I would not be afraid upon the test of "America first" to take a census of all the foreign-born citizens of the United States, for I know that the vast majority of them came here because they believed in America, and ANTI-KAMNIA TABLETS FOR ALL PAIN. "The efficiency of any drug," says Dr. C. F. Robbins, "is known to us by the results we obtain from its use. If we are able to control pain by means of any preparation, we certainly are warranted in its use. One of the principal symptoms of all diseases is pain, and this is what the patient most often applies to us for, a something to relieve his pain. If we can arrest this promptly, the patient is most liable to trust in us for the other remedies which will effect a permanent cure. One remedy which I have used largely in my practice is Anti-Kamnia Tablets of a natural origin, and especially for women subject to pains at certain times. Two Anti-Kamnia Tablets give prompt relief, and in a short time the patient is able to go about as usual." These tablets may be obtained at all druggists. Side effects: None. They are also unexcelled for headaches, neuritis and all pains.
