

EDISON IS BIGGEST EXPOSITION CARD

Affection Shines in Faces of Many Thousands Who Go to See Inventor.

Human Touch Removes Conception of Wizard as Mere Dynamo; Loggers of Pacific Coast, Have Noteworthy Gathering.

BY ANNE SHANNON MONROE. OREGON EXPOSITION BUILDING, San Francisco, Oct. 22.—A day of glorious golden sunlight slipped in between the fogs to honor Edison yesterday. It was as if the sun caught the rumor that the electric lights of San Francisco, the bay cities and the exposition were to shine forth in all their possible radiance in the great man's honor, and just meant to go to do its biggest and best to show the wizard a thing or two about illumination.

Close to 100,000 people filled the grounds for the rare privilege of looking on this man—for it was advertised that he would not be seen for the evening 20,000 came where the average evening attendance is 5000. Never has such an audience turned out for any celebrity before, and never has there been such intense enthusiasm. Never before at the exposition has such affection shone in so many faces.

Mr. Edison looks perfectly well, calm and placid. He comes by by way of attentive, but from his expression, which changed only once throughout the day, it was as if he had never heard a word that was said. Mrs. Edison's expressive, sensitive face showed her pleasure in admiration of her husband. She would look from the speaker to him every now and then with a proud, mothering sort of affection that made one glad that he had that kind of a wife. When resident Moore presented him with the medal, he smiled pleasantly and bowed to the audience. When the word turned and placed it in Mrs. Edison's hands.

Some one has said: "There must always be a woman at whose feet man may lay his trophies; else why the trophies?" If we have formerly thought of this man as merely a human dynamo, a thing of wire and gears, this one pretty human domestic picture forever removes that conception.

Loggers Celebrate Day. Yesterday was also Pacific Logging day, celebrated at the foot of Mt. Hood. The loggers lunched in the Oregon building. The evening before the loggers were banqueted at the Commercial Club when F. C. Knapp, of the Peninsula Lumber Company of Portland, represented Oregon in an able speech. Mr. Knapp is in charge of one day's session and managed a lively discussion of matters directly in his department. J. Donovan, of Bellingham, is president of the conference, and George M. Cornwall, of Portland, was secretary.

Mr. Cornwall has been actively trying to create the profession of logging engineer as a distinct profession. The main discussion was led by Mr. Langille, of the J. D. Lacey Company, of Portland. He made a fine address on the necessity of organization of all lumbering men.

INDIAN CAN SELL RANCH Government Agent Delivers Deeds for Chehalis Reservation Land. CENTRALIA, Wash., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—For the purpose of arranging it so that some of the Indians may dispose of their land, T. B. Wilson, Indian agent of Tacoma, has been at the Chehalis reservation near Oakville for the past week. Frank Pete was given permission to sell his 105-acre ranch south of the town. The agent during his visit delivered Government deeds for several tracts of land purchased from Indians several years ago.

Peter Heck, of the Chehalis tribe, was unanimously re-elected bishop at the Shaker Convention just closed on the reservation. Indians were in attendance from reservations in Washington, Oregon and British Columbia.

CAPTURED GOODS WANTED French Manufacturers Ask for Plan to Recover Machines. PARIS, Oct. 2.—Manufacturers whose works have been stripped that an official commission make an inventory of the machines that have disappeared as soon as may be possible. It is pointed out by manufacturers that the payment of an indemnity for the machines will not be sufficient. In some cases, years, will be required to replace the machinery. Consequently the French manufacturers will demand the return of the machines themselves.

PERSIAN NOBLEWOMAN WHO HAS COME TO AMERICA TO BREATHE SPIRIT OF FREEDOM IN BEHALF OF SISTERS AT HOME.

MME. ASSAD ULLAH.

PERSIAN LIFTS VEIL

Noble Woman Here to Breathe Spirit of Freedom.

CAREER IS NOTEWORTHY

Husband Is rPhphet of New Oriental Religion and She Has Broken Caste Customs in Marriages of Children.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—When Mme. Assad Ullah, a Persian noblewoman, pleaded for the life of her brother, she started Persian women into their revolt for freedom. Now that woman, on a protracted visit to America, pays the American women the highest tribute that can come from a woman of one nation to those of another.

Mme. Ullah is the wife of Mirza Hassad Ullah, the famous peace advocate and prophet of the Oriental religion, Bahai, which is slowly spreading throughout the Occidental world. He has come to this country to found colleges for the teaching of this religion, which, it is said, is a "combination of the good parts of all religions."

BOMBS TO BURN LOUDLY

Guard in Various contests since its founding.

Fairy Palaces Take Form. In the apparent confusion of yesterday half a hundred fairy palaces were taking rapid form to receive their displays of manufactured products, ranging all the way from raspberry jelly to tugs and conduit pipe.

In a model dairy barn in one end of the great hall a young sculptor was rapidly putting the last touches on a life-size statue of a cow, built entirely out of butter. The sculptor shivered as he worked, for he was inside a glass cold storage case, in which the cow is to be kept throughout the 18 days of the show.

"Dry" Bar Arranged. As one goes from the manufacturers' hall into the Land Products hall the first thing that greets the eye is the 1915 soft drink, "no smoking" bar, all set up and ready for business. The bar is the exact counterpart of the brass-railled bar of the good old days, there is a "no smoking" sign at one end and the list of drinks advertised offers nothing more serious than elder or loganberry juice.

Members of the W. C. T. U. have expressed great interest in the 1915 bar and the introduction it offers for people of Portland to the real merits of Oregon soft-drink products. They have announced to Manager Bateham that they will boost for the bar with all their might, and that they will come over in person and set their feet on the brass rail and contribute to the earnings of the establishment.

Attendance at the show throughout its entire run is expected to be far greater than it was even at the great show of last year. Returning tourists from San Francisco are expected to add an important portion to the daily attendance, and every measure has been taken to advertise the show at the Oregon building in San Francisco and interest people who are routed home through Portland in stopping over for a few days to visit.

Extensive Publicity Given. Returns on the press notices that have been sent out indicate that the Manufacturers' and Land Products Show has received more publicity in the papers and magazines of the Northwest than any other attraction of its kind that has ever been held. More than 1000 columns of space have been given it in the newspapers of Oregon and Washington alone. This strong interest that has been displayed by the press of the Northwest has been largely responsible for the notable co-operation of the counties of Oregon. Twenty-three counties have come in with exhibits, representing the best from the state fair or from county fairs that they have held.

GERMANY DEFENDS ACT

very eyes of the authorities only the utmost severity can bring relief and the government violates the most elemental duty toward the army and its safety that does not adopt the strictest measures. These duties in war are greater than any other.

All those convicted were fully cognizant of the significance of their actions. The court went into just this point with particular care and acquitted several co-defendants only because it believed doubt existed regarding the cognizance of the punishableness of their actions. Those convicted knew what they were doing. Countless public proclamations had declared that support of enemy armies would be treated with the severest penalty, even that the lives of traitors would be sacrificed.

High Motive Is Conceded. "I admit certainly that the motive of those convicted was not un noble and that they acted out of love for the fatherland. But in war the one must be ready to seal one's love for the fatherland with one's blood, whether one opposes the enemy in battle or whether one commits acts in its interest which justly carry with them the death penalty. Among our Russian prisoners are several girls who fought against us in soldier's uniforms. Show me one such have fallen no one would accuse us of treating women cruelly. So why now that another woman has met the death which she risked quite as thinking as her battle comrades?"

There are moments in the lives of people when consideration for the individual is a crime against the whole. Moments that make severity, yes, harshness, a duty for those entrusted with the safety of their own countrymen.

Once and for all the activity of our enemies had to be stopped and sentry rapid form to receive their displays of manufactured products, ranging all the way from raspberry jelly to tugs and conduit pipe.

Door of Evil Activities Guarded. "I could only recognize these pre-emptive measures as a means to open a door for the evil activities of women, who often are handier and more clever than these things than the craftiest man spy."

"He who bears the responsibility, however, may not, cannot do that. Unhappily, the world's verdict, he must travel the hard road of duty. This despite these facts, leniency toward those who were convicted and who, according to recognized standards, forfeited their lives, is being considered.

Execution Regularly Conducted. "The weakness of our enemy's argument is proved by the fact that they do not attempt to combat the justice of the sentence, but by influencing public opinion against us by false reports of the execution. It is asserted that the soldiers assigned to the execution first refused to shoot and finally fired so faintly that the officers had to kill the accused with a revolver."

Australia Has Record Crop. MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 24.—The Australian wheat crop will be far beyond any yield which the commonwealth has ever known. Appeals to farmers last Spring to demonstrate their patriotism by increased acreage resulted in unusually extensive wheat-sowing and it is now estimated that the commonwealth's wheat yield this season will approximate or exceed 150,000,000 bushels.
