fiend and the Mephistopheles of this war." "Neither do I," declared Harden. "I do not know him personally, but I have talked with numerous diplomats, both German and others, who do know him well, and they have always characterized him to me as a man of high ideals and peace-loving nature. I would consider Grey's retirement as the worst possible blow to any hopes for peace within the next six months. If Grey resigns, I believe it will be less because he may be considered responsible for the failure of England's foreign policy, especially in the Balkans, than because, being a man of sense and reason, he does not want to participate in the policy of those who are attacking him, and bringing pressure on him. I am inclined to think that he sees the utter uselessness of letting Europe bleed itself to death, as it is doing."

Maximilian Harden, Noted German Editor, Who Says Britain's Attitude is Delaying Peace in Europe.

Germany economically, financially and industrially, to a point where she would be willing to make more reasonable terms. Harden was of the opinion that people of every country need to be kept from being led by their passions, and that it is the duty of every country to fight and bleed and die, women and children who, at home, work and suffer—are praying for peace.

Liquor May Be Linked With Public Utilities to Aid in Political Trade.

MANY CITIES INTERESTED

Drys Figure on Winning 93 Counties if County Option Wins and on Carrying All but Three of Downstate Cities.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—(Special.)—"Home rule versus county option" may form the lines of the wet and dry fight in the next Illinois Legislature. Such is the opinion of the dry leaders who are already mapping out a campaign to fit that theory.

Legislative leaders point out that a situation may develop somewhat similar to that in 1907, in which the Chicago charter and the township option bill were linked. They look for more trading and logrolling than ever.

Such Logrolling Expected. Legislative leaders point out that a situation may develop somewhat similar to that in 1907, in which the Chicago charter and the township option bill were linked.

17 Cities Would Be Affected. Chicago will not be the only city affected. As the drys view the situation, the issue will extend to all cities of 30,000 population and over.
