The ceremony was read at 8 o'clock, and from 3:30 to 10 o'clock a large reception was held.

The bride was attended by Miss Ruth Plummer as maid of honor, Misses Angle Owen and Marjorie Cameron as bridesmaids, little Virginia Smith, her cousin, of Seattle, as flower girl and Frank Milnos acted as best man.

The bridal parly was most effective, their billowy pink tulle gowns, made with hoop skirts and their old-fashioned hosegays affording an artistic setting for the bride, in her robe of filmy tulle over satin, bands of iridescence recping through the billowy skirts. The bodice was trimmed with rose point lace and the gown was made round length. Her veil was arranged high across the back of her colifure, a tiny wreath of orange blossoms decking the front of her hair. Her bouquet was a shower of bride roses and lilies of the valley.

The bride's attendants' gowns were most attractive. The pink tulle, arranged in cloudlike effect over hoop

Our instructions to the famous editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine were: "Get up a book of recipes of the things people like best. Find the best way to make and bake each one. Then write it out so plainly that even an inexperienced housewife can't have a failure.

"The Cook's Book" was the result. Some of the 90 recipes were originated, many of them were improved upon, and all were personally tested by this best known authority on cooking in America, and she tells so clearly how she made everything that one cannot go astray.

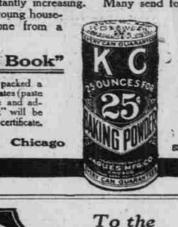

While some of the cakes and pastry are elaborate enough for any occasion, the recipes are all thoroughly practical and call for no expensive and unusual ingredients. In addition to telling how to make them, the book is beautifully illustrated in colors showing how to arrange and serve the dishes appetizingly.

More than half a million of "The Cook's Book" are now in use in American households. Yet the demand is constantly increasing. two or three at a time to give to friends or young house-keepers. Don't depend on borrowing one from a neighbor—have one of your own. Many send for
