

STATE'S STANDARD HIGH SCHOOLS 161

Supt. Churchill Makes Report on Work Covering 12 Months.

LAW'S BENEFIT RETOLD

To Be Offered 'Standard' High School Must Suffer Four Years of Work. Teachers Must Hold Proper Certificates to Instruct.

SALM, Or., Nov. 1.—(Special.)—Oregon now has 161 standard high schools, it was announced today by J. A. Churchill, Superintendent of Public Instruction. The work of standardization has been prosecuted by the State Department of Education for the last year, and but 50 four-year high schools now remain which have not met the standardization requirements.

Under the new high school law, districts maintaining standard high schools are entitled to receive tuition for pupils attending school there, but residing in districts not having high schools. This law requires counties maintaining the county high school fund, but for such counties the State Board of Education is required to establish the standard high schools entitled to a share of the county high school fund, therefore the list given includes all the standard schools of the state.

In order to be standard a high school must offer four years of work; have not less than 250 reference books for the library, chosen from the State Library list for high schools; one standard encyclopedia, and sufficient number of dictionaries and the proper laboratory for each science offered. The teachers must hold certificates entitling them to teach in high schools and all high schools must follow the state course of study or a course approved by the State Board of Education.

About dark yesterday, when near Cow Point, midway between Hoquiam and Aberdeen, the launch, which had been headed up the channel, attempted to turn back toward this city. In the excitement the rudder line parted and before the boat could be brought around Young Neff had gone down for the last time.

SUFFRAGE IS MAIN ISSUE IN NEW YORK

Election on Revised Constitution and Assembly Secondary to Ballot Question.

WOMEN TO WATCH POLLS

'Antis' Predict Defeat of Measure by 100,000 Votes, While Proponents, Saying Result Will Be Close, Claim 10,000 Lead.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Whether women shall be permitted to vote in the overshadowing question to be decided at the New York state election tomorrow. A revised constitution drawn by a convention with Ellhu Root as its president at Albany last Summer, also is to be voted upon, and three Representatives to Congress, a full assembly, eleven Supreme Court Justices and some county and city officials are to be elected by the voters.

More than 6000 women who will work as watchers at the polls tomorrow, agreed tonight to rise shortly after 4 o'clock tomorrow morning and be at the polls at 5:30 o'clock. Leaders of both sides expressed optimism regarding the result of the election, but while the anti-suffragists expected to see the measure defeated by 100,000 votes, the suffragists predicted that the result would be close, but that the proposal would carry by less than 10,000.

Political Leaders Predict Defeat of Suffrage by 250,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—Although somewhat overshadowed by the keenly contested majority campaign in this city and by fights for local offices in some other sections of the state, much interest has been aroused throughout Pennsylvania in the vote on the women's suffrage amendment to the state constitution at tomorrow's election.

Suffragists have conducted a spectacular campaign, including a tour of every one of the 67 counties, and tonight wound up their campaign with more than 200 mass meetings. Many men of prominence have advocated the justice of the women's cause, but the potential political leaders throughout the state are believed to be opposed to the passage of the amendment. Women opposed to the amendment have also conducted a campaign and tonight their leaders predict the defeat of the measure by 250,000.

Women suffrage was not an issue, although not aggressively pushed, and the next Legislature will be asked to submit the question to the voters.

"Carmen" with Geraldine Farrar

Prices 10 to 50 cents—Just think of it! The best photo-plays with the best known stars given to the public at popular prices—that is the Paramount policy.

The acquisition of Geraldine Farrar to the Paramount Program is but another indication of the supreme quality of Paramount Pictures.

You can now see this internationally famous artist in her first screen production—"Carmen"—being shown at Paramount theatres exclusively.

Critics who have had a peep at the picture say it is the most elaborate and realistic interpretation of "Carmen" ever seen.

With all outdoors as a stage, the brilliant acting of Miss Farrar surpasses, if possible, anything she has ever before undertaken.

You must see her—see also the wonderful Spanish settings by the sea—the hills—the market places—the arena with its thousands of spectators watching the most realistic bull-fight ever presented, and many other scenes beyond description.

The public pays $5.00 a seat to see Miss Farrar in "Carmen," but you can see her on the screen at any theatre showing Paramount Pictures at prices from 10 to 50 cents.

Ask the manager of your local theatre when he is going to show Geraldine Farrar in "Carmen."

Miss Farrar will appear in other remarkable screen renditions of her famous roles to be announced later.
