SOCIAL HYGIENE IN STATE IS REVIEWED

Oregon Society, in Session, Hears Reports and Talks on Future Work.

RESULTS ATTESTED

Educators Favor Teaching Subject to Children in Homes Rather Than Schools-Speakers Are Prominent Men.

A feview of the past efforts of the Oregon Social Hygiene Society and a prospectua of its future work were presented at the annual meeting of the organization at the Benson Hotel Mon-day wight Heads of various committees in charge of the several branches of the society's activities reported on the progress of their work.

The most extended address of the vening was that of Thomas M. salliet, dean of the school of education of New York University, who advanced some interesting views on the proper method of teaching social hydrogen.

It was the opinion of every speaker that this subject should be taught to the children, by their parents rather than by their teachers. It will be necessary first to teach the teachers themselves before they can be expected to impart this knowledge, properly, to their pupils explain. their pupils, explained Professor Balliet.

Other speakers emphasized the fact that the Oregon society does not advocate compulsory and universal instruction on this subject in the schools. On the other hand, it was pointed out, the organization has been active to restrict the efforts at promiscuous teaching. Dr. W. T. Foster, president of Reed College, and president of the society, seted as toastmaster, the speaking programme following an informal reception and a dinner.

W. F. Woodward, chairman of the committee on public education, in his of escape. Nearly all the occupants Compulsion Not Idea.

W. F. Woodward, chairman of the committee on public education, in his report emphasized the need of further extension of the succept's activities. He declared that the suffering due to the lack of knowldge on the subject is appualing, and said that the principal difference of their fathers.

The fire started in the lower part of the lower part of the building and spread rapidly to the upper floors, cutting off the means of escape. Noarly all the occupants were asleep when the blaze was disconcilled. But this change of lack of knowldge on the subject is appualing, and said that the principal difference of their fathers.

If applause means anything the name is as good as changing in the interest of the principal difference of their fathers.

The bodies of six adult.

Dr. William House, chairman of the committee on publication, enumerated the numerous books and pamphlets that have been distributed and of the helpful influence that they have had. He called these publications "soldiers of instruction."

A. F. Flegel, chairman of the state extension committee, reported on the activities in the various communities of Oregon outside of Portland, on the interest that the people throughout the state are taking in the movement, and of the house-to-house visitations that recently have been started to interest the mothers.

Rev. W. G. Eliot, Jr., discussed school co-operation. He declared that work co-operation. He declared that work in the schools is necessary because an cent of the parents retuse to instruct their children on social hygiene. He does not believe in introducing the subject as a separate course of study in the schools, however. It should be brought out in the regular course, natural science, biology and physicalogy.

ology,
Mayor Albee, of Portland, told of some of his personal experiences in instructing boys on the subject, and lauded the benefits of such work.

East Looks to Oregon. J. C. English explained the advantages of lectures among the men employed in various industrial plants and reported that on a recent trip East he learned that the Eastern states are looking to Oregon for advice in the work, inasmuch as this state has taken the lend.

W. J. Kerr, president of the State Agricultural College, asserted that it is necessary to start the education along this line with the parents. Similar views were expressed by J. H. Ackerman, president of the State Normal School. He told of some of the difficulties experienced in teaching the subject at the normal college. He raid it is inadvisable to teach it in mixed classes of boys and girls. Experienced teachers of rare fact are required to lay the subject recovery. before the pupils. to lay the subject properly before the pupils.

Brief one-minute talks were given by L. S. Hopfield of McMinnville, who praised the society for dispelling ignorance among the people, and lauded the address of Dr. J. A. Gilbert before the Oregon National Guard at Gearhart last Summer; by Leslie Butler, of Heod River; by J. H. Albert, of Salem, and by W. T. Fletcher, principal of the James John High School of Portland. of Portland.

"For Children," Is Appeal Adolph Wolfe, treasurer of the so-nety, declared that no work that he ever has done has given him more ever has done has given him more pleasure or satisfaction than has his work with this organization. He appealed to other business men of Portland to loin in the society's activities "for the sake of our children."

Dr. Calvin S. White gave a brief account of the early work of the society and its difficulties Dr. J. E. Snyder, who has done much work for the organization in outlying districts, spoke of his experiences in distant parts of the state, and the encouragement that the people had given the movement.

Professor Balliet replied to the recently published criticisms of Dr.
Munsterberg, of Harvard, that this movement is "all wrong" by declaring that Dr. Munsterberg knows nothing

"He is always on the wrong side of very question," he said.

He declared that the idea among some that the sex instinct in the young should be checked is erroneous; it should be directed in proper channels he said.

nels, he said.

"There is nothing normal in human nature that is wrong," he asserted, and urged that the natural instincts can be controlled through the senses of fear, shame and self-respect.

He pointed out that one objection against teaching the subject in the homes is that some mothers have not the proper education, and some fathers have not the proper faculty for clean thinking.

"Following from Colonel Slocum, Douglas, Ariz, received by me while en route to Douglas."

"In an interview with reliable men, nine miles east of here at 3 this afternoon, General Villa learned for the first time that Carranza had been recognized by the United States and that Carranza reinforcements were being transported through the United States for Mexican garrison at Agua Prieta. He became very angry and declared that he was through with them all; that that was how he was to be repaid for the protection he has given Americans and other foreigners, and that he would take Agua Prieta if he had to fight the whole Carranza army and the United States combined. Villa launched into a firade against the United States Government with the assertion that he only had 12,000 troops in his columns now advancing on Agua Prieta and he would throw down the gauntlet to Carbonian and the gauntlet to Carbonian and the same through the United States for the protection had had 12,000 troops in his columns now advancing on Agua Prieta and he would throw down the gauntlet to Carbonian and the gauntlet to Carbonian and the same through the United States for the protection had he would the would the same through the United States for the United State

13 MEET DEATH IN FIRE

The bodies of six adults and four children were among the first recovered. These were found clad in night clothes in bedrooms and in hall-ways.

The positions of several of the dead indicated that an attempt had been made to reach places of safety when overcome by the smoke.

The fire started from a gas explosion in one of the rooms of the tenement-house. The building, a three-story brick structure, was occupied chiefly by foreigners and their families. When the firemen arrived flame were coming from the upper floor and the men were unable to enter the build-ing. Ladders were placed across area-ways and firemen reached the roof of the building and recovered the bodies of the dead.

The police learned that there were less than 30 persons in the building when the fire broke out and were confident that they had accounted for 13 survivors.

No invitations will be issued and it is expected that the only guests will be the members of the two families."

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Mrs. Norman Galt, bride-elect of the President, has arrived here from Washington accompanied by Miss Helen Woodrow Bones. They took rooms at a Fifth-avenue hotel and will remain here over Thursday, when the President comes to speak at the 50th anniversary dinner of the Manhattan Club. Meanwhile Mrs. Galt expects to do some shopping.

The bride-elect and her friend were escorted from Washington by a secret service man. They were met at the Pennsylvania station by Colonel E. M. House and Dudiey Fleid Malone.

MR. KAISER DEFENDS ACT

Stenographer's Dismissal, He Says, Legal and Proper.

That Marcus McManus, the stenographer in the city water bureau, whose dismissal has been made the subject of an official investigation by George W. Caldwell, chairman of the Civil Service Board, was dismissed because of inefficiency, is the assertion of Superintendent Kaiser. He says there is nothing to the statement made by Mr. McManus and others that he was dismissed because he complained to Mr. Caldwell that the work given him was not part of his duties, but the duties of a lesser position.

Chairman Caldwell has branded the case as "the most vital stab in the back civil service has had," and "a case of a man being discharged because he dared stand up for his rights." "The facts are," said Water Superintendent Kaiser, "that Mr. McManus was dismissed for inefficiency and for nothing else. The fact that he may have complained to Mr. Caldwell or the Civil Service Board about the nature of the work given him did not enter into it.

"Mr. McManus' work as a stenographer has never been satisfactory, the chief clerk of the bureau reporting on various occasions thaccuracies, poor work and general ineffectiveness as a stenographer.

list of the Civil Service as far as I dutties.

"Employes of this bureau have in the past, and can in the future as far as I am concerner, visit and discuss their cases with the Civil Service Board whenever they so desire.

"It must be borne in mind that Mr. McManus was only a probationary employe, having been in the service less than two months. At a regular meeting of the Civil Service Board, when sis all members were present, this case was discussed, and one member of the Board said: Mr. Kaiser, I will concede that you were well within your rights when you discharged him."

The case opened with 12 jurors in the box, according to regulations and the Oregon statute. When the case was more than half completed, Circuit Judge Campbell announced a short recess to give instructions to the grand jury, which had just been drawn. He told the grand jurors to go home and return at the call of the court, but several of these sitting in the civil action, overheard his instructions to the grand jurors and misunderstood them and left the building. All but two were located and brought back. Both sides being willing, they tried the case before 10 men. The suit grew out of a horse trade.

Some of the newspapers go so far as to say that the Premier's political future depends on how he acquits himself at this eventful moment.

The principal matters which the country has been discussing and on which requests for a revelation of the government's spolicy have been put forth by the press and by numerous members, including some of the Premier's friends, are the general Balkan situation; the government's policy regarding help for Serbia; the attitude of Greece and Roumania; conscription, the censorship, reduction in the size of the Cabinet and the appointment of a general staff to have supreme direction of military operations.
