

SUCCESS OF OREGON DAY MOST STRIKING

All Seeming Obstacles Swept Away and Blessings Multiply for Big Occasion.

GREAT CROWDS REJOICE

Visitors From State Make Observer Wonder Who Was Left at Home. Addresses Emphasize Tie That Binds Old Neighbors.

BY ANNE SHANNON MONROE. OREGON EXPOSITION BUILDING, Oct. 30.—It's all over and every one's perfectly happy—I mean Oregon day too, they say, though some are a trifle uncertain about it. We were not sure until almost the last minute that a single soul was coming. It's awful to think of a party with that kind of a feeling. It was hard to make anyone but the commissioners—bless 'em, they never fail—see the absolute importance of this last great big day at the fair for Oregon.

Of course there will be other days—exactly 34 of them—but no other special Oregon days. Everyone in Oregon seemed to have other business to attend to. The Governor, to begin with, did not see how he could possibly get away; the Governor's wife naturally shrinks from publicity and hesitated; even some of the commissioners were much absorbed in their own affairs; and according to our register, nearly every Oregonian had already been to the fair.

Many Ones Predict Rain. To add more, the quantities of decorations we looked forward to joyously to receiving from the Portland school children through the active efforts of Mrs. Bertha Taylor Voorhoest seemed in jeopardy on account of rain in Portland. Down here, the heavens glowered, but we were not to make us still more happy. "It will rain." It's held off steadily now for five months without a drop of rain. We could not expect miracles.

But like the very burst of glorious warm sunshine that scattered the fogs and clouds and gave us blue skies under which to rejoice came all the other blessings. Governor Withycombe, Mrs. Withycombe and Miss Withycombe and President Clark, the commission, who always makes things right; and John F. Logan, who organized the Oregon day, and his effective body and is remembered with confidence and pleasure by every member; and C. L. Hawley, who has not spent much time with the fair, but will remain until the close; and at the last minute—just in time to be represented on the platform and make the commission glad to respond to much as La Thompson, of Pendleton, beaming and glad; and the decorations came—boxes and boxes of them—Oregon grape and red rose hips, Oregon apples, Oregon raisins and shining in our faces.

All Oregon Seems to Attend. We heard that the Mazamas had come to our rescue and helped out the children; and we looked toward their exhibit of alpine peaks and photographs showing hardy mountain climbers on fog and snow, and we blissed out. Then the very day came and here we had a very thing there were no Oregonians left in the streets and the fair—just that all had previously visited the fair—but my goodness, before the day was over we wondered if there were a corporal's guard of Oregonians left one was here. They thronged through the building, they filled the reception room, they kept the hostess, Mrs. Charles A. Gray, busy every minute they visited the movie room, they filled the art room—they were everywhere. H. I. Pittcock, and his daughters, Mrs. Emory and Mrs. Heba, were with us, and Charles B. Moores, and Mr. and Mrs. Julius Meier and Senator and Mrs. Hummer, and Mr. Ralph Hoyt and daughter Catherine, and Mrs. J. N. Teal, and Mrs. D. P. Thompson, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meyers, the Misses Failing, Colonel Young and his daughter—but it's no use trying to give names; everyone was here.

Mrs. Eleanor Martin, Oregon's loyal friend, came with a magnificent basket of roses and lilies for Mrs. Withycombe. At 2:30 every seat arranged on the lawn was filled and people were standing clear over to the California building, and on all the balconies all around the exposition grounds.

President of the Commission O. M. Clark, chairman of the day, handled the affair in a quick, vigorous way that moved things right along without a moment's lagging. His own remarks were brief and to the point. All speeches were unusually interesting, because perhaps of the close contacts that tie the two states, California and Oregon.

Long ago Mr. Clark said to President Moore: "Don't mind us; go ahead and do your entertaining and pay your respects to all the other; it's our exposition as it is yours; on this Oregon day, and at the functions honoring Oregon week, California would seem to have been paying us in return measure for all such co-operation."

R. A. Booth, resident commissioner, made a great speech. A passage in Cleopatra I remember. "There is no more West; the journey is over; we stand on the summit of the mountain of time."

Governor Withycombe was particularly happy in his response to the gift of jewels from the Exposition officials, and the speech of welcome by Vice-President de Young.

TESTS OF SAILORS ARE MADE SLOWLY

Insufficient Force of Doctors at San Francisco May Delay Shipping.

CALL FOR HELP IS MADE

Seattle Inspectors Estimate Not More Than 150 of 500 Able Seamen Will Have Licenses Required by New Law.

SAFETY TESTS. The Seattle branch of the Sailors' Union of the Pacific for the immediate appointment of 10 more examining doctors to assist in determining the physical constitution of sailors, was telegraphed today to Secretary of Commerce Redfield by John H. Tennyson, acting secretary of the Sailors' Union of the Pacific. At noon today only 64 seamen had been examined as required under the seamen's act, effective Thursday, it was said, and fears that vessels would be held up through lack of qualified crews were expressed.

Rev. F. L. Frazer. ALBANY, Or., Nov. 2.—(Special).—Rev. F. L. Frazer, who for the past year had been pastor of the Grace Presbyterian Church of this city, has tendered his resignation and will leave shortly for Washington.

Under Rev. Mr. Frazer's direction the Albany church has thrived. The entire work of the church has been thoroughly organized, and every department is reported doing effective work.

Rev. Mr. Frazer took an important part in the affairs of the city. He was secretary of the Albany Ministerial Association.

TRAIN KILLS WOMAN, 66. Mrs. Elizabeth Dunn, Waiting for Freight, Hit by Electric.

Noise of Southern Pacific Cars in Passing Prevents Woman From Hearing Other's Approach.

ALBANY, Or., Nov. 2.—(Special).—Mrs. Elizabeth Dunn, 66, was struck and almost instantly killed by Oregon Electric train No. 9 a Portland-Eugene local as it passed through the eastern edge of Albany tonight.

She was standing in the center of the Oregon Electric track watching a long freight train pass on the Southern Pacific track a few feet away and because of the noise of the freight train did not hear the electric passenger approaching. Trainmen did not see her until too late and the car lurched her from the track. She was badly crushed.

The accident happened where the tracks of the two lines cross Denver street. The street has not been opened across the tracks, but Mrs. Dunn, who lived nearby, was in the habit of crossing there. It is presumed she started across the tracks on her way home, and, seeing a southbound freight approaching on the Southern Pacific track, stopped on the electric track until it passed. It was a long train, and while it was passing, the Oregon Electric train overtook it.

The train was in charge of Frank Johnson, conductor, and Ben Barker, motorman. Mrs. Dunn, a resident of Albany for many years. She and Mr. Dunn were married almost two years ago. Besides her husband she is survived by five children by her first marriage: William Leverich and Purl Leverich, of Albany; Turl Leverich, of Eugene; and Mrs. Vida Cadwell, who resides in the State of Washington.

The headache, the lassitude, the sallow skin, and the lusterless eyes are usually caused by constipation. An ideal remedy for women, and one that is especially suited to their delicate organisms, is found in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a mild laxative compound, pleasant to the taste, and free from opiates and narcotic drugs of every description. Mrs. Gertrude Jordan, 322 North Liberty St., Indianapolis, Ind., says: "It is simply fine; I have never been able to find anything to compare with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. I started using it for the baby and now it is my family's mainstay in all cases where a laxative is needed."

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold in drug stores for fifty cents a bottle; a trial bottle can be obtained, free of charge, by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 454 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.
