The election aroused a large amount of interest. Delegates representing 59 separate civic, fraternal and industrial forganizations were present and were sented by the credentials committee.

A controversy started, though, when it was found that some delegates represented two or more organizations. As these delegates insisted on voing once for each organization from which they bore credentials the meeting was thrown into an uproar until it was determined that no one could vote more than once.

The validity of such a situation—to say nothing of the good taste—was brought into serious question by C. C. Chapman, Dr. Emmet Drake and several other delegates.

Mr. Lepper insisted that he had been spointed in good faith by each of the several associations that he represented and pointed out that if he were denied the right to vote as often as he held credentials some of those associations would be deprived of representation.

J. E. Werlein, who represented both the Transportation Club and the Hawthorne Rose Society, supported Mr.

Lepper in his contentions.
S. C. Bratton, chairman of the meeting, ruled that the rights of the delegates to cast plural votes should not be disputed provided they had credentials to cover each vate. On a question is to cover each vote. On a question of sustaining the ruling of the chair, the meeting voted decisively against the plural voting plan.

Nine Are Chosen.

Inasmuch as some of the delegates with filural credentials already had received plural ballots the difficulty of confining their votes to the proper channels loomed large. So the meeting made short work of a perplexing situation and decided to give everyone present one vote regardless of the source of the credentials.

The nominating committee has presented the following list of 48 names, from which the mine successful candidates were chosen: O. C. Bortzmeyer, S. C. Bratton, O. B. Coidwell, Walter M. Cook, J. H. Each delegate was permitted to vote for nine candidates, but the zeal of some aspirants' friends was so great that they resolved to the "single-whot" system common in the civic elections. On account of the confusion growing out of the effort to establish the status of the delegates, the meeting, before adjourning, authorized the appointment of a committee to draft rules and bylaws to govern such situations in the future. This committee is as follows: C. F. Berg, Jacob Kanzler, Phil S. Bates, C. C. Hall and John P. Carroll. A meeting will be held in about two weeks to consider the report of the committee. The nominating committee recommended last night that women should not be elected members of the festival hoard, but suggested that the arrange ments for selecting the queen and entertaining her should be given in charge of a committee of women. This idea seemed to meet the committee's approval.

Factories Working Overtime and Movement Is Coming West-World's Series Games Witnessed.

R. L. ("Bob") Stevens returned Wednesday evening from an extended visit in the East. Mr. Stevens spent most of the Summer in New York and other New England trade centers, where the wave of prosperity which set in early in the year is most apparent, and Mr. Stevens returns in an optimistic frame of mind.

"Every available manufacturing plant throughout the East is working overtime, and while the war munitions and equipments week, of course in the lead, the prosperity which they set in monities have been noticeable in the East for several months is working Westward, and in nearly all other branches of business. Laurelhurst Delegation Urges Necessity of Building-Question Is Raised Over Manual and Physical Training Items.

Lee Friede, a member of the committee from the Taxpayers' Leagus, in the second day's session of the joint meeting of that committee and School Beard for the consideration of the 1916 budget, took occasion Wednesday to question the advisability of the inclusion of manual training both in high schools of the city and the Benson Polytechnic School.

The question of Mr. Friede was raised when the joint body came to the liem of rannual training that called, in the proposed budget, for approximately $40,000. Benson School was to receive the bulk of the appropriation, and both Washington and Franklin High Schools were considered for increased squipment and supplies.

"Why cannot all the manual training be concentrated in the Benson Polytechnic" gueried Mr. Friede Mr. Allege Mr. Allege Mr. Allege Mr. Allege Mr. Allege Mr. Allege and Allege and School Benson Polytechnic" gueried Mr. Friede Mr. Allege Mr. All

"Why cannot all the manual training be concentrated in the Berison Poly-technic," queried Mr. Friede. Mr. Al-derman asked if on the same ground he would be willing to climinate the cooking and the sewing from all the high schpols and concentrate those subjects in the Benson school for girls. Mr. Friede objected to the comparison.

Duplication Long Questioned.

J. V. Beach, a member of the Board, said that it had always been a question just how far vocational and cultural subjects should be duplicated in the Portland schools. Mr. Alderman explained that manual training was given in the high schools because the boy of beginning high school age does not know what he wants to do, and it is the endeaver of the school system to help him find out by offering him a wider scope than would be allowed by the elimination of manual training.

Another of Mr. Friede's objections came when the item of physical training was being considered. The proposed figures provide for physical training in both the Benson and Franklin schools, and Mr. Friede declared he saw no reason why physical training should be given in those schools.

$44,165 is Eliminated. Duplication Long Questioned.

$44,165 In Ellminnted.

The presence of a deputation from the Laurelhurst district, arguing for a provision for a new school in that part of the city, and lengthy discussions of different items in the budget, deterred the joint body from doing any extensive work in the matter of eliminations in the school budget. However, $4,165 was slashed from the proposed figures at yesterday's meeting, and of that amount practigally half went in one item, that of the provision went in one item, that of the provision of equipment of kindergartens. The $25,000, named as the figure for the kindergarten, was kept out for the reason that the joint body, in its first session, decided to defer the installation of that branch of school work for the time being for the time being.

Ten thousand five hundred and fortyfive dollars was striken from the appropriation for the equipment for the new Benson Polytechnic School when the committee from the Taxpayers' League and the School Board decided to transfer the printing plant, that is now in operation at the Jefferson High School, to the Benson School, when the latter is complete.

R. L. STEVENS RETURNS

It was also decided to be peor policy to meet with the suggestion of the residents in the vicinity of Shattuck School to provide half the cost of the installation of moving picture equipment, provided the residents raised the other half. The only provision the other half. The only provision made for the purchase of moving picture apparatus was for Lincoln High School, the only high school in the city that meets with the provisions for fire-proof buildings.

The deputation from Laurelhurst, headed by the president of the Laurelhurst Club, H. S. McCutchan, pleaded for the establishment of a school in that district. "We want no extensive building, nor appropriation for the improvement of the grounds," said Mr. McCutchan, "but we do insist that Laurelhurst needs a building as badly as any portion of the city."
