Offer Refused, Ministers Are Summoned.

Ex-Premier Declares Nation's Ideals Are in Peril.

CROWN ADVISERS BLAMED

King Declared to Have No Responsibility Under Constitution—Attitude Held to Favor Bulgaria and Turkey.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—King Constantine has again offered the Premiership to M. Zaimis, who had resigned on the defeat of his Ministry in the Chamber according to a Reuter dispatch from Athens. M. Zaimis refused to accept the offer and a council of Ministers was called. The dispatch adds: M. Zaimis refused to retain the post, the correspondent says, originally. Although he had provisionally accepted the Premiership to ease the situation, he was determined, as he had previously declared, to abstain from taking an active part in internal politics.

Britain's Promises Explained. One of the statements of M. Venizelos which attracted special attention in the debate in the Chamber of Deputies was that Great Britain's offer to cede the island of Cyprus to Greece was independent of the result of the war, while other promises of concessions were conditional on the success of the allies.

Greece, he said, was to acquire part of the vilayet of Brusa and Bulgaria Thrace, while Bulgaria was to be a part of the territory she gained as a result of the Balkan War.

Cost to Greece Small. All this, he declared, would be obtained by Greece at small cost, since the proposals of the entente powers required only the assistance of smaller units of the Greek fleet.

Referring to the allegation that Serbia had failed to take the Bulgarians 150,000 men in accordance with the provisions of the treaty of the alliance, M. Venizelos said she actually had 130,000 troops opposed to the Bulgarians. If Greece had taken the field, the ex-premier asserted, her army today would have been within a short distance of Sofia and Serbia could have devoted her energies to holding back the Austro-Germans, whose numbers were less than had been reported.

Confidence in Government Lost. M. Venizelos declared that the foreign policy of the government did not have the confidence of the country. "Moreover," he added, dramatically, "we consider it fatal to the country."

Under the constitutional regime, he said, the King could have no responsibility. Ex-Premier Venizelos said, however, that he did not mean to throw on the King responsibility for the present situation in Greece. He blamed those who had failed to advise His Majesty as they ought and said the crown could not refuse to recognize the vote of confidence accorded by the Chamber of Deputies to the preceding Cabinet.

M. Gounaris, Minister of the Interior, interrupting, said he thought the policy of M. Venizelos would lead the country to ruin and that to take opposition against the central powers would be disastrous for Greece and Serbia.

Apology Made for Past. Resuming his speech, M. Venizelos apologized for his policy of last February and discussed the benefits which Greece might have realized if her neutrality had not been maintained. Continuing, he said: "Your policy has rendered our national ideals impossible, and in serving involuntarily a clerical and reaction group we are exposed to the danger of aiding Bulgarian aspirations and the growth of Turkish power. Why not take part today in a war which tomorrow will be inevitable?"

ITALIAN CABINET AT OUTS ON WAR

PEACE SUGGESTION CAUSES EXCHANGES OF EPITHETS.

Opinion Divided on Campaign in Balkans—Cardona Triumphs in His Refusal to Join.

ROME, via Paris, Nov. 5.—Sharp differences of opinion have developed in the Cabinet concerning the war. These differences have led to an exciting incident.

One of the ministers at a recent meeting of the Cabinet is said to have expressed the view that Italy's interests would be served best by assisting a movement toward the restoration of peace. This caused an angry protest, and charges were made against the good faith of the minister suggesting peace. Epithets were exchanged, and one of the ministers threw a book at the colleague whose suggestion had caused the strife.

While a Cabinet crisis such as those which have occurred in France, England and Russia has been avoided, opinion here is divided concerning the conduct of the war, especially as regards a Balkan expedition. Lieutenant-General Cardona has triumphed in this respect. He said he would rather resign as chief of the general staff than allow a part of his troops to participate in a Balkan undertaking, and his view was finally adopted by the entire Cabinet.

The Navy Department also has passed through a crisis. Admiral Camillo Corai was substituted for Vice-Admiral Viale as Minister of Marine, and this action was quickly followed by the relieving of Vice-Admiral Thaon di Revel from the head of the naval general staff. Vice-Admiral Corai has not assumed active direction of the fleet, which is expected to lead an aggressive campaign.

BRYAN BREAK WITH WILSON IS DEFINITE

Speech of President Forged Library

PARTY'S FUTURE IS AFFECTED

Ex-Secretary's Opposition Is Challenged in Advance.

OLIVE BRANCH WITHDRAWN

Alienation of Support From Administration Fully Expected—Fight on Other Policies Probably Will Follow.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(Special.)—William Jennings Bryan, Secretary of State for two years and the man who made Woodrow Wilson President of the United States, broke finally and definitely today with the Chief Executive. The cause of the break, which may have vital influence on the future of the Democratic party, was President Wilson's preparedness programme. That programme, which was described generally by the President in his Manhattan Club speech last night, is set forth in detail in a formal statement made by Secretary of War Garrison tonight.

CHALLENGE TO CHRISTIANITY DETECTED

President Wilson proclaimed the necessity of an increase for the Regular Army, the creation of a better National Guard and the organization of a citizen army of 400,000 men.

Secretary Garrison asserts that the policy proposed by the Administration proceeds upon the basis of existing conditions of a legal and constitutional nature and recognizes existing institutions and the feeling of the people concerning the general subject matter.

Mr. Bryan denounces the Administration's policy as a departure from our traditions, a reversal of our National policy, a menace to our peace and safety and a challenge to the spirit of Christianity which teaches us to influence others by example rather than by exciting fear.

Expected Issue Precipitated. Thus the issue expected by the Administration when Mr. Bryan laid down the portfolio of Secretary of State is clearly joined.

The President prepared for Mr. Bryan's statement by inserting in his Manhattan Club speech the challenge: "If men differ with me in this vital matter, I shall ask them to make it clear how far, and in what way, they are interested in making the permanent interests of this country safe against disturbance."

Mr. Bryan presents no plan. He has none and repudiates the idea. He does not want the Nation, to quote his own language, "to tote a pistol or carry a club." He asks why our policy of unpreparedness should be reversed, when the President himself said: "We are not threatened from any quarter. The President anticipates Mr. Bryan in these words: "I would not feel that I was dis-

Friday's War Moves

ANOTHER 24 hours have complicated rather than clarified the situation in Greece, the attitude of whose King is causing the entente powers much concern. Apparently determined that M. Zaimis shall remain in the office of Prime Minister, King Constantine yesterday urged him to retain the Premiership. According to Athens dispatches, however, M. Zaimis declined to acquiesce in the King's desire, whereupon the King called a council of ministers, the deliberations of which may or may not determine whether Greece is to align herself against Bulgaria or persist in her attitude of "benevolent neutrality," which means that, though the allied troops may cross her soil, her armies shall not aid them in driving the Bulgarians from Serbia.

While Greece hesitates, the Serbian army is being slowly but surely ground down before the combined pressure of the Austro-German and Bulgarian forces. The fate of Nish hangs by a hair, and it is only at the southern end of the battle front that the Bulgarians are meeting with any reverses. There, according to reports, the British are co-operating with the French, but as heretofore, those reports are unofficial and fragmentary and it cannot be said authoritatively whether the British are in touch with their new enemy.

If the Bulgar-German tide is turned, the opinion in London is that it will be some weeks hence, involving a period of uncertainty such as preceded before Paris and on the Yser. But giving the entente powers a month's time, it is argued that they could throw nearly 500,000 men into Serbia, not including the troops of the Austro-German and Bulgarians, and not only dispute the advance of the central powers, but, in test Bulgaria's occupation of Serbian Macedonia.

The Germans remain on the defensive in the east and west. Neither theater has developed any large battles.

A British official communication from the Gallipoli Peninsula yesterday says the Turks launched attacks against the British right in the Anzac region, but that they did not dent the British line.

OREGON IS BIG WINNER

State Leads in Sheep, Goat and Swine Exhibits at Fair.

OREGON BUILDING, Exposition Grounds, San Francisco, Nov. 5.—(Special.)—Today's judging in the sheep, goat and swine show, brought Oregon up into the list of big first prize winners. Oregon took all the Cotswold prizes save one, which went to the University of California, and many seconds, thirds, fourths and fifths—all taking money among the Shropshires.

In hog Oregon was two firsts on Poland China and several seconds in Berkshire, seconds in Duroc Jersey, several firsts, seconds, thirds and fourths in Hampshire, two seconds and two thirds.

The competition is extremely keen. Assistant Secretary Roosevelt followed Secretary Daniels at the radio telephone and later Mr. Daniels received the distinction of being the first woman to converse by wireless waves.

The Secretary's office was crowded with Naval officers and bureau officials during the demonstration, which lasted half an hour. Many of them conversed with Admiral Usher.

The instrument used was the regular desk telephone on Mr. Daniels' desk. It carried the sound to the great Arlington, Virginia, radio station, where the transfer was made automatically by delicate mechanism and the voices of the speakers burst out into the air to be audible thousands of miles away by the radio operator, whose set happened to be tuned to the right pitch and who was listening.

"GALLERY" PLAY MAY END

Move Made to Appropriate Part of Council Chamber for Offices.

"Playing to the gallery" may become a lost art with the City Council. For a plan has been suggested by Commissioner Baker to do away with the gallery. He presented a plan to the Council yesterday to floor over the gallery space to provide additional office space in the building.

Ever since the City Hall was built the gallery has held the people attending Council sessions. Since Commission government has been in existence the public has been permitted to go on the Council floor. Mr. Baker says this is the only place in the building he can find to provide additional office room.

NAVY ORDER IS SENT BY WIRELESS PHONE

Day of Commands to Fleet Foreshadowed.

DANIELS TALKS TO ADMIRAL

Other Stations Overhear and Copy Conversation.

EXPERIMENT IS SUCCESS

Noise Does Not Affect Clearness of Voices and Ordinary Conditions Prevail—Every-Day Desk Telephone Is Used.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Secretary Daniels transmitted today the first naval order ever sent by wireless telephone to Rear-Admiral Usher at the New York Navy-yard.

From his desk in the Navy Department, the Secretary talked to the commandant of the New York Navy-yard by way of the big Government radio towers at Arlington and ordered a report on repairs to the dreadnought New York.

Navy officials say the accomplishment brings closer the day when the Secretary of the Navy may sit at his desk in Washington and talk to the fleet commanders all over the world.

Cable Order Transmitted. Secretary Daniels transmitted this verbal order, which was taken down by a stenographer in Admiral Usher's office and acknowledged verbally by the Admiral himself.

Rear-Admiral Usher, commandant, New York Navy-yard, reported as soon as practicable after the arrival of the New York how soon can the repairs required be completed. "DANIELS."

Navy wireless stations in all parts of the country were cabled together to catch the conversation. While Secretary Daniels was still talking with Admiral Usher, the Charleston, S. C., station telegraphed that the order had been overheard and copied there.

Mrs. Daniels Has Privilege. Assistant Secretary Roosevelt followed Secretary Daniels at the radio telephone and later Mr. Daniels received the distinction of being the first woman to converse by wireless waves.

The Secretary's office was crowded with Naval officers and bureau officials during the demonstration, which lasted half an hour. Many of them conversed with Admiral Usher.

The instrument used was the regular desk telephone on Mr. Daniels' desk. It carried the sound to the great Arlington, Virginia, radio station, where the transfer was made automatically by delicate mechanism and the voices of the speakers burst out into the air to be audible thousands of miles away by the radio operator, whose set happened to be tuned to the right pitch and who was listening.

Ordinary Conditions Met. To all appearances it was an ordinary long-distance telephone conversation. No effort was made to subdue the hum of voices in Secretary Daniels' office, and apparently the noise did not affect the clearness of the voices as heard in New York. Replies to questions come back instantly and with little need for repetitions.
