Northwest Wheat to Europe Going New Way.

PANAMA CLOSING IS CAUSE

First Carrier to Leave Portland Over Egyptian Course is Japanese Steamer Hokoku Maru, Which May Go Tonight.

Still another route is to be patronized since the Panama Canal is closed to navigation, in getting Northwest wheat to Europe, and that is by way of the Suez Canal. The first carrier to leave Portland with orders to follow that course is to be the Japanese steamer Hokoku Maru, which took on the last of her cargo yesterday and may sail tonight, depending largely on the progress of repairs to her boilers.
