DAINTY ODOR CLEW

Lace-Bordered Handkerchief Found After Robbery.

TWO GIRLS ARE ARRESTED

Frank Fernald, Pondering Over Presence of Pleasing Fragrance and Bit of Linen, Discovers Money and Watch Are Gone.

It was only a handkerchief, a coman's handkerchief, dainty and lacebordered. About it lingered a faint odor of heliotrope. The fragrance was pleasing to Frank Fernald as he held the bit of linen to his nostrils Thursday morning.

The handkerchief itself was not un-The handkerchief itself was not unusual, but Fernald was put to it to fathom the presence of that dainty reminder of the eternal feminine on the floor of his room at No. 7 North Ninth street that morning. It was not until he had fully dressed and had looked vainly on the bureau, under the bed and under the pillow for his gold watch and chain that a suspicion crept into his mind.

Perfume Clew Trailed.

Then he noticed that his trousers pocket did not give forth the jingle that the presence of the $12 he had placed therein the night before would insure. He felt within—the money was missing. So, too, was his watch. Ha! the handkerchief. A clew!

Fernald called his landlady into consultation, Mrs. Hamilton—that was her name—smiffed at the evidence.

"H'm," she observed." "Smells mighty like the perfume those girls in No. 14 across the way have been using. We'll see." Perfume Clew Trailed.

"One of you girls dropped your hand-kerchief in the hall?" she inquired, blandly, a moment later of the occu-pants of the room across the way.

Girls in Tears, Flee, Are Caught. "That's yours, Laura," said Miss Lena Scheel, aged 19, is reported to have said to Miss Laura Johnson, aged 19. "So it is," said Laura, and took the handkerchief.

Pollowed a denunciation on the part the landlady, tears from the girls, ac police were not called immediately, and in a moment's absence of Mrs. Hamilton the girls fled. Vancouver Hamilton the girls fied. Vancouver was the haven.

Yesterday both girls were arrested by Detectives Hill, Hammersley, Howell and Vaughn. Miss Scheel is said to have admitted that she had pawned the watch, getting $3 for it. But she denied the theft. Miss Johnson maintained a stony silence regarding the entire transaction.

Fioth girls will meet Municipal Judge Stevenson this morning and will have all opportunity to explain why the charge of larceny against them is all Wrong, if such is indeed the case.

SEATTLE MAN IS SOUGHT

Wife Enlists Aid of Police in Search for A. O. Stanley.

Supposed to have arrived in Portland on October 15, A. O. Stanley, of Seattle, has dropped out of sight, and his wife is enlisting the aid of the pelice in her search for him. Mr. Stanley was formerly of Marshfield, Or., and was foreman of gravel work in Southern Pacific bridge construction. Mrs. Stanley believes that he may be in concrete or masonry work in Portland or vicinity.

He left his wife no money, and she is ill, she writes. He was short, stout, with a full face and gray hair.
